This is one of my Seward /Billiter connected line family's of my Mothers line. The early Seward lines were researched by my daughter Sherylnn Kay Houser in 2000. I checked all of them from WikiTree & Family Search internet sites in Sep 2018.Some info different

I started doing genealogy in 1969 and all my grand parents were gone but had other members of their's could get info from. Otherwise I worked at the court house and library and cemeteries to find info that I could.

I with others spent many a week at the Ft. Wayne, IN library, Salt Lake City library, Madison, WI library and many hours at Columbia, MO library just about every year from when I started. There was 4 of us who went to Iowa City every month during the good weather but now one has moved, one has passed and the other can't get out any longer and no fun to go by your self. So decided it was time to stop. This was before the internet so didn't have that to rely on but was just as well as have found a lot of wrong info on the internet. (I can't say mine is all right either) As much of it was not able to be proven for sure so just had to go by what we could find. But if anyone has proof of what you find is wrong in any of my books I would appreciate knowing it. We know every one is not 100% right as no one is perfect, even in research. New Data June 2017-GLT

So hope these books will be appreciated and enjoyed as much as I had putting them together. But I think now is the time to turn them over to someone else to enjoy as I can't get to the libraries any longer and only the internet to rely on and that isn't as much fun as going to the places where your ancestor's walked themselves.

You will notice different address's but the one above is correct.

HUSBAND - William Seward

Info from FamilySearch internet site 1st Gen known: with only birth date and place and wife Mrs Wm Seward birth and one son William 2nd generation of Sewards Known.

At the end of this book is a lot of research done on the Sewards from several sources. Too much to copy so added the info to the back. Much more info then I had located individually.

CHILD 1 - William Seward

*Sep 2018 located info on this William Seward b abt 1604-09 Exeter, Devonshire, Eng. Died Dorchester, MA. 2nd gen known. Wife Mrs Wm Seward md abt 1629 and listed birth 1609 Eng. and 1 son Obadiah Seward I (copy)

Some info from Lee Marks and others from the internet and Sheri also found some info on the internet.

It was stated William Seward of England maybe the father of the first Obadiah Seward. Some not sure? Will list him in case we find later it is and if not can remove him. Stated from the internet his father was Michaell Seward.

On Jan 6, f1634 William and his wife left England, at the Port of London, on board the Bonaventure for St. Christopher's and the Barbadoes. This was the preferred method of leaving England as it did not require the approval of the State and the Church. It was said Williams wife gave birth to Obadiah Seward while on route to America. They landed at Dorchester, which is now Dorchester Heights, MA. It is believed the family remained in Dorchester except Obadiah migrated to CT.

CHILD 1 William Seward

Sep 2018 Inserted info on Rev William Seward in ext 1804-05 Shelter Devonshire, Eng. Used Gordonsville_MA_2nd ceo forever. Wife Mrs Wm Seward nd abt 1629 and about 1628 Eng, and 1 son Christian Seward 1 (copy)

Some info from Lee Marks and others from Sheri also found some info on The Internet.

Thinks sister William Seward of England to make the Letter of the first Christian Seward. Some not sure? Will list him in case we find later it is and if not can remove him. Taken from the memoirs his father was Major Seward.

On Jan 6, [1634] William and his wife left England, at the Port of London, on board the Bonaventure for St. Christopher's and the Bermudas. This was the preferred method of leaving England as it did not require the approval of the State and the Church. It was said William was part Irish, born in Dublin. Seward was on route to America. They landed at Dorchester, which is now Dorchester Heights, MA. It is believe the family remained in Dorchester several Generation migrated to CT.

HUSBAND - William Seward

CHILD 1 - William Seward

Some info from Lee Marks and others from the internet and Sheri also found some info on the internet.

It was stated William Seward of England maybe the father of the first Obadiah Seward. Some not sure? Will list him in case we find later it is and if not can remove him. Stated from the internet his father was Michaell Seward.

On Jan 6, f1634 William and his wife left England, at the Port of London, on board the Bonaventure for St. Christopher's and the Barbadoes. This was the preferred method of leaving England as it did not require the approval of the State and the Church. It was said Williams wife gave birth to Obadiah Seward while on route to America. They landed at Dorchester, which is now Dorchester Heights, MA. It is believed the family remained in Dorchester except Obadiah migrated to CT.

Located many sources that had Seward info and have copied some of them in the back of the book.

Some info from Lee Marks and others from the internet and Sheri (my daughter) also found some info on the internet.

It was stated he maybe the son of William Seward of England. Some not sure?
It was stated Obadiah was born abt 1635 while family en route to America by way of St Christopher's and the Barbadoes on board the "Bonaventure" after leaving London 6 Jan 1634. Landing in Dorchester, MA eventually. (no date for that).

Was stated he married 1660 Milford,New Haven Co.,CT to Bethiah Hawes. Her name also has been spelled Bethyah Hawes.

Apparently living in Milford by 1660 as was married 31 Oct either 1660 or 1661, not sure of year but believe prob. 1660 as 1st child, Obadiah II was said to have been born 1 Nov 1661.

Obadiah arrived in Southold, Long Island, NY in 1664 with his 3 year old son.
In Brookhaven, Suffolk Co. NY by 1664 where he drew lot # 49 and a tax payer there as late as 1675.

It was stated Obadiah 1661-aft 1699 was married to Diana ?.
Appears this Obadiah was married to Diana Biggs as somre records listed father in law as Thomas Biggs.

Also been stated she was Anna Diana Biggs but most think they were two different people. For now will list them as separate wives till can sort out more info.
It would fit that there were 4 Obadiahs in direct line instead of 3 but still need to be proven.

Also stated they had at least one son Obadiah III who married Anna Biggs. (Believe Anna ? was wife of 2nd Obadiah)
No other children known at this time.

11 Mar 1699 Obadiah II and Dinah Seward sold their home lot and house. They signed their names with an X. In an earlier record, on June 5, 1684 Dinah Seward witnessed an agreement by her mark.

A 1702 entry refers to Obadiah's "father" (presumably father in law) as "Bigs"; and an entry of the previous year, 1 May 1701, regarding a town meeting refers to "Bigs" as the father in law of Obadiah Seward. Dinah was prob. Dinah Bigs., wife of Obadiah II.
It is thought maybe Obadiah I could write but Obadiah II and III could not and Obadiah IV could also sign his name.

II was styled Obadiah. 1661-aft 1695 was married to Diana ?.

Agnesis this Obadiah was married to Diana Biggs as some records listed father in law as Thomas Biggs.

Also been stated she was Anna Diana Biggs but most think they were two diffe ent people. For now will list them as separate wives till can sort out more info.

It would ot that there were 4 Obadiahs in direct line entitled to 3 but still need to be proven.

Also stated they had at least one son Obadiah III who married Anna Biggs. (Believe Anna ? was wife of 3rd Obadiah) No other children known at this time.

11 May 1259 Obadiah II and Diana Seward sold their home lot and house. They signed their names with an X. In an earlier record, on June 5, 1694 Diana Seward witnessed an agreement by her mate.

A 1701 entry refers to Obadiah's "fauer" (presumably father in law) as "Biggs" and an entry of the previous year, 1 May 1700, regarding a town meeting refers to "Biggs" as the father in law of Obadiah Seward. Diana was prob. Diana Biggs, wife of Obadiah I.

It is thought maybe Obadiah I could write but Obadiah II and III could not and Obadiah IV could also sign his name.

III-G Obadiah of Milford, Connecticut, and the Hawes

The first reference to Obadiah Seward, I, in the Brookhaven records links him to Milford, Connecticut. See Chapter III-F. It was the record of a lawsuit December 29, 1662 in which Obadiah was represented by William East of Milford. Also on October 31, 1660 (1661) Obadiah had married Bethyah Hawes in Milford (Conn. Vital Records for Milford, Vol. 1, p. 4 and Old Long Book p. 13).

The Connecticut town records of early births, marriages and deaths have been abstracted and collected into the Barbour Collection with volumes for each town arranged alphabetically by name. The following are the Hawes and Seward entries for Milford of dates near Obadiah's. The references to the original records have been added by me.

Hawes,

"Bethyah, m. Obed Seward, October 31, 1660" — Vol. 1, p. 4
"Bethiah, m. Obed Seward, October 31, 1961 by Robert Treat, Magistrate" — Old Long Book, p. 13

Seward,

"Elizabeth, d. Nathaniel, m. Walter Smith, Sept. 26, 1676, by Capt. Tapping" — Old Long Book, p. 30
"Mercy, m. Samuel Camp, Jan. 6, 1681" — Vol. 1, p. 18
"Obed, m. Bethyah Hawes, Oct. 31, 1660" — Vol. 1, p. 4
"Obed, m. Bethiah Hawes, Oct. 31, 1661, by Robert Treat, Magistrate" — Old Long Book, p. 13
"Obadiah, s. Obed, b. Nov. 1, 1661, hitherto given into the jurisdiction of New Haven" — Vol. 1, p. 5
"Obadiah, s. Obed, b. Nov. 1, 1661(2)" — Old Long Book, p. 14

Examination of photocopies of the original entries from which the Barbour Collection digests were made indicates that Elizabeth, Nathaniel and Mercy were not Sewards. The handwriting has been misinterpreted in preparing the summary. The original entries to which the other five items relate are:

"Obed Seward and Bethyah Hawes were married on the 31st of October 1660."

"Obadiah Seward sonne of Obed Seward was born the 1st of November 1661. (hitherto given into the jurisdiction" The words beginning with the parenthesis sign appear to have been added subsequent to the original entry because they are in a different handwriting. Note also that the summary in the Barbour Collection has a[illegible] "of New Haven".

Old Long Book, page 13:

"Obed Seward and Bethyah Hawes ... ? ... of Marr[i]age before Mr. Robert Treat ... ? ... the one and thirtieth of October ... ? ..."

Portions including the year are not legible. The date of the immediately preceding entry is 1660. The Barbour Collection abstract includes the date as 1661.

Old Long Book, page 14:

"Obadiah Seward sonn of Obid Seward was bourn the first day of November Anno: 166?. hitherto given into the jurisdiction

(ie) admitted)"

The last figure in the date is unclear and may be 1. It appears to have been overwritten; but the entries just before and just after are 1662. The notation "(ie) admitted)" was added after and below the original entry. It probably refers to the father's status in the Colony, that he was a newcomer but had been accepted. The abstract in the Barbour Collection uses the date 1661(2) and does not include the added phrase about jurisdiction.

The conclusion I draw from the records is that the only Sewards recorded in Milford were Obadiah, I, and Obadiah, II. However, there were three Sewards, Edward, George and William, II (see Chapter III-H about William, I) in the nearby settlement of Guilford which also was a part of the Colony of New Haven. This chapter will deal with the two Milford Obadiahs. The Guilford Sewards and their possible relationship to the Milford Sewards will be discussed in Chapter III-H.

The Hawes

Bethyah Hawes was born in Dorchester (now a part of Boston) in 1637. Her parents were Richard and Anne Hawes who had arrived two years previously on the ship True Love from Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, England.[31] The following is from the History of the Town of Dorchester, Massachusetts prepared by a committee of the Dorchester Antiquarian and Historical Society, page 123:

"Richard Hawes came in the Freelove, Capt. Gibbs, in 1635, with his wife Ann, and two children. His age was 29; his wife's, 26; that of his daughter Ann, 2½; son Obadiah, 6 months. (See Gleanings.) He signed the church covenant in 1636, and was a grantee of land in 1637 and 1646. Their other children were Bethia, born in Dorchester, 27(5) 1637; Deliverance, born 11(4) 1640; daughter Constant, born 17(5) 1642. They had a son Eleazer killed in the war, April 21, 1676. Mr. Hawes died in 1656."

The reference to Gleanings is to J. Savage: Gleanings for New England History in the Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, Third Series, vol. 8 (1838), pp. 243-348.

The records of the First Church at Dorchester (printed edition) contain a list of 1637-1638 baptisms, without individual dates. Bethyah is included as "Bethiah" Hawes. Her parents are listed on page 4 as early signers of the church covenant. They were not among the founding members but were the sixteenth couple to be admitted following the original signers. Individual dates are not given but the Hawes appear to be about 1635-6. The History of the Town of Dorchester says (pp. 13-20) that the first settlers arrived in 1630. The original name of the place where they settled was Mattapan. According to the History:

> "Tradition has always fixed upon the south side of Dorchester Neck (South Boston), in the Old Harbor, as the place of landing."

Dorchester was incorporated into Boston in 1868.

Richard Hawes of Dorchester, Massachusetts provides a history of the family. The following is from page 18:

> "RICHARD HAWES, baptized in Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, England, 2 November 1606, was the son of a Richard of that place, whose will of 9 September 1665; proved 11 January following, establishes the identity of our emigrant ancestor. At Great Missenden the baptisms of two children of Richard, by wife Anne, are recorded. The next that is known of this little family of four is their embarking on the "Truelove", at London, 19 September 1635, for New England. The sailing list gives the ages of all four. (Consult Hotten's Sailing Lists.)
> Richard Hawes, age 29 years
> Ann Hawes, age 26 years
> Anne Hawes, age 2½ years
> Obediah Hawes, age 6 months."

On page 28 of the Hawes book the birth date of Bethiah is stated to be July 27, 1637. The month differs from that in the History of the Town of Dorchester which says May 27, 1637. I am inclined to accept the family history which gives the following account of Bethiah:

> "Bethiah Hawes (Richard) was b. 27 July 1637, as recorded at Dorchester. 23 May 1659, she was living in the family of Zachariah Whitman of Milford, Ct. (Hoadley, Vol. 2: 263-289). He and his wife Sarah were passengers on the "Truelove," 1635, and natives of Bucks. Bethiah m. Obed Seward (Suard), 1 Oct., 1660, or 1661, both dates recorded at Milford; Robert Treat, magistrate, officiating. At Milford is the record of a son,
> Obediah Seward, b. 1 Nov., 1661, or 1662 (both dates given).
> "The next we know of this couple is that they were living at Brookhaven, Long Island, where he was one of the early comers of that settlement. References to the name of Seward there have been gleaned from the (printed) records, and from Mr. Osborn Shaw of Bellport, who has kindly furnished advance information from other volumes of Brookhaven records which he has in preparation."

There follows in the Hawes book numerous quotations from the Brookhaven records about Obadiah.

Great Missenden, the original English home of the Hawes, is in Buckinghamshire, about 35 miles Northwest of London. It is notable for the 16th century house, Chequers, which in 1917 was given to the nation by Lord Lee of Fareham as a country home for the Prime Minister of the day.

At page 20 the Hawes Family History records the handling of the estate of Richard Hawes (the inventory for which is substantial) and mentions the arrangements made for the younger children:

> "Suffolk Probate (also Gen. Reg. IX: 138). At a meeting of the magistrates, 22 Jan., 1656, power of administration to the estate of Richard Hawes, late of Dorchester, deceased, is granted to Major Humphrey Atherton and Leiftenant Roger Clap, they bringing in an inventory (Gen. Reg. V: 400) of ye estate unto ye Court. Edward Rawson, Recorder.
> "Suffolk Probate (also Gen. Reg. XI: 342). "At a county court held in Boston, 29 April 1662. The Court being informed that Major Atherton & Capt. Clap as friends to the deceased Richard Haws of Dorchester, took some care about the estate, binding & placing out the children, the Major being since dead & Capt. Clap rendering to Obadiah Haws sone to ye late Richard an account thereof on request of sd Obadiah, The court judgeth it meet to grant Administration to the estate &c. to Obadiah Hawes his sonne in behalf of himself and the rest of his Brothers & Sisters so as he give security according to lawe". The same day Obadiah deposed that an inventory presented was a true one, to the best of his knowledge, &c. This inventory was signed 27:11 mo: 1656, by jonas Humphrey and Hopestill foster."

Evidently Anne died before Richard and there were young children who had to be arranged for. Bethiah was 18. It was due to the arrangements made by Major Atherton and Captain Clap that Bethyah lived with Zachariah and Sarah Whitman[32] for the five years after her father's death until she married Obadiah Seward at age 23.

Some history will provide the setting. The five original New England colonies were Plymouth (1620), Massachusetts Bay (1628), Dorchester (1630), Connecticut (1636) and New Haven (1638). New Haven's jurisdiction included Milford, Branford, Saybrook and Guilford (adjacent to New Haven) as well as Greenwich and Stamford to the South and the North Fork of Long Island, then called Southold.[33] About 1661 Charles II granted Connecticut a charter which

[32] Atwater's History of the Colony of New Haven to its Absorption into Connecticut, Vol. 2, page 656, gives the following information about Whitman:

"Zechariah Whitman (1595-1666), brother of John Whitman (1614-1692) of Weymouth, Mass., came to Massachusetts (1635) in the Truelove, aged 40 years, with wife Sarah Biscoe, aged 25 years, and son Zechariah, aged two and a half years. He was at Milford in 1639. He was one of the trustees in the first deed, one of the judges chosen by the settlers to act in civil affairs, and one of the seven pillars of the church. His name is engraved on the Memorial Bridge. His wife was a cousin of Nathaniel Biscoe (162?-1683). See Whitman Genealogy (1889) by Chas. H. Farnam of New Haven, Conn., p. 1261. He d. April 23, 1666; his wife Sarah, b. 1619; d. Jan. 2, 1670-71; no children mentioned in his will."

[33] Fiske: The Beginnings of New England, pages 80-2, 92-5,126, 135. The story of the establishment of the New Haven Colony is told by Fiske in his The Beginnings of New England, pages 134-6:

"The overthrow of the Pequots (1637) was a cardinal event in the planting of New England. It removed the chief obstacle to the colonization of the Connecticut coast, and brought the inland settlements into such unimpeded communication with those on tide-water as to prepare the way for the formation of the New England confederacy. Its first fruits were seen in the direction taken by the next wave of migration, which ended the Puritan exodus from England to America. About a month after the storming of the palisaded village there arrived in Boston a company of wealthy London merchants, with their families. The most prominent among them, Theophilus Eaton, was a member of the Company of Massachusetts Bay. Their pastor, John Davenport, was an eloquent preacher and a man of power. He was a graduate of Oxford, and in 1624 had been chosen vicar of St. Stephen's parish, in Coleman [S]treet, London. When he heard that Cotton and Hooker were about to sail for America, he sought earnestly to turn them from what he deemed the error of their ways, but instead he became converted himself and soon incurred the especial enmity of Laud, so that it annexed the New Haven colonies to Connecticut and deprived them of their separate existence. There is a June 10, 1664 reference in the Brookhaven records about making provision for a "committee of Connecticut appointed for settling business on Long Island". Brookhaven adjoined Southold to the West. The Town of Brookhaven was directly across Long Island Sound. What is now Port Jefferson was part of Brookhaven and had a good harbor readily available to New Haven.

The new charter of Connecticut included within the boundaries of the colony "islands adjacent." This was interpreted by the colonists to include Fishers Island, Gardiners Island, Shelter Island and even the eastern part of Long Island. After England took Manhattan and what became New York from the Dutch, Connecticut's jurisdiction over those islands was questioned and ultimately was decided in favor of New York. The loyalty of the residents appears to have been with Connecticut because the towns on both the north and south forks of Long Island (Southold, Westhampton and Southampton) petitioned Charles II, unsuccessfully, to be allowed to remain a part of Connecticut. See Fishers Island by Henry L. Ferguson, p.17, and Short History of New York State by N.Y. State Historical Association, p.31.

The Obadiahs

The two Milford Obadiahs were the first and second Obadiahs of Brookhaven. We do not know the birthdate of the first Obadiah but it is likely that he was older than his wife Bethyah who was born July 27, 1637. Probably he was born about 1635 or a year before or after.

became necessary for him to flee to Amsterdam. In 1636 he returned to England, and in concert with Eaton organized a scheme of emigration that included men from Yorkshire, Hertfordshire, and Kent. The leaders arrived in Boston in the midst of the Antinomian disputes, and although Davenport won admiration for his skill in battling with heresy, he may perhaps have deemed it preferable to lead his flock to some new spot in the wilderness where such warfare might not be required. The merchants desired a find harbour and good commercial situation, and the reports of the men who returned from hunting the Pequots told them of just such a spot at Quinnipiack on Long Island Sound. Here they could carry out their plan of putting into practice a theocratic ideal even more rigid than that which obtained in Massachusetts, and arrange their civil as well as ecclesiastical affairs in accordance with rules to be obtained from a minute study of the Scriptures.

"In the spring of 1638 the town of New Haven was accordingly founded. The next year a swarm from this new town settled Milford, while another party, freshly arrived from England, made the beginnings of Guilford. In 1640 Stamford was added to the group, and in 1643 the four towns were united into the republic of New Haven, to which Southold, on Long Island, and Branford were afterwards added."

Notes

It was stated in Town of Milford,CT Book of REcords, Vol 1 "Obadiah son of Obed, born 1 Nov 1661 and hitherto given into the jurisdiction of New Haven"

It was stated Obadiah 1661-aft 1699 was married to Diana ?.
Appears this Obadiah was married to Diana Biggs as somre records listed father in law as Thomas Biggs.

Also been stated she was Anna Diana Biggs but most think they were two different people. For now will list them as separate wives till can sort out more info.
It would fit that there were 4 Obadiahs in direct line instead of 3 but still need to be proven.

Also stated they had at least one son Obadiah III who married Anna Biggs. (Believe Anna ? was wife of 2nd Obadiah)
No other children known at this time.

11 Mar 1699 Obadiah II and Dinah Seward sold their home lot and house. They signed their names with an X. In an earlier record, on June 5, 1684 Dinah Seward witnessed an agreement by her mark.

A 1702 entry refers to Obadiah's "father" (presumably father in law) as "Bigs"; and an entry of the previous year, 1 May 1701, regarding a town meeting refers to "Bigs" as the father in law of Obadiah Seward. Dinah was prob. Dinah Bigs., wife of Obadiah II.
It is thought maybe Obadiah I could write but Obadiah II and III could not and Obadiah IV could also sign his name.

WIFE - Diana "Anna" Biggs

*Sep 2018 Located some info on Dinah Seward (Biggs) from FamilySearch to "Geni" which has different dates then other sources. Birth date 1680 Brookhaven, Suffolk Co. NY and died 1724 age 44. Daughter of Thomas Biggs and Esther Ackley (Akerly). Wife of Obediah Seward II. b 1661. Mother of Obadiah, Joseph, Abner, Samuel, Sarah and 4 others: Eliamim, Mary, Elizabeth.
9 children. (copy) Other birth date 1665 d. date 1742.

Some info from Lee Marks and also some info Sheri found on the internet.

No info stated for Diana to date but was prob. close to same age as Obadiah.

It was stated Obadiah 1661-aft 1699 was married to Diana Biggs.
Also been stated she was Anna Diana Biggs but most think they were two different people. For now will list them as separate wives till can sort out more info.
It would fit that there were 4 Obadiahs in direct line instead of 3 but still need to be proven.

Didn't locate any info on this Obadiah 1680-1748 in "Geni" internet site Sep 2018.

Some info from Lee Marks and also some info Sheri located on the internet.

There is a problem with dates of Obadiah Seward.
Some have this Obadiah b. 1680 d. 1748, md 1700 Ann Biggs son of Obadiah Sr and Betehiah Hawes and some have this Obadiah b. 1 Nov 1661 aft 1699 and md 1680 Dinah (?). So aren't sure if we have 3 or 4 Obadiah Sewards, by dates could be either. Believe there are 4.
So we have in direct line: "Samuel Seward 1735/1816 or we have

Obediah Seward

Born: March 14, 1821
Died: November 2, 1901

Obediah Seward was a merchant and civic leader who lived in Port Calder for most of his adult life. He was the eldest son of Thomas Seward and Mary Ann Seward (née Whitcomb).

Early life

He was born in Port Calder and attended the local grammar school before apprenticing with a chandler at the age of fifteen.

Career

He opened his own shop in 1843 and later expanded into shipping. He was elected to the town council in 1858 and served as mayor in 1862–63.

Family

He married Elizabeth Hart in 1845. They had seven children, four of whom survived to adulthood.

HUSBAND - Obadiah Seward III *

Didn't locate any info on this Obadiah 1680-1748 in "Geni" internet site Sep 2018.

Some info from Lee Marks and also some info Sheri located on the internet.

There is a problem with dates of Obadiah Seward.
Some have this Obadiah b. 1680 d. 1748, md 1700 Ann Biggs son of Obadiah Sr and Betehiah Hawes and some have this Obadiah b. 1 Nov 1661 aft 1699 and md 1680 Dinah (?). So aren't sure if we have 3 or 4 Obadiah Sewards, by dates could be either. Believe there are 4.
So we have in direct line: "Samuel Seward 1735/1816 or we have

4 Obadiah Seward/ Isable Luce 3
3 Obadiah Seward/ Ann ? 2 (same)
2 Obadiah Seward/ Diana (?) Biggs 2 (same)
1 Obadiah Seward/ Bethiah Hawes 1
William Seward?

If we go by 20 year spans with the generations we could well have 4 Obadiahs. So think that is what we will go with now as more appear to think so till we can prove for sure how many generations we do have.

Obaidah and Ann Bigs had several children but only the sons are known: Obadiah Jr, (md Isabell Luce) Joseph, Abner, Samuel (md Mary Hodge) and Elakim.

WIFE - Anna ?Unknown

Some info from Lee Marks and also some info Sheri located on the internet.

Believe this Ann was not a Biggs and she was md to Obadiah III.

Ann Seward was listed as mother in will of Samuel Seward, Brookhaven, LI, NY along with Samuel's brother Elikim 1750-1751. Maybe still living if right mother.

If we go by 20 year spans with the generations we could well have 4 Obadiahs. So think that is what we will go with now as more appear to think so till we can prove for sure how many generations we do have.

Obaidah and Ann had several children but only the sons are known: Obadiah Jr, (md Isabell (Luce-no) Joseph, Abner, Samuel (md Mary Hodge) and Elakim.

It is believe Obadiah and Ann moved to Roxbury, Morris Co. NJ and his son Obadiah IV was the one that became Collector of Roxbury Twp in Morris Co. NJ in 1741.

1738 two Obadiah Sewards signed a deed to Minister Phillips with each adding "Junior" beside his name. Not sure why that was.

Beginning in 1733 there were references to payments (presumably poor allowances) for Obadiah Seward and Anna Seward (2 Aug 1733, 30 Apr 1739, 2,7,17, May 1743 and 3 Jan 1743).
Believe those refered to Obadiah III. 26 Mar 1739 the trustees of the Town purchased a coat for Obadiah.

6 Jun 1748 the trustees of the Town and Samuel Seward agreen on three persons to decide the controversy between them regarding the maintnance of Samuel's parents (Obadiah III and anna Seward) and on 19 Dec 1748 the trustees appointed a committee to reprsent it in the proceeding. By this time Samuel's brothers, Obgadiah and Eliakim, had moved to New Jersey.

Where it is thought Obadiah III died after 6 Jun 1748 and before the 1749 assessment as he was not listed then.

CHILD 1 - Obadiah Seward IV
*Sep 2018 located info on their children but listed under the name of Obadiah & Diana biggs Seward II in a Family group sheet (2002) that dau Sheri found that listed these children belonging to Obadiah iV and Isabel Luce Not Diana's children.

Many sources say he md Isabel Luce and many sourses said he didn't, md Isabel ?

This Obadiah is Obadiah IV Married to Isabel Luce abt 1720-22 NJ. Not sure to date.

Some info from Lee Marks, Nov 2000 and some from the internet which dau Sheri located and from others that had put info on the internet.

Obadiah believe to be son of Obadiah and Ann . Born 1702 Brookhaven, NY and md abt 1723 prob. in Brookhaven, NJ and he and Isabel had 10 children. Father of this Obadiah was md to Anna Unknown and his father was Obiadiah who md Diana "Anna" Biggs d. aft 1699

He was assessed in Brookhaven in 1741.

Apparently moved to Roxbury, Morris Co. NJ as early as 1741 as he was appointed collector of Roxbury Twp. NJ on 15 Mar 1741. This area on the map was located in Southwestern part of Moris Co. NJ.

Abt 1750 he and his family moved to the Berkshire Valley area of Morris Co. NJ where he died 1751. This area on the map was located in the northern part of Morris Co. NJ.

From the book "Index to NJ Wills 1689-1890 The Testators" pub by Ronald Vern Jackson & Lee Smeal listed one Obadiah Seward Jr, Morris Co. NJ Interstate 00040 PB1751 and one Obadiah Seward Jr, Morris Co. NJ Inventory 00040 PB1754 (wonder if same person?)
Also listed one Obadiah Seward, Morris Co. NJ Interstate 01020 PB1799 and one Obadiah Seward, Morris Co. NJ Inventory 01020 PB1799 (same #'s same person? but which Obadiah is this?)

Letters of adminstration of his estate were granted to his widow, Isabelle of Morris Co. NJ on 3 Jun 1751.

His great grandson was William Henry Seward, Sec of State when Abraham Lincoln was president and he was the one that bought Alaska.

Some info from the book "Obadiah Seward and Descendants"

Some info from one internet site of Phyllis Solter.

Info from book "Chester New Jersey A Scrapbook of History" by Frances Greenidge, pub 1974 of a history of Chester, Morris Co.,NJ. Has references to several of our known line. This is only a part of the book which located on the internet Nov 2000.
Obadiah Seward:
From Brookhaven, Long Island
Roxbury Twp, 1st Collector in 1741
Later moved to Berkshire Valley
Wife was isabella
Letter of Administration granted 3 Jun 1751 (to wife). Children listed were: John, Elicaum, Mehitable, Lydia, Isaac and prob. the Daniel born in 1738.
Obadiah was a great grandfather of William H. Seward. His son John married Mary, dau of Samuel Swayze and their son Samuel Swayzey Seward was William H.'s father.

Book "Some Early Records of Morris Co., NJ" by Harrie Stryker Rodda pub 1975 had no Seward's listed. Did have Bunnell's.

Court Minutes: Inventory: Sale; Doc. 5:33 - Map A:8, 10 207, 225.
Obadiah Seward of Roxbury, deceased, interstate (Orphans' Court 1804). The petitioner was John Seward Sr, and the guardian of John Seward JR, a minor son, over 14 of Obadiah. Other children were named as: Mary, deceased wife of John Cooper, Matilda, wife of Josiah Hurd, all of full age; Peggy and Hilah Seward both minors over 14, guardians Caleb and Hilah Post; and Hannah, Elizabeth and Pamela Seward also minors, same guardians. Gabriel H. Ford is Attorney for the children (pg 17). Elizabeth Swayze, the wife of Freegift Tuthill and Mary Swayze are named as legatees of Obadiah (pg 40). On page 10, Obadiah's administrators are named as John Seward and Caleb Post and his wife Hilah Post, late Hilayh Seward. By the time of the division in 1808, pg 225, Peggy Sweard is Peggy Hurd. Commissioners: Major Lemuel Cobb, Dan Hurd, Esq, and William Woodhull, Esq, who had resigned by 1808 and had been replaced by Benjamin Lamson, Esa. April 25th 1808.
(WHO IS THIS?)

CHILD 2 - Joseph Seward

Some info from Lee Marks and also some info Sheri found on the internet.

Believe to be son of Obadiah & Ann Bigs abt 1704. Few records were available except for an assessment roll for Brookhaven, LI for year of 1749 and Records of Town of Brookhaven, Book B contains an entry dated 13 Dec 1757 recording Joseph's Ear Mark for his livestock in Brookhaven.

Obadiah Seward of Roxbury, deceased, inventory ("Orderly" Court 1804). The petitioner was John Seward Sr. and the guardian of John Seward Jr., a minor son, over 14 or Obadiah. Other children were named as Mary, deceased wife of John Cooper, Martha, wife of Joseph Hunt, all of full age, Peggy and Hiah Seward both minors over 14, guardians Caleb and Hiah Post, and Hannah, daughter and Pamela Seward also minors, same guardians. Obadiah H. Ford is Attorney for the children (pg 17). Obadiah Swayze, the wife of Presgitt Tuthill and Mary Swayze are named as legatees of Obadiah (pg 40). On page 10, Obadiah's administrators are named as John Seward and Caleb Post and the wife Hiah Post, late Peggy Seward. By the time of the division in 1808, pg 225, Peggy Seward is Peggy Hunt. Commissioners: Major Samuel Cox, Dan Hunt, Esq. and William Woodruff, Esq. who has resigned by 1808 and had been replaced by Benjamin Lyncon, Esq. April 29th 1808.

(WHO IS THIS?)

CHILD 2 - Joseph Seward

Some info from Lee Parks and also some info Sean found on the internet.

Believe to be son of Obadiah & Ann Boy abt 1704. Few records were available for an adequate rpt for Brookhaven, LI for year of 1749 and Records of Town of Brookhaven, book 6 contains an entry dated 13 Dec 1737 recording Joseph's Ear Mark for his livestock in Brookhaven.

"Obadiah Seward & Descendants"

CHILD 3 - Abner Seward

Some info from Lee Parks and also some info Sean found on the internet.

No record of Abner except an assessment roll for Brookhaven, LI year of 1749.

"Obadiah Seward & Descendants"

CHILD 4 - Samuel Seward

Some info from Lee Parks and also some info Sean found on the internet.

There was an entry in the Town of Brookhaven Records, dated 10 Dec 1749 regarding the adoption by Samuel Seward, of a cripple.

Samuel's will dated 2 Sep 1750 and probated Mar 18, 1751 mentions his brother Elkanah and mother Ann.

Some researche say that he settled at Islip,LI, NY.

"Obadiah Seward & Descendants"

CHILD 5 - Eliakim Seward

Some info from Lee Marks and also some info Sheri found on the internet.

Believe he was the brother Samuel mentioned in his will of 1750-1751 Brookhaven, LI, NY.

There was one Eliakim Seward acquired 53 acres of land in Morris Co. 1745 but may not have been this Eliakim??
(Since his brother Samuel mentioned his brother Eliakim and mother Ann, believing them to be in Brookhaven?)

Many sources say he md Isabel Luce and many sourses said he didn't, md Isabel ?

This Obadiah is Obadiah IV Married to Isabel Luce abt 1720-22 NJ. Not sure to date.

Some info from Lee Marks, Nov 2000 and some from the internet which dau Sheri located and from others that had put info on the internet.

Obadiah believe to be son of Obadiah and Ann . Born 1702 Brookhaven, NY and md abt 1723 prob. in Brookhaven, NJ and he and Isabel had 10 children. Father of this Obadiah was md to Anna Unknown and his father was Obiadiah who md Diana "Anna" Biggs d. aft 1699

He was assessed in Brookhaven in 1741.

Apparently moved to Roxbury, Morris Co. NJ as early as 1741 as he was appointed collector of Roxbury Twp. NJ on 15 Mar 1741. This area on the map was located in Southwestern part of Moris Co. NJ.

Abt 1750 he and his family moved to the Berkshire Valley area of Morris Co. NJ where he died 1751. This area on the map was located in the northern part of Morris Co. NJ.

From the book "Index to NJ Wills 1689-1890 The Testators" pub by Ronald Vern Jackson & Lee Smeal listed one Obadiah Seward Jr, Morris Co. NJ Interstate 00040 PB1751 and one Obadiah Seward Jr, Morris Co. NJ Inventory 00040 PB1754 (wonder if same person?)
Also listed one Obadiah Seward, Morris Co. NJ Interstate 01020 PB1799 and one Obadiah Seward, Morris Co. NJ Inventory 01020 PB1799 (same #'s same person? but which Obadiah is this?)

Letters of adminstration of his estate were granted to his widow, Isabelle of Morris Co. NJ on 3 Jun 1751.

His great grandson was William Henry Seward, Sec of State when Abraham Lincoln was president and he was the one that bought Alaska.

CHILD 8 - Samuel Seward *

ID#178 Direct Line.

BIRTH: Has been stated he was born in Black River, Morris Co. NJ but his family didn't move there till 1740 so unless they were there for that time, he was actually born in Brookhaven, NY, same as all the other children.

We are pretty sure now his mother's surname was Luce. However her name was Sarah ? according to two of her daughters. Sarah and Ann who md into the Billiter family.

There was another mg listed to Samuel Seward to Elsey Gentry b abt 1765 in VA Married 22 Oct 1789 in Surry Co. NC. their children were listed as Eliza b 1804 Hamilton Co. OH, Elias 1802, Obadiah b 1790 Stokes co. NC, Ann 1792, William 1794, Joseph 1800, Martin 1897 Hamilton co. OH, Daniel 1809 Hamilton Co. OH. (I am pretty sure this is not our Samuel that d. in KY. GLT)
Was Samuel Sr. and Sarah's son Samuel Jr. md Elsey Gentry 1789 Surry Co. NC. that fits.

MARRIAGE1: Apparently no one has located the first marriage but according to births of children would have been at least by 1760 and maybe Morris Co. NJ. to Sarah ?

MARRIAGE 2: Marriage record of Samuel Sewerd to Elizabeth Keen 25 Jul 1780 First Presbyterian church, Morristown, Morris, NJ. Copy from FamilySearch internet site from NJ Marriages.

MARRIAGE3: Marriage recorded 22 Oct 1789 Stokes Co. NC to Liddie Mitchel. Not sure this marriage is to our Samuel Seward. Zebedee Billiter, his son in law was bondsman at this mg to Liddy Mitchel. So seems he did marry her So maybe was in NC before to KY.

Some have thought this Samuel may have married Elizabeth Keen 1780 and had dau Sarah who md Joseph Billiter but that isn't possible as Sarah was married by shortly after 1790 and doubt she was born as late as 1782 which is what

CHILDREN: Has been stated they had at least 9 known children, two that married Billiters. Listed as: John, Mehitable, Mahala, Lydia, Daniel, Mary, Ann, Sarah & Samuel Jr.all by 1st unknown wife.

Samuel Sr purchased property in Braken Co. KY in Mar 1798. 92 acres on the banks of the Ohio River from Edward Salts and hugh Marshall (Deed Book A pp 29-32. A good share of his family came to live in the same general area. The names, spouses and geographical locations listed above ccome from the documents surrounding the settlement of Samuel Seware Sr's will (1815 or later) This info came from who ever wrote the info from Family Group Sheets that Sheri located in 2000. He did have all the children of Sarah listed as Elizabeth Keen's children which we know isn't right. But most of other info was located by me as well-GLT.

Had not located name of wife or parents until Nov 2000 when Karen Romick found someone that had info on a land deed in Bracken Co. KY that listed Sarah as dau of Samuel Seward who died there abt 1816 and deed dated 1824. Hope to have copy of this deed shortly. Had written to Bracken County Clerk and they gave letter to Bracken Co. Historical society and Received answer from JLW of Bracken Co. Historical Society, P.O. Box 307, Brooksville, KY 41004 dated Jan 2001 that stated Deed Book A begins in 1797 and the first 96 pages are missing. The microfilm of the pages made about 35 years ago is so poor they can't be read. Said found nothing in the 1816 records but the index for 1811 shows a transfer of Seward to Elliott, no first names and so faded not very readable.

He found no listing in the general index of wills for a Seward. KY had no probate laws until 1974. Any interstate proceedings would have been in Circuit Court, again found no listing for any Seward between 1797-1850. All estate settlements were held through Fiscal Court and found no listings in the Fiscal Court index.

There was a listing in the 1812 records for a deed of transfer from a Sweard to the property owner (no names) for 2 acres of tobacco, this is how the tenant farmers paid for their rent and other bills. Again this was in a book that was not available for copy.

Karen also said she found info on Ancestry.com of Seward line going back to William in 1604 England. Not sure is this line to date.

Also have copy of a land deed dated 2 Feb 1795 from Stokes Co. NC where Joseph Billiter signed as witness for deed between Samuel Seward and Nathan Charles Craft. Bk 2 p168

1754 14 May Inventory of estate of Obadiah Morris Co. NJ appraised by David Luse & Wm Salmon (State of NJ Wills)

III-E Obadiah of Chester, New Jersey

Dr. Seward said (Appendix B) that the father of James, Sr. (1732-1808) was Obadiah (1702-1751) who was born in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York.

Theodore Freylinghaysen Chambers' Early Germans of New Jersey (1895) says (p.202) about settlers in Chester (formerly called Black River), New Jersey who came from Long Island:

> "OBADIAH SEWARD, collector in 1741, came from Brookhaven, L.I., and settled at first on land now owned by a descendant at the cross-roads. He removed to Berkshire Valley and JOHN, one of his sons, who married Mary Swazey, removed to Sussex Co., and from there his children removed to Orange Co., N.Y. The ex-Secretary of State was of this family.
> "The first of the name in this country was probably WILLIAM, who sailed from London 6th January, 1634, for St. Christopher and the Barbados. His son Obadiah 1st, father[22] of Obadiah of New Jersey, was in Brookhaven as early as 1664."

A Scrapbook of History about Chester by Frances Greenidge, published by the Chester Historical Society (1974), says (p.12) that Obadiah arrived in 1740. Dr. Seward had the same information. See Appendix B.

Obadiah lived in or near Berkshire Valley, New Jersey at the time of his death. There is a record of his death on May 14, 1751. The inventory signed by David Luse and William Salmon refers to him as "Obediah Seward Junior," indicating that his father was named Obadiah. His widow was appointed his administratrix and on June 3, 1751 filed a bond for two hundred pounds. William Salmon signed the bond with her. Her signature was by mark. Evidently, she could not write. Obadiah could. He put his signature on the quitclaim deed in favor of minister Phillips discussed in Chapter III-F. Obadiah moved from Brookhaven to Black River (now called Chester), Morris County, New Jersey probably after April 24, 1738 (which is the date of the quitclaim deed from him and others in Brookhaven to the minister) and before March 25, 1741 when he was elected Collector of the town of Roxbury.

Subsequently, perhaps in 1750, Obadiah moved to Berkshire Valley, Morris County, which is fifteen miles to the northeast of Chester. By deed dated June 12, 1750 (recorded in Book AB3, p.75 of the records of The General Board of Proprietors of the Eastern Division of New Jersey) Obadiah acquired from Robert Hunter Morris, Chief Justice of New Jersey, the right to locate 225 acres which was granted to him by The General Board by a survey return dated June 13, 1750 (Book S3, p.96) and presumably was owned by him at his death May 14, 1751. It was 236.36 acres less an allowance for highways, making it a net 225 acres. It was situated "on the east side of a pond called the Great Pond, out of which pond runs the river Mushenetuck in the County of Morris in the Eastern Division of New Jersey beginning where a certain River empties itself into said pond on the Easterly side thereof". The parcel was north and east of the point of beginning. The survey return does not state the town in which the parcel was located but a later survey return (July 1, 1803, Book S12, p.83) which was a Certificate of Mislocation ordered by the then owner of a neighboring tract confirmed Obadiah's boundaries and stated that the parcel was in Roxbury. The town of Roxbury is not now so large as it once was. It formerly included the present towns of Washington, Chester and Mt. Olive, but I have not determined whether in 1750 it included the present village of Berkshire Valley, which borders on Roxbury but is now in the town of Jefferson on the Rockaway River. Jefferson was created in 1804. Lower Berkshire Valley is now in Roxbury. The Great Pond is now called Lake Hopatcong. See Munsell's History of Morris County, page 18. The "River which empties itself into the said pond on the Easterly side thereof" (although it has no name on the U.S. Geological map) is about a mile and three quarters from the present village of Berkshire Valley.

Dr. Seward, in his book, states at page 76 that Isaac Seward, a brother of James, Sr., settled first at Snufftown, New Jersey (now called Stockholm) and later at "Muskinkink or Great Pond, N.J." That evidently is a variation of "Mushenetuck". The area is south of Berkshire Valley and has been changed substantially by the dam which enlarged Lake Hopatcong and by Morris Canal which parallels Musconetcong River. If that is the location, the "River which empties itself into said pond on the Easterly side thereof" now appears to be only a series of small ponds and marshes.

The inventory in the official file, Morris County, No. 40, Liber F, page 94, Intestate 1751, Inventory 1754, filed by David Luse and William Salmon for Obadiah's estate does not list any real property because that descended by law directly to his heirs. It does include farming implements and livestock. He is referred to as "Obadiah Seward Junior". Isabel added her mark.

In order to convey good title to Obadiah's land there ought to have been deeds signed by his heirs.[23] I have not found such deeds, although I have had [22] There were at least three Obadiahs between William and Obadiah of New Jersey. See Chapter III-G.

[23] While the English rule of primogeniture was followed in 1751 in New York, in New Jersey the eldest son had the right to only a double share after which the other (continued...)

DNA Connections

It may be possible to confirm family relationships with Isabel by comparing test results with other carriers of her mitochondrial DNA. However, there are no known mtDNA test-takers in her direct maternal line. It is likely that these autosomal DNA test-takers will share DNA with Isabel:

Notes

HUSBAND - Eliakim Seward

Some info from Lee Marks and also some off the internet that dau, Sheri found.

Eliakim was said to be son of Obadiah and Isabelle Luce Seward, born in Brookhaven, NJ 1724. (we are pretty sure her surname was not Luce).

Believe he married abt 1747 Morris Co., NJ to Ruth Ball. Believe they had 4 children.

Appears the family moved from Brookhaven, NJ to Morris Co. NJ maybe around 1740.

There was one Eliakim Seward who acquired 53 acres of land in Morris Co. NJ in 1745 who may be the son of Obadiah (1702).

Believe this Eliakim died after 1753 when his son Samuel was baptised and before 1784 when his wife died. No definate date of death has been located.
One source did list his death date as 8 Oct 1784.

Some info from "Obadiah Seward and Descendants" pg 48, 53.

Seward Family research by Dr. James Kuttler (according to Lee Marks)

WIFE - Ruth Ball

Some info from Lee Marks and also some off the internet that dau, Sheri found.

Believe he married abt 1747 Morris Co., NJ to Ruth Ball. Believe they had 4 children.

One source did list death date as 8 Oct 1784. (maybe that was the wifes death date and not Eliakim's)

Some info from "Obadiah Seward and Descendants" pg 48, 53.

Seward Family research by Dr. James Kuttler (according to Lee Marks)

Lee Marks info: Said Ruth was shown as Widow Seward when listed in church records as "1784 Oct 8, Widow Seward aet 60" No cause of death was given. Church records would have been record of the First Presbyterian Church of Morristown, NJ, Vol 1-II-III-IV & V.

CHILD 1 - Sarah Seward

Some info from Lee Marks and also some off the internet that dau, Sheri found.

Prob. born Morris Co. NJ.

HUSBAND - John Seward Col

*Rev. War as COL. in NJ.
Some info from Lee Marks and also some off the internet that dau, Sheri found.

John was said to be son of Obadiah and Isabelle Luce Seward, born in Brookhaven, NJ 22 May 1730. Birth place also listed as Black River area of Morris Co. NJ but believe parents didn't move there till at least 1740.
(we are pretty sure now his mother's surname was not Luce).

He married Mary Swezey 1751 prob. Morris Co.,NJ and they had 10 children, all born in Hardyston Twp, (Sussex Co.,) NJ.

John died on the Old Seward Farm, Hardyston, NJ 1797. (Sussex Co.,NJ)
An inventory of his possessions was made on 16 Dec 1797 and came to 959.8 pounds. The date his will was filed for Probate is uncertain but his estate was settled on 9 Jul 1798.

Under son Obadiah's info listed John Seward Sr's will dated 2 Oct 1797 which gave Obadiah a plantation of 197 acres land in Roxbury Twp, Morris Co., NJ where (Obadiah) was living. Obadiah died early May of 1799

Soon after their marriage John and Mary settled in the Highlands of Hardyston, four miles from Hamburg, Sussex Co., NJ and built a log house.
Later they built a home farther down the stream on headwaters of the Pequannock River where he died.

Shortly after the outbreak of the Rev. War, he entered the Army as Captain of a militia company andtook part in the battles of Long Island and White Plains, the retreat thru New Jersey and the battles immediately following. He was promoted to Leiutenant Colonel on 2-28-1776 and soon afterward became Colonel. He was considered to be very tall at 5' 10".

Some info from "Obadiah Seward and Descendants" Was said he was of Welsh and English descent.

WIFE - Mary Swezey

Some info from Lee Marks and also some off the internet that dau, Sheri found.

She was dau of Samuel Swezey and Penelope Jennings. Penelope's parents were Isaac Jennings (English descent) and Margaret Jackson (Irish descent)

She married John Seward 1751 prob. Morris Co.,NJ and they had 10 children, all born in Hardyston Twp, (Sussex Co.,) NJ.

HUSBAND - Obadiah Seward

*Sep 2018 located info on Obadiah Seward 1754-1792 (May 1799?) from Wikitree site on internet. His parents John Seward and Mary Swayze and grandparents Obadiah Seward III and Isabele Luce He was brother of Israel, Polly, nancy, Leliah, Samuel Swezey Seward. Married Heila (Edsall) Seward. Listed 11 children. (copy)

Some info from Lee Marks and also some off the internet that dau, Sheri found.

DEATH: Some had listed this Obadiah's will as filed 1799 and if the Obadiah listed in county court minutes dated 1804 -1808 listed much the same children why did it take from 1799 to 1804-8 to file this?

Court Minutes: Inventory: Sale; Doc. 5:33 - map A:8, 10 207, 225: OBADIAH SEWARD of Roxbury, deceased, intereste (Orphans' Court 1804) The petitioner was John Seward Sr, and the guardian of John Seward, Jr. a minor son, over 14 of Obadiah. Other children were names as: Mary, deceased, wife of John Cooper, Matilda, wife of Josiah Hurd, all of full age: Peggy and Hilah Seward both minors over 14, guardians Caleb and Hilah Post; and Hannah, Elizabeth and Pamela Seward also minors, same guardians. Gabriel H. Ford is Attorney for the children (page 17). Elizabeth Swayze, the wife of Freegift Tuthill and Mary Swayze are named as legatees of Obadiah (page 40). On page 10, Obadiah's administrators are named as John Seward and Caleb Post and his wife Hilah Post, late Silah Seward. By the time of the fivision in 1808, pg 225, Peggy Seward is Peggy Hurd. Commissioners: Major Lemuel Cobb, Dan Hurd, Esq, and William Woodhull, Esq. who had resigned by 1808 and had been replaced by Benjamin Lamson, Esq. april 25th 1808.
This was from the book "Abstracts ofPartitions & Div., Morris Co. NJ 1785-1907" pub 1984 by Virginia A. Brown. Ft Wayne IN Oct 2001 #974.901 M83BR

It may be possible to confirm family relationships with Obadiah by comparing test results with other carriers of his Y-chromosome or his mother's mitochondrial DNA. However, there are no known yDNA or mtDNA test-takers in his direct paternal or maternal line. It is likely that these autosomal DNA test-takers will share DNA with Obadiah:

1868 they moved to Milford Twp, Iroquois Co., IL with her parents.
1876 they moved to near Republic, Republic Co.,KS where Arminda nad Samuel died but no dates are known/

Arminda and Samuel had 6 children.

1860 Fountain Co. IN Arminda age 28.

CHILD 4 - Perry M. Seward

Some info from Lee Marks. Feb 2001

No mention of his marrying.

No death date.

He was age 24 with his parents in 1860. He apparently moved with the family to Iroquois Co., IL.

Ther was in 1917 Prairie Farmer index of farmers list a Perry Seward as owining 420 acres since 1869 in Sec 26 Belmont Twp, Iroquois co. IL. The 1921 Atlas also lists this land. But this Perry Seward could be Perry Martin Seward, son of James M. and Rachel Ward Seward but believe not since land was owned by 1869 and that Perry wouldn't be old enough.

HUSBAND - Samuel Seward *

ID#178 Direct Line.

BIRTH: Has been stated he was born in Black River, Morris Co. NJ but his family didn't move there till 1740 so unless they were there for that time, he was actually born in Brookhaven, NY, same as all the other children.

We are pretty sure now his mother's surname was Luce. However her name was Sarah ? according to two of her daughters. Sarah and Ann who md into the Billiter family.

There was another mg listed to Samuel Seward to Elsey Gentry b abt 1765 in VA Married 22 Oct 1789 in Surry Co. NC. their children were listed as Eliza b 1804 Hamilton Co. OH, Elias 1802, Obadiah b 1790 Stokes co. NC, Ann 1792, William 1794, Joseph 1800, Martin 1897 Hamilton co. OH, Daniel 1809 Hamilton Co. OH. (I am pretty sure this is not our Samuel that d. in KY. GLT)
Was Samuel Sr. and Sarah's son Samuel Jr. md Elsey Gentry 1789 Surry Co. NC. that fits.

MARRIAGE1: Apparently no one has located the first marriage but according to births of children would have been at least by 1760 and maybe Morris Co. NJ. to Sarah ?

MARRIAGE 2: Marriage record of Samuel Sewerd to Elizabeth Keen 25 Jul 1780 First Presbyterian church, Morristown, Morris, NJ. Copy from FamilySearch internet site from NJ Marriages.

MARRIAGE3: Marriage recorded 22 Oct 1789 Stokes Co. NC to Liddie Mitchel. Not sure this marriage is to our Samuel Seward. Zebedee Billiter, his son in law was bondsman at this mg to Liddy Mitchel. So seems he did marry her So maybe was in NC before to KY.

Some have thought this Samuel may have married Elizabeth Keen 1780 and had dau Sarah who md Joseph Billiter but that isn't possible as Sarah was married by shortly after 1790 and doubt she was born as late as 1782 which is what the baptisim date was in Morris Co. NJ. Although he may have md her 2nd but she would have died before he md in NC 1789 according to much info.
Samuel Sewerd did marry Elizabeth Keen 1780 as his 2nd wife. But dau Sarah and Ann who md Billiters were daughters of 1st wife Sarah ? (no record)

DEATH: Has been stated was about 1816 in Bracken Co. KY but they could find no record. Said inventory of his personal prop. amounted to $113.00. Do have copy of this from the internet and also Sharon Leonard sent me a copy she received, listed sale of items and whom sold to. Some to his children.His death appears to have been by 6 Feb 1816 when 1st appraisement for his property was filed.

BURIAL: Was not listed in the book "Cemeteries of Bracken Co. KY 1796-1999" and should have been. Said all cem. were located.

PARENTS: Have been said to be Obadiah Seward and Isabel Luce/Luse.

CHILDREN: Has been stated they had at least 9 known children, two that married Billiters. Listed as: John, Mehitable, Mahala, Lydia, Daniel, Mary, Ann, Sarah & Samuel Jr.all by 1st unknown wife.

Samuel Sr purchased property in Braken Co. KY in Mar 1798. 92 acres on the banks of the Ohio River from Edward Salts and hugh Marshall (Deed Book A pp 29-32. A good share of his family came to live in the same general area. The names, spouses and geographical locations listed above ccome from the documents surrounding the settlement BIRTH: Has been stated he was born in Bled, Pres., Adams Co., MD but his family didn't move there till 1790 so unless they were there for just time, he was actually born in Stockbaven, NY, some as all the other children.

We are pretty sure now his mother's surname was Love. However her name was Sarah ? according to two of her daughters, Sarah and Ann who md into the Bittler family.

There was another mg listed to Samuel Seward in Berry County b abt 1755 in VA. Married 22 Oct 1789 in Surry Co., NC. their children were listed as Eliza b 1804 Hamilton Co., OH, Elis 1802, Obediah b 1790 Stokes co., NC, Ann 1792, William 1794, Joseph 1800, Hiram 1807 Hamilton co., OH, Daniel 1809 Hamilton Co., OH. (I am pretty sure this is not our Samuel that d. in KY. GLT) of Samuel Seware Sr's will (1815 or later) This info came from who ever wrote the info from Family Group Sheets that Sheri located in 2000. He did have all the children of Sarah listed as Elizabeth Keen's children which we know isn't right. But most of other info was located by me as well-GLT.

Had not located name of wife or parents until Nov 2000 when Karen Romick found someone that had info on a land deed in Bracken Co. KY that listed Sarah as dau of Samuel Seward who died there abt 1816 and deed dated 1824. Hope to have copy of this deed shortly. Had written to Bracken County Clerk and they gave letter to Bracken Co. Historical society and Received answer from JLW of Bracken Co. Historical Society, P.O. Box 307, Brooksville, KY 41004 dated Jan 2001 that stated Deed Book A begins in 1797 and the first 96 pages are missing. The microfilm of the pages made about 35 years ago is so poor they can't be read. Said found nothing in the 1816 records but the index for 1811 shows a transfer of Seward to Elliott, no first names and so faded not very readable.

He found no listing in the general index of wills for a Seward. KY had no probate laws until 1974. Any interstate proceedings would have been in Circuit Court, again found no listing for any Seward between 1797-1850. All estate settlements were held through Fiscal Court and found no listings in the Fiscal Court index.

There was a listing in the 1812 records for a deed of transfer from a Sweard to the property owner (no names) for 2 acres of tobacco, this is how the tenant farmers paid for their rent and other bills. Again this was in a book that was not available for copy.

Karen also said she found info on Ancestry.com of Seward line going back to William in 1604 England. Not sure is this line to date.

Also have copy of a land deed dated 2 Feb 1795 from Stokes Co. NC where Joseph Billiter signed as witness for deed between Samuel Seward and Nathan Charles Craft. Bk 2 p168

Mar 1798 Samuel purchased 92 acres on banks of the Ohio river in Bracken Co. KY from Edward Salts & Hugh Marshall Deed Bk A p29-32.

1799 Samuel owned a ferry across the Ohio River which he sold 4 Mar 1812.

Samuel's estate was appraised by Robert Wells, Mathew Artes and Abner Leonard, Administrator. The record of the sale comes from Book B of Wills, pg 13-14 Bracken Co. KY, March term, 1816. Personal property totaled $113.00
These are the items that were listed and who purchased them for how much.
Sharon Leonard sent me copy of this document as did Sheri locate it off the internet and sent typed copy.

The first list was made up of the appraisement of the Estate which was dated 6 Feb 1816 with only items and price totaled $113.00. Second list which is copied below shows who bought the items and price and that total came to $117.92 1/2 which was recorded March term of 1816.

MARRIAGE: Has been stated they were married in Fayette Co. PA in 1784 and also Fayette Co. IN so will have to check further to find out where for sure. Was prob. IN.

DEATH; No death date but know it was after 1822. But could it have been before 1824? It appears her husband md 2nd time in 1824 Fayette Co. IN.

CHILDREN: Only info on their children to date is from the divorce record that listed they had 11 children with 6 living and named them and their ages as believed in 1819.

Received copy of the Divorce recored from Fayette Co. IN dated 1821-1822. from the Connersville, IN Court house Jan 2001. Fayette Co. IN Court House, Box 607, Connersville, IN 47331. Didn't see mention of any children which had been said was reported to have been on the documents. It appears the divorce was executed by Abner and then it was dismissed with Abner paying both his and his wifes costs for court and lawyers. It is possible that Mehitable was living in Franklin Co. IN at that time.
It appears there is a former document that listed the marriage date and place and names the children which Sharon Leonard is sending me a copy as when I wrote I only received the last two documents which only showed dismissal of the divorce.

Copy from Sharon Leonard was from Complete Record Book B (Civil) pg 12 (from Fayette Co. IN Court Records 1818-1849 by Maurice Holmes pg 301.
"Abner Leonard vs Mehetable. Petition for a divorce. He stated that they were married March 29, 1784 in Fayette Co.

Notes

HUSBAND - Samuel Seward *

*Sep 2018 located some info on Samuel Seward from "Geni" internet site which listed his birth 1736 Blafk (now Lamington) River, Morris Co. NJ. Died 1815 age 79 near Cincinnati, OH (but was in acutal KY) Husband of Sarah Seward. Father of Anna Billiter (only one listed here).
Listed brother of Elizabeth Swayze, Eliakim, Susan, Mehitable, John and 5 others. who were Obadiah, James, Isaac. Anna. (copy)

ID#178 Direct Line.

BIRTH: Has been stated he was born in Black River, Morris Co. NJ but his family didn't move there till 1740 so unless they were there for that time, he was actually born in Brookhaven, NY, same as all the other children.

We are pretty sure now his mother's surname was Luce. However her name was Sarah ? according to two of her daughters. Sarah and Ann who md into the Billiter family.

There was another mg listed to Samuel Seward to Elsey Gentry b abt 1765 in VA Married 22 Oct 1789 in Surry Co. NC. their children were listed as Eliza b 1804 Hamilton Co. OH, Elias 1802, Obadiah b 1790 Stokes co. NC, Ann 1792, William 1794, Joseph 1800, Martin 1897 Hamilton co. OH, Daniel 1809 Hamilton Co. OH. (I am pretty sure this is not our Samuel that d. in KY. GLT)
Was Samuel Sr. and Sarah's son Samuel Jr. md Elsey Gentry 1789 Surry Co. NC. that fits.

MARRIAGE1: Apparently no one has located the first marriage but according to births of children would have been at least by 1760 and maybe Morris Co. NJ. to Sarah ?

MARRIAGE 2: Marriage record of Samuel Sewerd to Elizabeth Keen 25 Jul 1780 First Presbyterian church, Morristown, Morris, NJ. Copy from FamilySearch internet site from NJ Marriages.

MARRIAGE3: Marriage recorded 22 Oct 1789 Stokes Co. NC to Liddie Mitchel. Not sure this marriage is to our Samuel Seward. Zebedee Billiter, his son in law was bondsman at this mg to Liddy Mitchel. So seems he did marry her So maybe was in NC before to KY.

Some have thought this Samuel may have married Elizabeth Keen 1780 and had dau Sarah who md Joseph Billiter but that isn't possible as Sarah was married by shortly after 1790 and doubt she was born as late as 1782 which is what the baptisim date was in Morris Co. NJ. Although he may have md her 2nd but she would have died before he md in NC 1789 according to much info.
Samuel Sewerd did marry Elizabeth Keen 1780 as his 2nd wife. But dau Sarah and Ann who md Billiters were daughters of 1st wife Sarah ? (no record)

DEATH: Has been stated was about 1816 in Bracken Co. KY but they could find no record. Said inventory of his personal prop. amounted to $113.00. Do have copy of this from the internet and also Sharon Leonard sent me a copy she received, listed sale of items and whom sold to. Some to his children.His death appears to have been by 6 Feb 1816 when 1st appraisement for his property was filed.

BURIAL: Was not listed in the book "Cemeteries of Bracken Co. KY 1796-1999" and should have been. Said all cem. were located.

PARENTS: Have been said to be Obadiah Seward and Isabel Luce/Luse.

CHILDREN: Has been stated they had at least 9 known children, two that married Billiters. Listed as: John, Mehitable, Mahala, Lydia, Daniel, Mary, Ann, Sarah & Samuel Jr.all by 1st unknown wife.

Samuel Sr purchased property in Braken Co. KY in Mar 1798. 92 acres on the banks of the Ohio River from Edward Salts and hugh Marshall (Deed Book A pp 29-32. A good share of his family came to live in the same general area. The names, spouses and geographical locations listed above ccome from the documents surrounding the settlement of Samuel Seware Sr's will (1815 or later) This info came from who ever wrote the info from Family Group Sheets that Sheri located in 2000. He did have all the children of Sarah listed as Elizabeth Keen's children which we know isn't right. But most of other info was located by me as well-GLT.

Had not located name of wife or parents until Nov 2000 when Karen Romick found someone that had info on a land deed in Bracken Co. KY that listed Sarah as dau of Samuel Seward who died there abt 1816 and deed dated 1824. Hope to have copy of this deed shortly. Had written to Bracken County Clerk and they gave letter to Bracken Co.

HUSBAND - Samuel Sawyer *

Seo 2018 located some info on Samuel Sawyer from "Sawr" Internet site which listed his birth: 1756 Blair (now Lamington) River, Morris Co. NJ. Died 1815 age 59 near Cincinnati, OH (but was in Scioto KY). Husband of Seran Sawyer. Father of Anna Sawyer (only one listed here).
Listed brother of Elizabeth Sawyer, Elilahn, Susan, Henkiable, John and 5 others, who were Obadiah, James, Isaac, Anna. (copy)

ID: I74 Oliver Lore

BIRTH: Was born related he was born in Black River, Morris Co. NJ but his family didn't move there till 1740 so unless they were there for that long, he was actually born in Brooklawn, NY, same as all the other children.

We are pretty sure now his mother's surname was Lucas. However her name was Sarah. According to one of her daughters, Sarah and Ann who md into the Elliott family.

There was another mg issued to Samuel Sawyer to Clay County b dot 1785 in VA. Married 22 Oct 1789 in Surry Co. NC. their children were listed as Eliz b 1804 Hamilton Co. OH, Elias 1802, Obadiah b 1790 States co. INC, Ann 1792, William 1794, Joseph 1800, Martin 1807 Hamilton co. OH, Daniel 1809 Hamilton Co. OH. (I am pretty sure this is not our Samuel that d. in KY. GLT)
Was Samuel Sr. and Sarah's son Samuel Jr. md Suzy Century 1789 Surry Co. NC, their fir.

MARRIAGE1: Appparently no one has looked this first marriage but according to births of children would have been at least by 1790 and maybe Morris Co. NJ, to Saran ?

MARRIAGE 2: Marriage record of Samuel Sawyer to Elizabeth Keen 25 Jul 1780 First Presbyterian church, Morristown, Morris, NJ. Copy from FamilySearch Internet site from NJ Marriages.

MARRIAGE3: Marriage recorded 22 Oct 1789 Surry Co. NC to Liddie Hiscock. Not sure this marriage is to our Samuel Sawyer. Zebedee Hillier, his son in law was bondsman at this mg to Lucky Mitchell. So seems he did marry her so maybe was in NC before to KY.

Some have thought Samuel may have married Elizabeth Keen 1780 and had son Sarah who md Joseph Hiller but was very possible as Sarah was married by shortly after 1790 and doubt she was born as late as 1782 which is what the baptism date was in Morris Co. NJ. Although he may have md her 2nd but she would have died before he md in NC 1795 according to muster info.
Samuel Sawyer did marry Elizabeth Keen 1780 as his 2nd wife. But dau Sarah and Ann who md Hillers were daughters of 1st wife. Saran ? (no record)

DEATH: Has been stated was about 1816 in Bracken Co. KY but they could find no record. Said inventory of his personal prop. amounted to $113.00. Do have copy of this from the internet and also Sharon Leonard sent me a copy she received. Listed wife of Name and whom sold to. Some to his children His death appears to have been by 6 Feb 1816 when 1st appointment for his property was filed.

BURIAL: Was not listed in the book "Cemeteries of Bracken Co. KY 1796-1999" and should have been. Said all cem. were located.

MARCH'S: Have been said to be Obedian Sawyer and listed Lucas.

CHILDREN: Has been stated they had at least 5 known children, two that married Hillers. Listed as: John, Methodic, Martin, Lydia, Daniel, Mary, Ann, Sarah & Samuel Jr all by 1st undrown wife.

Samuel Sr purchased property in Bracken Co. KY in Mar 1795. 92 acres on the banks of the Ohio River from Edward Sallsnard Inupr Marshall (Deed Book A pp 29-32). A good share of his family came to live in the same general area. The names, spouses and geographical locations listed above could from the documents surrounding the settlement of Samuel Sawyer Sr's will (1815 or later). This info came from who ever wrote the Inlg from Family Group Sheets that Brian located in 2000. He did have all the children of Sarah listed as Elizabeth Keen's children which we know isn't right. But most of other info was located by me as well-GLT.

Has not located name of wife or parents until Nov 2000 when Karen Rennick found something that had him as a land deed in Bracken Co. KY that listed Sarah as dau of Samuel Sawyer who died there abt 1815 and deed dated 1824. Hope to have copy of this deed shortly that written to Bracken County Clerk and they gave letter to Bracken Co.

Historical society and Received answer from JLW of Bracken Co. Historical Society, P.O. Box 307, Brooksville, KY 41004 dated Jan 2001 that stated Deed Book A begins in 1797 and the first 96 pages are missing. The microfilm of the pages made about 35 years ago is so poor they can't be read. Said found nothing in the 1816 records but the index for 1811 shows a transfer of Seward to Elliott, no first names and so faded not very readable.

He found no listing in the general index of wills for a Seward. KY had no probate laws until 1974. Any interstate proceedings would have been in Circuit Court, again found no listing for any Seward between 1797-1850. All estate settlements were held through Fiscal Court and found no listings in the Fiscal Court index.

There was a listing in the 1812 records for a deed of transfer from a Sweard to the property owner (no names) for 2 acres of tobacco, this is how the tenant farmers paid for their rent and other bills. Again this was in a book that was not available for copy.

Karen also said she found info on Ancestry.com of Seward line going back to William in 1604 England. Not sure is this line to date.

Also have copy of a land deed dated 2 Feb 1795 from Stokes Co. NC where Joseph Billiter signed as witness for deed between Samuel Seward and Nathan Charles Craft. Bk 2 p168

Mar 1798 Samuel purchased 92 acres on banks of the Ohio river in Bracken Co. KY from Edward Salts & Hugh Marshall Deed Bk A p29-32.

1799 Samuel owned a ferry across the Ohio River which he sold 4 Mar 1812.

Samuel's estate was appraised by Robert Wells, Mathew Artes and Abner Leonard, Administrator. The record of the sale comes from Book B of Wills, pg 13-14 Bracken Co. KY, March term, 1816. Personal property totaled $113.00 These are the items that were listed and who purchased them for how much.
Sharon Leonard sent me copy of this document as did Sheri locate it off the internet and sent typed copy.

The first list was made up of the appraisement of the Estate which was dated 6 Feb 1816 with only items and price totaled $113.00. Second list which is copied below shows who bought the items and price and that total came to $117.92 1/2 which was recorded March term of 1816.

HUSBAND - Samuel Seward *

*Sep 2018 located some info on Samuel Seward from "Geni" internet site which listed his birth 1736 Blafk (now Lamington) River, Morris Co. NJ. Died 1815 age 79 near Cincinnati, OH (but was in acutal KY) Husband of Sarah Seward. Father of Anna Billiter (only one listed here).
Listed brother of Elizabeth Swayze, Eliakim, Susan, Mehitable, John and 5 others. who were Obadiah, James, Isaac. Anna. (copy)

ID#178 Direct Line.

BIRTH: Has been stated he was born in Black River, Morris Co. NJ but his family didn't move there till 1740 so unless they were there for that time, he was actually born in Brookhaven, NY, same as all the other children.

We are pretty sure now his mother's surname was Luce. However her name was Sarah ? according to two of her daughters. Sarah and Ann who md into the Billiter family.

There was another mg listed to Samuel Seward to Elsey Gentry b abt 1765 in VA Married 22 Oct 1789 in Surry Co. NC. their children were listed as Eliza b 1804 Hamilton Co. OH, Elias 1802, Obadiah b 1790 Stokes co. NC, Ann 1792, William 1794, Joseph 1800, Martin 1897 Hamilton co. OH, Daniel 1809 Hamilton Co. OH. (I am pretty sure this is not our Samuel that d. in KY. GLT)
Was Samuel Sr. and Sarah's son Samuel Jr. md Elsey Gentry 1789 Surry Co. NC. that fits.

MARRIAGE1: Apparently no one has located the first marriage but according to births of children would have been at least by 1760 and maybe Morris Co. NJ. to Sarah ?

MARRIAGE 2: Marriage record of Samuel Sewerd to Elizabeth Keen 25 Jul 1780 First Presbyterian church, Morristown, Morris, NJ. Copy from FamilySearch internet site from NJ Marriages.

MARRIAGE3: Marriage recorded 22 Oct 1789 Stokes Co. NC to Liddie Mitchel. Not sure this marriage is to our Samuel Seward. Zebedee Billiter, his son in law was bondsman at this mg to Liddy Mitchel. So seems he did marry her So maybe was in NC before to KY.

Some have thought this Samuel may have married Elizabeth Keen 1780 and had dau Sarah who md Joseph Billiter but that isn't possible as Sarah was married by shortly after 1790 and doubt she was born as late as 1782 which is what the baptisim date was in Morris Co. NJ. Although he may have md her 2nd but she would have died before he md in NC 1789 according to much info.
Samuel Sewerd did marry Elizabeth Keen 1780 as his 2nd wife. But dau Sarah and Ann who md Billiters were daughters of 1st wife Sarah ? (no record)

DEATH: Has been stated was about 1816 in Bracken Co. KY but they could find no record. Said inventory of his personal prop. amounted to $113.00. Do have copy of this from the internet and also Sharon Leonard sent me a copy she received, listed sale of items and whom sold to. Some to his children.His death appears to have been by 6 Feb 1816 when 1st appraisement for his property was filed.

BURIAL: Was not listed in the book "Cemeteries of Bracken Co. KY 1796-1999" and should have been. Said all cem. were located.

PARENTS: Have been said to be Obadiah Seward and Isabel Luce/Luse.

CHILDREN: Has been stated they had at least 9 known children, two that married Billiters. Listed as: John, Mehitable, Mahala, Lydia, Daniel, Mary, Ann, Sarah & Samuel Jr.all by 1st unknown wife.

Samuel Sr purchased property in Braken Co. KY in Mar 1798. 92 acres on the banks of the Ohio River from Edward Salts and hugh Marshall (Deed Book A pp 29-32. A good share of his family came to live in the same general area. The names, spouses and geographical locations listed above ccome from the documents surrounding the settlement of Samuel Seware Sr's will (1815 or later) This info came from who ever wrote the info from Family Group Sheets that Sheri located in 2000. He did have all the children of Sarah listed as Elizabeth Keen's children which we know isn't right. But most of other info was located by me as well-GLT.

Had not located name of wife or parents until Nov 2000 when Karen Romick found someone that had info on a land deed in Bracken Co. KY that listed Sarah as dau of Samuel Seward who died there abt 1816 and deed dated 1824. Hope to have copy of this deed shortly. Had written to Bracken County Clerk and they gave letter to Bracken Co.

The names, crosses and geographical locations listed above come from the documents surrounding the settlement of Samuel Seward Sr's will (1815 or later). This info came from who ever wrote the info from Family Group Sheets that Shari located in 2000. He did have all the children of Sarah listed as Elizabeth Kean's children which we know isn't right. But most of other info was located by me as well-GLT.

Had not located name of wife or parents until Nov 2000 when Karen Rorick found someone that had info on a deed in Bracken Co. KY that listed Sarah as dau of Samuel Seward who died there abt 1816 and deed dated 1824. Hope to have copy of this deed shortly. Had written to Bracken County Clerk and they gave letter to Bracken Co.

Historical society and Received answer from JLW of Bracken Co. Historical Society, P.O. Box 307, Brooksville, KY 41004 dated Jan 2001 that stated Deed Book A begins in 1797 and the first 96 pages are missing. The microfilm of the pages made about 35 years ago is so poor they can't be read. Said found nothing in the 1816 records but the index for 1811 shows a transfer of Seward to Elliott, no first names and so faded not very readable.

He found no listing in the general index of wills for a Seward. KY had no probate laws until 1974. Any interstate proceedings would have been in Circuit Court, again found no listing for any Seward between 1797-1850. All estate settlements were held through Fiscal Court and found no listings in the Fiscal Court index.

There was a listing in the 1812 records for a deed of transfer from a Sweard to the property owner (no names) for 2 acres of tobacco, this is how the tenant farmers paid for their rent and other bills. Again this was in a book that was not available for copy.

Karen also said she found info on Ancestry.com of Seward line going back to William in 1604 England. Not sure is this line to date.

Also have copy of a land deed dated 2 Feb 1795 from Stokes Co. NC where Joseph Billiter signed as witness for deed between Samuel Seward and Nathan Charles Craft. Bk 2 p168

Mar 1798 Samuel purchased 92 acres on banks of the Ohio river in Bracken Co. KY from Edward Salts & Hugh Marshall Deed Bk A p29-32.

1799 Samuel owned a ferry across the Ohio River which he sold 4 Mar 1812.

Samuel's estate was appraised by Robert Wells, Mathew Artes and Abner Leonard, Administrator. The record of the sale comes from Book B of Wills, pg 13-14 Bracken Co. KY, March term, 1816. Personal property totaled $113.00
These are the items that were listed and who purchased them for how much.
Sharon Leonard sent me copy of this document as did Sheri locate it off the internet and sent typed copy.

The first list was made up of the appraisement of the Estate which was dated 6 Feb 1816 with only items and price totaled $113.00. Second list which is copied below shows who bought the items and price and that total came to $117.92 1/2 which was recorded March term of 1816.

$500. Sec 29 Rg 1 Twp 9 of 60 acres.

Received copy of the Divorce recored from Fayette Co. IN dated 1821-1822. from the Connersville, IN Court house Jan 2001. Fayette Co. IN Court House, Box 607, Connersville, IN 47331. Didn't see mention of any children which had been said was reported to have been on the documents. It appears the divorce was executed by Abner and then it was dismissed with Abner paying both his and his wifes costs for court and lawyers.
It appears there is an earlier document relating to the divorce which listed marriage date and place and names of 6 living children and their ages. Sharon Leonard is sending me a copy. Why I didn't get that when I wrote to Fayette Co. for the papers I don't know.

According to The Western Christian Advocate article Sharon Leonard located it said Abner had been married 3 times and had 3 children. He died in Johnson Co. IN where he had been a minister. Article dated 4 Feb 1852, stated Rev. Abner Leonard died in his 89th year 1 Jan 1852, native of NJ and early life he moved to PA, then to NC where he spent 11 years, during which time he embraced religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. Then he moved to Warren Co. OH where he lived 20 years and was there licenced to preach as is supposed by Rev. John Strange. Article goes on to say he moved to Connersville, IN where he spent the last fourteen years of his life and was also licenced to preach. He had been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 60 years. (it is possible he was married 3 times but believe we only have records of 2 to date).

1850 Johnson Co.,White River Twp, IN pg 61 #204/204: listed one Abner Leonard age 88, Jemima 51 NJ (had been stated Jemima was wife, but he also had a dau Jemimah b. 1790 and would be 51 so wonder if actually his daughter). I need to check the actual census to see if he is listed as widowed.

So if we backtrack the area's he lived in at time periods according to that article would be: Which doesn't fit as he was in IN by 1819-22 according to divorce records and also buying land as early as 1813-14 in IN.

(this appears to be a typed copy of the original so could be put in the book by Holmes-GLT).

CHILD 1 - Mary Leonard

Sharon has no more info on Mary.

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Mary was listed as age 36 and married. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1783. If age as of 1822- 1786
Birth was prob. abt 1785 as parents were married Feb 1784.

No record of marriage to date. There was a Mary Leonard who md Samuel McColough 8 Sep 1803 Warren Co. OH that maybe a possiblity with some checking.

Death did occur after 1822.

CHILD 2 - Sarah Leonard

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Sarah was listed as age 28 and married. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1791. If age as of 1822- 1794.

Sharon Leonard stated Sarah married Benjamin L. Ross in Warren Co. OH 19 Jan 1777 and maybe he died Apr 1865 Goshen, Clermont, OH.

No record of marriage to date. There was a Sarah Leonard who md Robert Rees 1 Jan 1810 Warren Co. OH that could be her.

Death date was after 1822.

1850 there was one Sarah Leonard age 50 NC maybe with son Joseph age 19 so who was this? had been said maybe sister of Abner Jr., dau of Abner and Mehatable? (believe that dau was born by 1791 not 1800)

CHILD 3 - Euphemia or Louphenia Leonard

Sharon has no more info on Euphemia/Louphenia?

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Louphenia/Euphenia? was listed as age 25 and married. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1794. If age as of 1822- 1797

There was a marriage record in Warren Co. OH of one Youfamy Leonard md Adam Briney 7 Feb 1810 Warren Co.OH. Could well be Louphenia/Euphemia as know how names are written who they sound. This marriage was listed on the internet also Sharon said, Euphemy Leonard, father Abner Leonard md Adam Briney.

Death date was after 1822.

CHILD 4 - Abner Leonard Jr.

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Abner was listed as age 23 and married. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1791. If age as of 1822- 1799.

MARRIAGE1: Sharon Leonard said he was md 1st to Nancy DeWitt 1817 and had children: Caleb, Nancy, Sally Ann and Isaac.

MARRIAGE 2:There was a record of one Abner Leonard md to Nancy Larrison 14 May 1843 Shelby Co. IN, this was located on CD Rom Marriages #103, believe to be 2nd marriage.

Death date was after 1822.

CHILD 5 - Jemimiah Leonard

Sharon had no more info on Jemimiah.

Family Group Record

Husband: Abner Leonard Rev.

Wife: Mehitable Seward

reached, Sarah 28 and married, Lucipheria 25 and married, Abner 22 and merr., Jeremiah 23 and unmarr., and Lizzie 19 and unmarried. He stated that Mehetable left home 2 years ago while living in Franklin Co. and took all of their personal property with her. The will was dismissed 25 Mar 1822."

(this appears to be a typed copy of the original so could be put in the book by Holmes-GLT).

CHILD 1 – Mary Leonard

Shiann has no more info on Mary.

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Mary was listed as age 36 and married. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1783. If age as of 1822- 1786

Birth was prob. abt 1785 as parents were married Feb 1784.

No record of marriage to date. There was a Mary Leonard who md Samuel McCollough 8 Sep 1802 Warren Co. OH that maybe a possibility with some checking.

Death did occur after 1822

CHILD 2 – Sarah Leonard

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Sarah was listed as age 28 and married. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1791. If age as of 1822- 1794

Shiann Leonard stated Sarah married Benjamin L. Moss in Warren Co. OH 19 Jan 1777 and maybe he died Apr 1855 Cooney, Clermont, OH.

No record of marriage to date. There was a Sarah Leonard who md Robert Rees 1 Jan 1810 Warren Co. OH that could be her.

Death date was after 1822.

1850 there was one Sarah Leonard age 50 INC maybe with son Joseph age 19. so who was this? had been said maybe sister of Abner Jr., dau of Abner and Mehitable? (believe their dau was born by 1791 not 1800)

CHILD 3 – Lucipheria or Lucipheria Leonard

Shiann has no more info on Lucipheria/Lucipheria?

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Lucipheria/Lucipheria? was listed as age 25 and married. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1794. If age as of 1822- 1797

– There was a marriage record in Warren Co. OH of one Wesley Leonard md Adam Blakey 7 Feb 1810 Warren Co. OH. Could well be Lucipheria/Lucipheria as know how names are written who they sound. This marriage was listed on the internet also Sharon said, Lucipheria Leonard, father Abner Leonard md Adam Blakey

Death date was after 1822.

CHILD 4 – Abner Leonard Jr.

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Abner was listed as age 23 and married. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1791. If age as of 1822- 1799

MARRIAGE: Shiann Leonard said he was md 1st to Nancy Dewitt 1817 and had children: Caleb, Nancy, Sally, Ann and Isaac.

MARRIAGE: There was a record of one Abner Leonard md to Nancy Lamson 14 May 1843 Shelby Co. IN. this was record on CD from Marriages p 103, believe to be 2nd marriage.

Death date was after 1822.

CHILD 5 – Jemimah Leonard

Shiann had no more info on Jemimah.

Family Group Record

Husband Abner Leonard Rev.

Wife Mehitable Seward

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Jemimiah was listed as age 21 and unmarried. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1798. If age as of 1822- 1801.

Death date was after 1822.

1850 had a Jemima listed with Abner Leonard age 88 that was age 51 which would make the birth date 1799 which is close to this daughter so am wondering if she was the daughter and not anothe wife of Abner Sr.?

Need to check the census record itself for sure.

CHILD 6 - Isaac Leonard

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Isaac was listed as age 19 and unmarried. Which if was as in 1819 would be 1800. If age as of 1822- 1803.

There was a marriage record of one Isaac Leonard to Christena Messersmith 4 Jul 1824 Fayette Co. IN that could be this person? This is who Sharon Leonard said he had married.

Also another mg of one Isaac Leonard to Lucy Ann Gunning 14 Feb 1843 Shelby Co. IN that not sure who is?

Death date was after 1822.

Family Group Record

Husband: Abner Leonard Rev.

Wife: Rebitable Seward

CHILD 5 - Jeremiah Leonard (Continued)

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Jeremiah was listed as age 27 and unmarried. Which if was so in 1819 would be 1792. If age as of 1822- 1821.

Death date was after 1822.

1830 had a Jeremia listed with Abner Leonard age 60 (that was age 51 which would make the birth date 1799 which is close to this daughter so am wondering if she was the daughter and not another wife of Abner Sr.?

Need to check the census record itself for sure.

CHILD 6 - Issac Leonard

According to the divorce record from Fayette Co. IN Issac was listed as age 19 and unmarried. Which if was so in 1819 would be 1800. If age as of 1822- 1803.

There was a marriage record of one Issac Leonard to Christena Meeksmith 4 Jul 1824 Fayette Co. IN that could be this person. This is who Steven Leonard said he had married.

Also another mg of one Isaac Leonard to Lucy Ann Gunning 14 Feb 1843 Shelby Co. IN (not sure who is)

Death date was after 1822.

Stated: Was deceased, one of the pioneers of Shelby Co.. He was a native of KY, born in Elkhart Co. 12 Sep 1820 and a son of Levi and Mary (Patterson) Billiter of Scotch ancestry. He was reared on a farm and remained with his parents untile he was 18 when he began work for himself by splitting rails. Whe nhe was quite young the family removed to Ohio then to Clay Co. IN, where he grew to manhood. He was married in 1840 to Miss Susanna Beauchamp, a native of Indiana and was dau of David Beauchamp, who came from England to the US. After his marriage Mr Billeter settled on a farm near Terre Haute, IN where he resided until 1856, when he emigrated to western Iowa. He first settled in Harrison Co. then removed to Nebraska, but did not remain there long on account of the Indians. In the spring of 1858 he came to Shelby Co. and bought 160 acres of land. He had several head of oxen which he had fattened and sold to pay for his land, after the payment was made he had 3 cents left, but by hard work and close attention to his business he soon had the farm under good cultivation. His father settled in Harrison Co. and remained there the balance of his days. He added to his land until he had 360 acres in a high state of cultivation.------
Mr and Mrs Billeter were parents of seven children, who still survive, Susanna died at age of 18 months. The other children are: Sarah, wife of Byrum Helm, of Taylor Co; Mary, wife of L.L. Jarvis, of Harlan; jackson of Brown Co. NE; Levi Penthus, William H. and John. Mr and Mrs Billeter were members of the Dunkard church. Mark married 3 times, if sources correct: Mary Patterson, Mary Owens & Nancy Shelton. Doubt he was md to Nancy Shelton, Just Mary Owens first and Mary Patterson 2nd.

Mary Owens 1st wife md ca 1809 and have all children listed for her as said she died 1851 so if not all her children, they were divorced. First children born from 1811 thru 1829 if from 1st wife?
If Mary Patterson was 3rd mg and had children Sarah to Martha then would have md abt 1830 in OH as 1st child b. 1832 and last 1838

Said Mark died Apr 1860. In Mar 1864 Harrison Co. IA Penthus Billeter asked the court to appoint him as adm. Marion Carlton was appointed but was dec'd. Which he was and last of estate dated 13 Jun 1875 Harriosn Co. IA. Listed in estate Mary Billeter, widow, Isiah Dungan, William Billeter, Sarah Ann Dungan, James Billeter, B.P. Butts, Martin Billeter, Joseph Billeter, Elisha Husha and P. Billeter.

Moved to Grant City, KY in ca 1816 with the Billiter clan, only brother James stayed in NC.

1820 Mark and family moved to Warren or Butler city, Ohio with brother John and wife Mary Strupe (Strub) following abt 1825.

Abt 1838 Mark and John with families moved to Clay Co. IN.

Abt 1852 Mark departed for Harrison Co. IA and John and Parmeneo, JOhns only son moved to Schuyler Co. IL. Parmeneo went on to Chariton Co. MO in 1870.

CHILD 1 - James T. Billiter

There was an obit of James Billiter in the paper from Grant Co. KY, believe to be son of Samuel and Betsy Marksberry Billiter. Their son Overton had said he had an older brother James Billiter when he died.

1880 Dist. 83 Grant Co. KY p27C (CD) James T. Billiter 52 Ky, Maritta 41 Ky wife, Margaret A. Dunn 16 Ky dau.

The article in the paper also had a picture of one very old man and the story of his live was quite completed here. His story is almost unbelievable.

James Billiter
A man of Many Misfortunes and Unavoidable Accidents.

More accidents have happened to James Billiter then any man who has ever lived in Grant County. The story of his life is much more unbelievable than a dime novel. He was born in Grant County September 19th, 1827. His mother died when he was small and his father was very dissipated and the young man was thrown on his own resources when very young. He is now old and decrepit, but when he tells the story of his life and his many mishaps the only wonder is that he is not dead. The story of his misadventurs begins when he was only a small boy.

When thirteen years olf he was thrown from a horse and his skull fractured, and for a time it was thought that he would die.

In 1842 he fell off a wagon and broke his leg.

In 1844 he was wroking on a two story house in Williamstown and fell off of the roof, and in some unaccountable manner caught by his chin on a nail and hung in that dangerous and remarkable position until his fellow workmen could get a ladder and get him down.

IN 1853 he was married to Miss Marietta Williams who still survives and together they lead a peaceable and quite life.

In 1861 he was bitten by a "maddog" but has never "gone mad', had rabies or suffered any ill effects from the wound.

In 1867, while drinking out of a branch, he swallowed a live crawfish, and it lived in his stomach for three months

In 1844 he was working for a boy living in Williamstown and fell off of the roof, and in some unaccountable manner caught by his chin on a nail and hung in that dangerous and remarkable position until his fellow workmen could get a ladder and get him down.

In 1852 he was married to Miss Amelia Williams who still survives and to whom they used a memorable one quite ill.

In 1861 he was taken by a "mobbo" but has nerve "guns now", had nobles or buffaloed any of attacks from the wound.

In 1867 while driving out of a branch, he swallowed a live crawfish, and it lived in his stomach for three months alive andwell, when, like Jonah's whale, "he threw it out". He was in terrible torment for a long time as the "crawfish eat away a good portion of his stomach," but he did not despair but grew another one.

In 1872 he fell head formost from the roof of a four story building, landing on his head in the cellar on a pile of rock, and was badly hurt but recovered.

In 1884 he had smallpox and was in quartantine for several weeks.

He says he has paid out in his life more than $10,000 in doctor's bills and for medicines. He says he thinks he out to have a pension and The Courier thinks so, andwill vote for it.

Samuel md 3 times: Betsy Marksberry, Amanda Sewards, Nancy Robinson. Don't know which is mother but believe to be Betsy Marksberry.

His obituary was located in the Grant Co. News, The Williamstown Courier Thurs May 23, 1901 page 224 which was located in the Williamstown Cemetery records book.
Was a very long obituary. It was said he died with in a mile of where he was born and lived all his life. He was one of 10 children, 5 still living and the eldest of whom is James Billiter of near Williamstown. He was md and wife died in 1879 and he had 3 children all surviving: Mrs W.S. Filson of Blanchett and Mrs Matt Burch and Simon Billiter of Williamstown. KY. (don't know which dau md which person, Lucretia or Frances). A picture was also included but was rather dark and couldn't make out to well.
Sure need to locate more siblings as don't have James or several others.

Was stated O.P. Billiter purchased a 15 x 20 ft burial lot, in the Williamstown cem in Range #4, lot # 13, at the time his wife died, 7 Feb 1879. His wife only has a tombstone, he has none, however there is an open space by her grave.

HUSBAND - Joseph Billiter *

BIRTH date only from census. Not sure this is the father but believe it is. Believe his parents to be Edward Billiter III & wife Mary (?) but not proven to date. Have added them in PAF as Rin # until can be proven to connect. Not sure if born in MD or PA?

MARRIAGE date, have not located but bef 1790. CHECK WESTMORELAND CO. PA Have reason to check NJ as well. Deed located in Bracken Co. KY 1824 listed Sarah Seward as wife of Joseph Billiter of Fayette Co. PA selling land she inherited from her father Samuel Seward, 1/9th part so now believe she was this person and if so they may have married in NJ or NC even.

DEATH date, have not located, last known census was 1830 Fayette Co. PA and they said they had no estate, will for Joseph Billiter. Jim Billiter had his death date after 1820.

Land Record of Fayette Co. PA dated 28 Dec 1816-2 Mar 1824 between Joseph Billeter from John Fisher both of Rostraver Twp., Westmoreland Co. PA. $260 for house and lot in town of Bellvernon??. Maybe Joseph from Fayette Co., hard to tell with the wording. Rostraver Twp is in lower west corner of Westmoreland Co. boardering Washington Twp. in Fayette Co. PA. Bell Vernon is in Washington Twp. Fayette Co. on Monongahalia River.

Land Record of Bracken Co. KY dated 19 Jan 1824 between Joseph Billiter and wife Sarah of Fayette Co. PA to George Houston of the county of Bracken, KY shows selling 1/9th part of tract of land of 92 acres in Bracken Co. KY, left to Sarah by her father Samuel Seward.

Jim Billiter stated Joseph was buried in Belle Vernon's first cemetery on Gould Hill, but his and many other graves were destroyed by developers probably in the early 1900's. He believed he lived from the 1790's into the 1820's along the Monongalhela River near where Interstate 70 now crosses it in the PA town of Belle Vernon. He was also the first ferryman of the town, probably working with the help from his wife (unkown), sons and daughters, all within shouting distance of the present I-70 crossing. Joseph was a boat builder there at that time. (what his source is for this info wasn't listed).

CHILDREN: Jim also listed these children for Joseph and wife: James, Lewis, Sallie md John Springer and John d. 1833 in PA, Fannie who md John Thompson on 1824 Belle Vernon, Washington Co., PA; Joseph born between 1796-1800 who went to Brown Co. OH md Elizabeth Schaffer, Noah C. Sr. born abt 1801 (my direct line), John born abt Apr 1816 d 14 Dec 1868 (Jim's direct line). He had more on Noah and John's family but nothing on the others. (don't know source).

Recently corresponded with Jim Billiter and brother Ralph Billiter who descend from John and Lucy Crow Billiter via e-mail Jan 2000. Who had little info on Joseph and said he was a boat builder on the Monongahela River (source from a history?) Jim has a web site: www.billiter.com/joebb/ and his e-mail address is: jim@billiter.com and Ralph's is: rbilliter@copper.net Checked out the web site 26 Jan 2000 and copied some info he had that I didn't on son John's line.

Nov 2000 Karen Romick found some info on the internet that gave info that Joseph was married to Sarah Seward dau of Samuel Seward late of Bracken Co. KY from a deed dated 1816-1824. Also was said Joseph in a land deed in Stokes Co.,NC witnessed a deed thought to be Samuel Seward. (No record of Joseph being in NC so not sure about all this.)
This land record was between Joseph Billiter and wife Sarah of Fayette Co. PA to George Houston of Bracken Co. KY. The deed said that Sarah was the heir and dau of Samuel Seward, dec. This info was sent to Jim Billiter by Dave Gerth who said he received it from someone.

There was a deed recorded in Stokes Co. NC dated 2 Feb 1795 between Samuel Seward to Nathan Charles Craft BK 2

Recently connected with Jim Billiter and brother Nelso Billiter who descend from John and Lucy Cole Billiter via e-mail Jan 2000. Who had info on Joseph and said he was a boat builder on the Monongahela River (source from a history). Jim has a web site: www.billiter.com/joeby/ and his e-mail address is: jim@billiter.com and Ralph's is rbilliter@coppin.net

Checked out the web site 25 Jan 2000 and copied some info he had that I didn't on son John's line.

May 2000 Karen Rohrbach found some info on the internet that says Joseph was married to Sarah Seward dau of Samuel Seward late of Bracken Co. KY from a deed dated 1815-1824. Also was said Joseph in a land deed in Shasta Co., NC witnessed a deed thought to be Samuel Seward. (No record of Joseph being in NC so not sure about all this.)

This land record was between Joseph Billiter and wife Sarah of Fayette Co. PA to George Hunsdon of Bracken Co. KY. The deed said that Sarah was the heir and dau of Samuel Seward, dec'. This info was sent to Jim Billiter by Dave Darth who said he received it from someone.

There was a deed recorded in Shasta Co., NC dated 2 Feb 1795 between Samuel Seward to Nicholas Charles Cert. BK 2

pg 168 which listed Joseph Billiter as witness. DOES THIS MEAN OUR JOSEPH WAS IN NC IN 1795?

Some internet info Mar 2002 from a site by Jay and Kathy's Family History by Kathy Booher has a little bit different info on Joseph. She has his birth date 1770 and his death date Feb 1826 Belle Vernon, Fayette Co. PA. I believe he was still living in 1830 as census indicates. All have said they refer to him as "Joe the Boat Builder' as he built boats and was also the first ferryman of the town of Belle Vernon. It is believed they lived and he worked right where the present I-70 goes over the Monongahela River (which we drove right over in May of 2000 when June,Bob, Faye and I was coming home from trip to VA & MD)

WIFE - Sarah Seward *

BIRTH: has been listed as 1760 but believe would be closer to 1770/1774. As was married about 1790.

MARRIAGE; Prob. by 1790 as started having children by then, not sure where but maybe NJ. As her parents were in Morris Co. NJ.

DEATH: Not sure when this occured either but was later then 1816 and prob; later then 1820 as believe she was with husband in census then in PA.

PARENTS: Was stated she was listed in deed of one Samuel Seward as being the daughter and md to Joseph Billiter of PA in 1816.

Had not located name of wife until Nov 2000 when Karen Romick found someone that had info on a land deed in Bracken Co. KY that listed Sarah as dau of Samuel Seward who died there abt 1816 and deed dated 1824. Hope to have copy of this deed shortly but Bracken Co. Historical Society said they couldn't read much of the books that early. Karen was able to find info on the Seward line back to William Seward in 1604 England, not sure this line to date.

1795 Believe they were in Stokes Co. NC as one Joseph Billiter had signed a deed as witness for Sarah's father Samuel Seward.

1810 Fayette Co. PA Female age 26/45 in household of Joseph Billettor.

1820 Fayette Co. PA one female over 45, prob. wife

WIFE - Eleanor Dobbs

BIRTH: Believe she was born close to 1800 according to age in cenus, believed to be last child.
Eleanor was listed in will of father written 1828 Ohio Co. VA and she and her husband Noah Billiter were listed as executors when the will was written then later in 1829 was probated in Washington Co. PA. Believe Eleanor and famiily and her sister Margaret and family were all living in Ohio Co about 1828 Sept when father wrote his will and he may have been visiting them at the time he became ill.
Eleanor and Noah Billiter to receive 86 acres of land (not sure if same land sister Margaret Guthrey to receive or just same amount, couldn't tell by way will was written) Eleanor and Margaret to share fathers bed and bedding also.

MARRIAGE: Eleanor md Noah C. Dobbs, believe to be abt 1823 could be Washington Co. PA or even Ohio Co. VA. Both were listed as excutors of Aungier Dobbs, father of Eleanor in Marshall Co. WV.

DEATH: Eleanor died after the will of Noah was written 1863 in Marshall Co. VA. When or where has not been located to date. My guess would be after 1870 and before 1880 census in Marshall Co. WV.

1810 Eleanor would have been ca age 10, prob living with parents Washington Co. PA.

1820 Eleanor would have been ca age 20.

1830 Eleanor would have been ca age 30 Noah Billater had one female age 30/40 OHio Co. VA prob. Eleanor.

1840 Marshall Co. VA Noah Biliter had one female age 30/40 and one 60/70

1850 Marshall Co. VA Elenor Billiter age 50 PA in home with husband and 4 children

1870 Marshall Co. WV Moundsville pg 290 #37/37: Elenora 70 Ire -500, Noah 30 coalminer.
(she was not born in Ireland but parents were, she was born in PA)

Have corresponded with several that have been working on this family and also have located some info from the internet that agrees and dissagrees on information.

CHILD 1 - Jane Billiter

Info from family researchers say Jane born ca 1825. 1850 census states her age 22 and 1860 age 30 which gives us a range of born ca 1828 to 1830.

FIND A GRAVE internet site of 3 children listed her death date as 1882. b. 1825.
Listed Jesse's death date aft 1900 was 80 then 1900 census and 3 children listed his birth as 1820
1900 census listed his birth as Nov 1820 PA. Living with housekeeper Margaret Bertrande.
Find a Grave site of Lucinda Jane Lydick Dardinger, listed parents, Catherine Evans Lydick listed parents, Mary Ann Lydick Miller listed parents, all Jesse J. Lydick and Jane Billiter. Didn't locate them in the New Bethel Cem in WV that was said they were buried.

Couldn't find any marriage record of this famiy but did find some deaths and children married.

CHILD 2 - Joseph C. Billiter *

BIRTH: Only have census records for date of birth and that varries from 1824 to 1827. With ages of his other brothers and sisters date was probably 1827. Probably born in PA as believe that is where his parents were living.

MARRIAGE: Had not located a marriage record in PA or WV but probably about 1848 according to births of children. Located no mg record in Marshall Co. WV and No records in Washington, Greene & Fayette Co. PA for that time period. Did locate the marriage record in Green Co.PA from the internet on a site that Sheri had located and sent to me. So finally after all this time we have a marriage record. Joseph Billetter to Lucinda Greathouse 25 Jun 1848 of VA. Married by Francis Drake Esq. This marriage along with 479 others were located in the summer of 1988 in a basement room of the Greene Co. PA court house in Waynesbury, PA by Helen S. Durbin. Some of the records were faded and difficult to read and records were handwritten in the old style. On the internet were only listed 1843-1850 and only 62 listed, unless there was more on the site that I wasn't able to locate. which was actually on the land Joseph Billiter owned and the stones were removed when the land was bought by someone else, would explain why we haven't been able to locate any stones relating to the Billiter family in the Mt Carmel cem or surrounding areas. As not able to locate stones for Alice, Margaret, Joseph and Lucinda Billiter. Some may have died before the Mt Carmel cem started and they were buried on their own farm which was often done. Land records showing this land being sold always stated part was to be left for burial grounds. Land records of John Sadler also stated 1 acre of his land was to left for church and cemetery, which is known to be Mt Carmel church and cemetery. This land was donated after Joseph Billiter died in 1886/1887.

It would appear according to the land record of 25 Jan 1887 stating he is deceased and land to go to children that he had died later part of 1886.

It appears by the land records that his land did join what is now Mt Carmel cemetery but the road now goes thru what was his land. The quit claim deed was for NE SE of Sec 31 Twp 61 Rg 16 in Adair Co. MO.

Joseph was a basket maker as well as farmed.

CIVIL WAR: Donna Lester found some info on the internet that gave info that Joseph C. Billiter was in the Civil War. He as a Pvt. under Capt. Isaac Simbler's Independent Co. from Adair Co. MO and he inlisted 1 Sep 1864 and was relieved 11 Oct 1865. She sent me a copy of the papers also.
I guess we hadn't thought to look for him in Civil War although I had looked at some Civil War records in Columia, MO library one time and did not find anyone listed that I knew so maybe overlooked him.

CENSUS RECORDS:

CIRCUIT COURT RECORDS MACON CO. MO:

April Term 1926: Sarah Helton et al, plaintiffs, vs N.E. Keithley, Administrator etc, defendants. #20628 Copied from Macon Co. MO court house after death of Levi. Not sure what the meaning is as listed land in Hidalgo Co. TX that apparently was bought by Levi. Attorneys M.D. Campbell and Ben Franklin and Son for the Plaintiffs and W.C. Goodson for Mary Elva Herndon, formerly Thompson, now Simpson.

In appearing to the court that Pearl Lowe Thompson, now Robinson, is a minor under the age of 21 yrs. John N. Franklin is the appointed guardian for said minor and answers for said minor in this cause.

The court finds that this is a suit between the plaintiffs and defendants to adjudge and decree a deed dated June 14, 1918, by and between L.D. Thompson and Mary (Dowdy) Thompson, husband and wife, of Gifford, Mo to Mrs Elva Herndon of San Francisco Co, CA to certain lands and real estate lying and being in the county of Hidalgo, TX. Described as East 1/2 of lot number 219 out of porcion #69 Jun Jose Hine Josa original grantee according to map and plat of the sub division as made by E.B. Gore, recorded Vol 3 pgs 133, 134 in Hidalgo Co. TX.

Court decided to rule in favor of mary Elva Herndon. (last page not there). Was to be divided after Mary got her part, one third to M.D. Campbell attorneys and remainder divided among: (? need to get last page).

CIRCUIT COURT RECORDS MACON CO. MO:

April Term 1916: Sarah Heaton et al, plaintiffs, vs R.E. Rattrey, Administrator etc, defendants. #20628 Copied from Macon Co. MO court house after death of Lev. Not sure what the meaning is as listed land in Hidalgo Co. TX that apparently was bought by Lev. Attorney M.O. Campbell and Ben Franklin and Son for the Plaintiffs and W.C. Goodson for Mary Eva Herndon, formerly Thompson, now Simpson.

In according to the court that Pearl Lowa Thompson, now Robinson, is a minor under the age of 21 yrs. John R. Franklin is the appointed guardian for said minor and answers for said minor in this cause.

The court finds that this is a suit between the plaintiffs and defendants to adjudge and decide a deed dated June 14, 1918, by and between L.D. Thompson and Mary (Cindy) Thompson, husband and wife, of Linton, Mo to Mrs Eva Herndon of San Francisco Co. CA to certain lands and real estate lying and being in the county of Hidalgo, TX. Described as Elec. 1/2 of lot number 219 out of section #28 Jim Hoke Hine Tract original grantee according to map and plat of the sub division as made by E.E. Cage, recorded Vol 3 pgs 133, 134 in Hidalgo Co. TX.

Court decided to rule in favor of Mary Eva Herndon. (last page not there)
Was to be divided after Mary got her part, one third to M.O. Campbell attorney and remainder divided among: (I need to get last page)

WIFE – Mary Martha Bglitor *

BIRTH: Family, census records, cemetery records and bible record. Pictures of Mary with husband and children before she died in 1956.

MARRIAGE: Recorded at Kirksville, Adair Co. MO 8K 2 pg 19

DEATH: Family, cemetery stone, and the lovea Bible record. Wrote to Jefferson City for copy of death certificate and they said they had none on file. Said she died at her home in Linton, Macon Co. MO. Funeral home can't be but no obituary located.

Find A Grave website we listed Mary Bell and death date and place, spouse Levi Douglas Thompson and a of their children, picture of their grave marker but we try hard to read and also go of entrance to Mt Central Cemetery
The four children listed was Rosetta, Levi Douglas, Laura Alice Lowa, Eva M. Thompson Myers

Records have been found in Adair Co. and Macon Co. Mo as they lived in the vicinity which was in Adair Co. but when they moved to South Dakota they were in Macon Co. and North Dakota was in Adair Co. Lots already (without books) divided the town. Several land records in Macon and Adair Co were located that Mary owned.

WIFE - Rovene Melvina Dyer

Mom fell out of bed 14 Feb and bruised her ribs bad but waited 4 days to go to hospital then was there 6 days and during an x ray they thought they saw a rib punctured into her lung and after they sent her home for while she couldn't eat, swallow pills and had a hard time breathing so the 27th Mar the nurse at Jersy Ridge Center sent her to the Trinity Hospital and she told them she wanted nothing, just a bed and let her sleep and so they sent her up to Hospice and hospice nurses come in and she lingered untill the next day at 1:30 when passed away into peaceful sleep. Death cert. listed heart stopped and didn't know there was extending circumstancess that cause it. So accident insurance wouldn't pay.

"The Daily Democrat
Huntington, Indiana
Thurs, 17 Aug 1893
HUGH F. BILLITER
Another pioneer called home
Hugh F. Billiter died at his residence in Wayne township this morning at 1:30 o'clock. His death was not a surprise to anyone who knew his condition for the past month.
Mr. Billiter was born in Pennsylvania, March 16, 1819 and was 74 years and 5 mos. old He was the second of nine children born to Joseph and Elizabeth Billiter. When two or three years old, he moved with his parents to Brown county, Ohio, where he resided for about twenty-five years, and where he married Druzilla Staton who survives him. He moved to this county in 1852, settling on the farm in Wayne township where he since resided.
To Mr and Mrs Billiter were born nine children, six of whom are still living; Joseph H. and William N, of Wayne township; Mrs Sarah A. Bowman, wife of ex-Sherif Bowman of this city; Mrs Mary J. Bradford and Mrs Rebecca A. Bradford, both of Grant county, and Mrs Lucina C. King, of Mt Etna. He leaves three brothers and three sisters; Solomon Billiter, of Mt Etna; William M. Billiter, of this city and Henry Billiter; Mrs Jane Bowman and Mrs Druzilla Lind, of Jefferson and Mrs Clarinda Hawkins of Lancaster Township.
Mr Billiter was a very strongly built man, both in mind and body. About two years ago he was injured by timbers falling on him in a ditch; and was afterwards injured by a barn door blowing against him; he also suffered a severe attack of la grippe from which he never fully recovered. For the past year, these and his age made inroads upon his ruggedness. About two weeks ago, a surgical operation was necessary to remove some trouble of the lower bowels. There was a thickness or cancerous trouble in the stomach and for some days he was unable to retain any nourishment.
In his death, the community loses on of its most substantial and respected citizens, a man upright and sincere in his dealings with his follow men.
The funeral occurs from the M.E. church in Mt Etna Friday morning, leaving the residence at 10 o'clock. Rev. Conner will conduct the services assisted by Rev. Brown."

1840 Hugh maybe with father Joseph in census of Brown Co. OH, he would be abt 23.

Brother Hugh Ford said she was living in Jefferson in 1893.

She was 3rd of 11 children of Joseph and Elizabeth Shaffer Info on internet by Jim Billiter given to him by family of John Curry. (July 2012)

She md Samuel Pence Bowman 1 Feb 1838 in Brown Co. Oh., the home of brides family.They had 14 children.

"Bio Sketch of Sarah Jane Billiter Bowman and her Family by John Curry" 1st paragraph wrote under her father as pertained to his life more.

2nd paragraph" Sarah Jae Billiter was married to Samuel Pence Bowman on 1 Feb 1838 in Brown CVo. OH, the home of th brides family. He was th son of Henry Bowman and Sabina Sibylla Pence both of old German families of the beautiful Shenandoah Valley of Virginia.

Sarah Jane Billiter lived little more then a year in her birth place on her fathers farm in Fayette Co. PA when her parents moved with their 3 young children to Huntington Twp, Brown co. OH. There the Billiter family lived 1822-1847. Eight more children were born to Joseph and Elizabeth Billiter and Sarah Jane spent a happy childhood in her parents farm home.

In the fall of 1837 Sarah Jane Billiter attended the county fair in Georgetown, OH with her family. There she met Samuel Pence Bowman. They became acquainted an began courting and became engaged on Christmas DAy 1837. On 1 Feb 1838 they were marrid by the local Justice of the peace, John Jenkings. In passing it might be mentioned that Pres. U.S. Grant. the same age as Sarah Jane Billiter, spent his boyhood in Georgetown. At the time of their marriage Samuel was almost 34 years old and Sarah Jane was 17. The young couple lived on the Bowman farm which Samuel had been running since the death of his father 28 years previously. Samuel's mother Sibylla Bowman soon died in 1838 and Samuel leased the farm for four years until her estate was finally settled in 1842. Samuel and Sarah Jane purchased a farm in Huntington Twp near the Billiter family. There they lived for 14 years. First child of Samuel and Sarah Jane was born in 1839 and died at birth. Seven more children followed before the famiiy moved to Indiana. Samuel was 50 at the time of their removal, but they had 6 more children after going to IN.

Billiters located to IN and by 1852 thought the sons and sons in law should come there so the Bowman family left OH to IN about early Nov 1853 with their 7 oldest children and dog named Dick Hired man went day before driving livestock. Bowman family came in a great covered wagon which contained all their belonging. 8 days on the road.
About this time Sarah Jane's brothers and their families came from Brown Co. to Huntington Co. : Solomon, Hugh, David R., William M.,

When they moved to an 80 acre farm in Sec 5 of Jefferson Twp, just over a mile to the east of the Billiter homestead in Apr 1854 They had a large house, rather a double cabin of eight rooms, four on each side of a large open hall, two rooms down and two rooms up. Indians had a path which to the west led into the village of Mt. Etna about 2 miles distant and the Bowman children used this path on their journeys back and forth into that little community. Samuel Bowman was a moderate abolitionalist and in sourthern OH had been active in the movement and when he came to IN his farm became a station on the Underground Railroad.

Their son Ellis Bowman 1844-1929 was the first of the young men to enlist in the army and at the end of his term he was exhausted and ill but was made healthy by his family. Which at that time Samuel developed an acute heart condition from which he suffered until death 10 years later.
Died 1872 of heart attack. Much more info on the family that can be read in this article.

HUNTINGTON DAILY DEMOCRAT
Huntington, Indiana
Mon., September 28, 1896
Obituary
Sarah (Billiter) Bowman departed this life at the home of her son near Bracken, Ind., Sept. 21st, 1896, aged 75 years, 6 months and 19 day.
The deceased was born in Pennsylvania, March 2nd, S.D. 1821. Shortly afterward she removed with her parents to Brown County, Ohio.
She was united in marriage to Samuel Bowman, Feb. 23, 1837. Eight sons and five daughters blessed this union. Seven of these preceded her to the world beyond.
She removed with her husband and family to Huntington County, Ind. in 1847, where she resided until her death. Her partner in life was taken from her in 1873 and since them she has resided, until lately, at the old homestead near Mt. Etna. She united with the Christian church at Purviance Chapel in 1873 and lived in that faith until her death.
She leaves one brother, two sisters, five sons, one daughter, thirty-three grandchildren and nine great grandchildren besides a host of fiends to mourn her loss.
Funeral services were conducted at the German Baptist church at Lancaster by Rev. Page, who delivered an able discourse from Isaiah 64th chapter and 6th verse.

Jan 2000 Corresponded with Jim and Ralph Billiter via e-mail and they descend from Peter Billiter. His info listed Peter's complete birth and death info. his wifes info and some on children. He had 4 children by 1st wife.

Some confusion about Peter's birth.
He died in Columbus, OH and buried in Greenlawn cemetery Lot # 61 sec 42 as his first wife and his 3rd wife is buried in Lot # 61 Sec 93. He was divorced from his 2nd wife according to Etta Allen's divorce suit in 1898 in Columbus OH court records.

He apparently had several jobs during his lifetime, according to the Columbus City Directory: 1887 Painter; 1889 Painter; 1893 Clerk; 1897 Laborer; 1898 Clerk; 1901 Clerk; 1902 Clerk; 1994 Meat Cutter; 1906 Meat Market; 1910 Meat Marked; 1914 Meats @ Central market; 1915 Essie's Meats @ Central Market; 1918 Butcher; 1920 Butcher.

Peter seems to have died fairly affluent. Because his father was dying, James Russell Billiter Jr., was administering Peter's third wife's estate in 1947 (Essie). Jim reached the mattress in which Essie had secreted Peter's savings too late, Essie's brothers had removed it first. Jim, Bob and Pauline received only "a couple hundred dollars". This according to Robert Charles Billiter and Jim's wife, Virginia Reeb (Billiter) Butler.

Apparently the divorce suit was somewhat messy in 1898 and Jerry Billiter is a defendant and this lends to Peter's not sure Henry Greathouse md Sarah Jane Billiter, but family group sheet from Salt Lake City states so.

WIFE - Sarah Jane Billiter

One source, family group sheets from Salt Lake City says a Sarah Jane Billiter md Henry Greathouse and another source says Sarah Jane Billiter md Wm Henry Dobbs? Who is right?

Haven't been able to locate any info on them. Jim Billiter also didn't have any info on her so maybe she does belong in the Dobbs family? He had 8 children listed for Joseph and wife but no Sarah. Did have one Sallie who md John Springer and he died 1833 in PA.

Donna Lester sent info Feb 2000 and she still doesn't know if this Sarah md the Greathouse or someone else.

Mortility schedules Monongalia, WV Mar 1850 listed one Sarah Greathouse age 36 died in childbirth born in PA which all info could fit this Sarah Billiter Greathouse that we know nothing about for sure. That is if a Sarah Billiter did marry a Henry Greathouse and not a Wm Dobbs? Her birth would be 1814 which would fit this family?

THE SEWARD FAMILY has become scattered over the greater part of our country. From the Atlantic coast to the western slope of the Sierra Nevadas. Aside from a few groups of close relatives who reside near one another, they know little or nothing of their distant cousins. This should not be. A family that has had its name engraved so prominently upon the pages of the history of our country should strive to keep in touch with one another. They should know about their ancestors. Those sturdy pioneers who cleared the primeval forests with their axes, fought the red men and later fought for freedom against the mother country and in the dark sixties fought some for the North and some for the South. Little is recorded of the struggles the first settlers experienced and we must, in order to have before our eyes a picture of those days, call upon our imagination and let it play its part—Rely upon it, it will not, it cannot, paint the scenes too vividly.

The country was an almost unbroken wilderness at the time of the immigration of Obadiah Seward, which was about 1660. Later some of his descendants took their families and tramped over mountains and forded rivers until they came to the fertile soils and beautiful country where now are the mighty states of Ohio, Illinois and Kentucky. Here they enacted over again the lives of their fathers. They did in this new and unsettled country what had been done one or two generations before in the East. Little did one of our family think as he applied his axe to the first tree which was to be felled in that region that on that site would stand, in a few years, the great city of Cincinnati. Little did Colonel John Seward think, as he led his regiment in the retreat from Long Island across the East River to New York and thence over his native soil of New Jersey, that a grandson of his would one day all but becom[illegible] President of the great Republic which he was striving to found. Although that grandson was not to be a President he was to make a public record which would place him in history as the greatest Secretary of State our country has as yet produced. What Colonel Seward did know was that wherever he was he commanded respect, and that wherever any relative of his was he likewise commanded the respect of his neighbors and friends. That is true today. Wherever you find the name Seward you find honesty, integrity, a high sense of honor, bravery, affection and sympathy. Why then if our name means so much when it is spoken, should we not strive to uphold its record, know one another, at least know of one another and of the lives our distant cousins are leading. Surely this should constitute one of our moral duties. It is a duty we owe to one another, and may not this duty be a pleasure?

The information I have gathered has been obtained largely by correspondence, and in publishing this work I first wish to express my deep sense of appreciation and gratitude to all who have assisted me by replying to my numerous questions on the subject. I am also greatly indebted to several for aiding me in other ways. It has been a tedious task, yet one in which my interest has never flagged. Many knotty problems which presented themselves at first gradually unfolded until almost every branch of the family in this country became known to me. Now that the information has been gathered I realize it is not to me alone that it belongs but to the whole family. I now take the keenest pleasure in arranging it in such form that there may be a complete, or nearly complete, record of the Seward Family as it is possible to obtain. I trust that two or three generations hence some one of our descendants will likewise write of the future Sewards and add to this record which I have compiled.

Obadiah Seward and Descendants

NO EVIDENCE seems to exist to prove from which part of England our Sewards came. We know of several who came to America separately and landed at different points and settled not far from the place of landing; but which one may have been our ancestor is unknown. It is to be regretted that the connection between the Sewards of England and the Sewards of America cannot be definitely determined. However, there seems to be no doubt but that the American Sewards did come from England or Wales.

Among the papers in the possession of the writer are some notes written by "G. A. T." in 1907. I am sorry not to be able definitely to identify G. A. T. but he was an investigator who acted for George F. Seward.*

Following are these notes in full:

THE NAME

"The following is taken from Burke's Peerage, etc., (The writer of this series of Seward notes begs to state that, as will be seen on a following page, he has found the name in Devonshire as early as the time of Edward the Confessor, but thinks it proper that the following matter should be given first, and then the matter he, the writer of this, has found and authenticated. He has not had time or means to verify the items given from Burke, but thinks they are correct in the main.)

The family name seems to have originated with Siward who was Earl of Northumberland in the Eleventh Century. He was a somewhat noted character in English history and figures in Skakespeare's Macbeth and in Bulwer's Harold. Perhaps the name was taken by him or bestowed on him as his title of office according to the custom of the times. He was the Sea Ward, or Warden of the Sea, his function being to protect the coast from the incursions of the Danish and Norwegian Vikings, or pirates. For this purpose he had a mounted force of "ten thousand horses".

He was one of the three great rulers styled Earl by the Saxons and Dukes by the Normans, Leofric of Mercia and Godwin of East Anglia being the others. They have been called "Kingmakers", as they practically controlled the succession to the throne. He was a loyal supporter of Edward the Confessor but opposed the growing influence of the Normans at his court.

Siward's daughter married Duncan, King of Scotland. When Duncan was murdered by Macbeth, Siward was the military chieftain who led the Birnam Wood attack on Dunsinane. His eldest son, Young Siward, fell in the fight, but it resulted in victory for Siward and placed his grandson Malcolm on the Scotland throne as Malcolm III (The Malcolm Canmore who was the progenitor of a long line of Scottish Kings).

On the death of Siward (the elder) his son Waltheof was too young to assume and maintain his father's sway, and it passed into other hands. In a few years Norman influence had gained ascendency at the English court. William the Conqueror came over and seized the Crown and portioned out estates and titles among his followers. Malcolm III was killed at the siege of Alnwick Castle.

Siward's descendants, however, intermarried with both the Saxon and Norman royal lines. Waltheof married Judith, niece of William the Conqueror and was restored to his patrimonial estates as Earl of Northumberland. Their daughter, Maud, married David I of Scotland. Robert Bruce was among their descendants.

Malcolm III married Margaret, the sister of Edgar Atheling, the Saxon claimant to the English throne. Their daughter, Matilda, married Henry I of England, known as Henry Beauclerc. Their granddaughter, Emma, married David, Prince of North Wales, then an independent potentate.

It may be that the Sewards of Wales, Devonshire, Somersetshire, and adjacent counties given on the following pages, and their descendants, the American Sewards, were descendants or kinsmen of the family of Siward of Northumberland, but as authentic records are lacking, and as the supposition rests mainly on tradition or conjecture, he must leave that question until such time as he or someone else has time and means to expend on further search. One point advanced, however, in evidence is that the Seward arms generally in vogue among the bearers of the name, has for its crest a ducal coronet with a horse's leg projecting, which may refer (as one paper before me has it) to the old cavalry commander, while the field gules with chevrons or ermine and a bar d'or, with three leopards' heads are "manifestly the augmentation from the royal arms bestowed for a loyal service to the crown".

As to the correct arms for the American family of Sewards, the writer (G. A. T.) ventures no opinion until further research has taken the line of Obadiah, the emigrant, back step by step to such ancestor as may have been armigerous. He has collected, and tabulated on the following pages, only such matter as has been authenticated by himself personally in England and America.

Seward

(Early data, with authorities)

RICHARD SYWARD in the twenty-sixth year of the reign of Edward I was one of those (a) who had summons to attend a great council at Carlisle, furnished

(a) Dug. list of summon with horse and arms; on which occasion he is denominated as baron. (b) But excepting at this period, and in the following year and at the same place (c) the name of Syward is not entered as a baron. If the name be viewed with reference to the great Siward (see a full account on a preceding page) the Saxon Earl of Northumberland, (d) it is of most noble and ancient degree; but the descent from that famous person has (as yet) not been established. William the son of Siward (12th year of Henry II) upon the assessment of aid for the marriage of Maud, the King's daughter, certified (e) that he held in his demesne a certain village called Goseford, and half of another called Mileton, in the County of Northumberland, by the service of one knight's fee, "de verteri feoffamento". Regarding the Richard named first above, there appears in the Wardrobe Account of 28th year of Edward I, mention of a Richard Syward, therein termed a Banneret, who from the date, may be termed to be the same person as named in the aforesaid writs and summonses, and perhaps the same who married Philippa one of the three daughters and co-heiresses of Thomas Basset of Hedendon, which Philippa had been before married to Henry, Earl of Warwick. Subsequent to this era Matthew Paris mentions (f) a Richard Seward, who in the reign of Henry III was a very martial person and during that troublesome era made a conspicuous figure. In 1236 (g) along with Richard, Earl of Cornwall, and many other noble persons (h) he was signed with the cross for an expedition to the Holy Land, after when, he died (i) 1243 (33d year of Henry III). He very probably was the father of Richard before mentioned, 26 Edward I, and to Thomas Seward, who by Matthew Paris is represented (j) as "Juvenis in militia praeclarus". But the first progenitor of this family most likely was the same Richard Seward, who was one of the twelve knights who accompanied Robert Fitz Hamon in his conquest of Glamorganshire and was rewarded by him (k) with the Castle and Lordship of Valavan, or Talavan. He had thus helped in winning Glamorganshire from the Welsh as early as the time of William Rufus. This manor he received lay between Llantrisant and Cow Bridge. There he built a castle the remains of which only just show above ground, and in that district his family became founders of the Duchy of Lancaster — returning to their lands in Somersetshire in the time of Henry III.

(1) This same Richard is called by Risdon "Richard Seward of Somersetshire", which was one of the twelve knights, etc., from whom descend the Devonshire (Gabwell parish of Stoke-in-Teignhead and Combe-in-Teignhead) etc. Sewards. Another line from Richard (parliamentary Baron in Henry III's time) (m) was settled at Winterborn-Clenston or Clenchestón in Dorset, (will have more to say about these Dorset Sewards later but it should be noted here that Yeovil in Somersetshire is close to the Dorset border and that the places noted at beginning of (1) of these notes, in Devonshire are also near the eastern portion of Devonshire which like Somersetshire adjoins Dorsetshire) after whom Reginald, Roger, Roger John and John enjoyed it.

The Devonshire land held by Seward (as per next page or so of these notes) during the reign of Edward the Confessor; is in the same locality as Gabwell Stoke-in-Teignhead (near the head of the river Teign) and Combe (meaning Valley) in-Teignhead, that is southern Devonshire. The monument to Johannes Seward which will be mentioned on a future page of these notes, is still to be seen at Combe-in-Teignhead, and was discovered by the writer of these notes (G. A. T. in 1907).

Mr. Edwin Seward of Cardiff, whose birthplace was Yeoviland from the late G. T. Clarke (whose estates of Telygen join the old Seward Manor of Talavan, which contains the ruins of Sir Richard Seward's Castle) state that their records and other local records show that the Sewards have lived at Yeovil in Somersetshire certainly from the time of Queen Elizabeth. In 1602 the Rev. John Seward owned land in the vicinity of Yeovil. However, the writer of this (G. A. T.) has taken it much earlier, i. e., to Edward the Confessor's time.

Devonshire Lands Held By Seward

From the above we see that six parcels of land that were in possession of Seward at the time of Edward the Confessor, had, after the Conquest and at the time of the taking of the Survey for the Domesday Book, passed into its immediate neighborhood. One of those named is Richard de Seward''.

1070 — Malcolm of Scotland (son of King Duncan and of a daughter of Earl Siward) marries Margaret the sister of Edgar Atheling.

1071 — Siward Barn (Biorn Siward?) joins Hereward in rebellion. A note says that he is mentioned in the Domesday Book as having held in the time of Edward the Confessor large possessions in Gloucester, Norfolk and Yorkshire.

1075 — Waltheof (probably son of Earl Siward) flees over the sea but he asked forgiveness (for having conspired against William I with Ralph de Gueder and other Normans) and the ''King spoke him fairly till he came to England when he had him seized''.

1076 — Waltheof ''who has been betrayed into the hands of his enemies by his wife'' (Waltheof married Judith, niece of William the Conqueror) ''and is beheaded at Winchester May 31. His body is buried at Croyland Abbey and miracles are said to be performed at his tomb''.

1087 — William Rufus crowned September 28, repairs to Winchester, distributes much of his father's treasure for masses for his soul and releases many prisoners ''agreeable to his dying wish''. Among these was Seward Barn (Biorn?).

1094 — Donald Bane, son of Malcolm, succeeds to the throne of Scotland.

1100 — Henry I married Maud the daughter of Malcolm of Scotland.

1110 — (?) Henry's daughter Maud is married to the Emperor of Germany Henry V.

1118 — Queen Maud died at Westminster May 1.

1124 — Alexander of Scotland dies and is succeeded by his brother David who is also Earl of Huntington in England. He obtained his earldom by marriage with Maud, widow of Simon de St. Luz and daughter of Waltheof.

1126 — Henry returns to England bringing with him his daughter Maud (widow of Henry V of Germany).

1127 — Maud marries Geoffrey of Anjou.

1135-1154 — Reign of Stephen contested by Maud.

1154-1189 — Reign of Henry II, son of Maud.

The following is taken from The Name and Family of Seward compiled by the Media Research Bureau, Washington, D. C.:

The Name and Family of Seward

The name of SEWARD is believed by some historians to have been derived from the Saxon baptismal name of SIWARD, while others state that it was derived from the residence of its first bearers in either Sewardstone or Sewardesley, England, but it is evident that the more ancient of these derivations is that first mentioned. The name is found in ancient records in the various spellings of Siward, Sywart, Sygwat, Syward, Sywat, Suert, Suertt, Seyward, Suartt, Suart, Sywardus (son of Syward), Sewards, Seaward, Sewarde, and Seward, of which the form last mentioned is that most generally used in America today.

Families bearing this name were resident at early dates in the English Counties of Devon, York, Essex, Northampton, Oxford, Norfolk, Suffolk, Buckingham, and London, as well as in various parts of Ireland. It appears that these families were, for the most part, of the landed gentry and yeomanry of the British Isles.

Among the earliest records of the family in England are those of Siward, Earl of Northumbrians at the time of the Norman Conquest of England; Siward de Liment about the year 1155; Syward and Sywardus of Oxfordshire about 1273; Thomas Sywat of County Suffolk and Richard Syward of Buckinghamshire at slightly later dates; and Hugo and Johanna Syward of Yorkshire about 1379.

Of the noted Devonshire branch of the family in England, William Seward was the father about the beginning of the Sixteenth Century, or before, by his wife, Joan Baron, of John, Robert, Philip and Christopher. The eldest son, John, married Eleanor Kymworthy and had issue by her of William, John, and Joan, of whom the first had issue by his wife Maud Byngley, of a son named William, who married Eleanor Norris and was the father of at least two children, Agnes and Winifred.

One of the earliest immigrants of the name in America was John Seward, who came from Bristol, England, to Virginia about 1635 and resided in Isle of Wight County. By his wife Sarah he is believed to have been the father of two sons, John and James. It is also possible that this immigrant was the brother of William Seward, who came from London to Virginia in 1634 and resided in Surry County, possibly leaving issue there of a son named James and others as well.

About 1643 William Seward settled at Taunton, Mass., whence he later removed to New Haven, Conn. In 1651 he married Grace Norton, by whom he was the father of Mary, John, Joseph, Samuel (died young), Caleb, Stephen (died unmarried), Samuel, Hannah, and Ebenezer. The son Ebenezer left no definite record concerning his immediate family or descendants.

Of the sons of the immigrant William of New England, John resided at Guilford, Conn., and was married in 1679 to Abigail Bushnell, by whom he was the father of Abigail (died young), John, William, Hezekiah, Abigail, Daniel, Deborah, Jedediah and Temperance; Joseph married Judith Bushnell, sister of his elder brother's wife, in Guilford in 1681 and had issue by her of Joseph (died young), Judith, Mary (died young), Joseph, Mary, Samuel, Patience, Nathaniel, and Anna, of whom the last four are believed to have been born at Durham. Caleb is also believed to have made his home at Guilford and Durham, Conn., and was married in 1686 to Lydia Bushnell, sister of his brothers' wives, who gave him seven children, Daniel, Lydia, Caleb, Thomas, Noadiah, Ephraim and Ebenezer.

One Obadiah Seward, whose ancestry is not known, settled at Brookhaven, L. I., in 1664 and was the father there by his wife Ann of Obadiah, Joseph, Abner, Samuel and Eliakim. Of these, Obadiah resided in New Jersey and was the father by his wife Isabella of Eliakim, Mehitable, John, Lydia and Isaac.

Others of the name who emigrated to America in the seventeenth century but left few records of their immediate families or descendants were Edward of Ipswich, Mass., in 1637; Robert of Exeter, N. H., in 1639, who is believed to have later resided at Portsmouth and to have been been the brother of Richard Seward of the last-mentioned place; George of Guilford, Conn., before 1651, who is believed to have been the brother of the immigrant William of New England and to have later removed to Newark, N. J.; James of Surry County, Va., in 1655, and Roger of Boston, Mass., in 1655.

In the latter half of the following century Aaron Seward came from England to Delaware County, N. Y. He is believed to have been the father in 1770 of a son named Sylvanus, who married Anna Clark and was the father of at least one son named James Calwell, and possibly of others as well.

The offspring of these and possibly of other lines of the family in America have removed to various sections of the country and have made a worthy contribution to the progress of the nation. A sturdy, energetic and conscientious race, of keen mental faculty and resolute will, the Sewards have won success in many fields of endeavor.

Among the Sewards who fought in the War of the Revolution were Lieutenant Richard of Pennsylvania; Captain Thomas of Massachusetts, and numerous others in the ranks of the various New England and Southern States.

Thomas, John, Robert, Joseph, Samuel, Daniel, Ebenezer, James, Richard and William are some of the Christian names most favored by the family for its male progeny.

One of the most ancient and probably the best known of the coats of arms of the Seward family of Great Britain is described in heraldic terms as follows (Burke, General Armory, 1884):

ARMS: --- "Gules, on a fess or, between two chevrons ermines, three leopards (another, three leopards' faces) azure."

Prior to 1908, the late Doctor John L. Seward,* then of Orange, N. J., was at the Metropole Hotel in London, England, and there quite by accident met Mr. Edwin Seward of Cardiff, Wales. In a letter to me, this Edwin Seward of Cardiff writes as follows:

"The Seward genealogy is of course a topic of much interest to those of us who bear the name; which I have good cause for believing is one of the very oldest surnames in our country's history. From the point of view of my own family it goes back a long way. My native place is Yeovil, in Somersetshire, and before leaving home as a boy, I heard of some supposed connection with Wales, but it was only after living in Wales a few years that the connection was pointed out to me by Mr. George T. Clark, one of the foremost archaeologists and writers of Europe, "Clark's Mediaeval Architecture" being one of the first works of the age, whilst his researches (especially at the Record Office in London) in all matters relating to Glamorgan are now regarded as the surest and purest fountain-head of its earlier history. The house I am writing this in, I built on land which belongs to Mr. G. T. Clark's son.

"Mr. Clark claimed me on my first introduction to him as a "Seward of Talavan" — urging me — as a young man, to follow up a subject which would open for me some of the most interesting pages of history. This I did, and some result of it is shown in the little brochure which I send you herewith, "Churches and Castles of Glamorgan", which possibly you may have already seen with Dr. J. L. Seward.

"From Mr. Clark I learnt that Talavan instead of being 80 miles away in North Wales as I had thought, is within 12 miles of Cardiff; indeed, from my garden here I can just make out a far-away hill (we are 5 miles behind Cardiff) — the sight of Talavan, with its still existing ramparts giving an irregularity to the sky-line of its big hill plateau. The Sewards during the Norman period were amongst the leading English barons who had invaded Glamorgan and settled here. But they were politically broken and dispersed here from circa Edward III. Many of their scions, however, remained in several parts of the county; indeed more than a hundred years later, one of them was custos of the Port of Cardiff. Generally, however, they were in more humble positions. Glamorgan has always been a maritime county, and in Elizabeth's days and earlier there are reasons for believing that in the constant maritime contact between its coasts and those of Somerset and Devon, the Sewards bore a sufficient part. Such contact and its extension to the greater seas and foreign countries grew apace during Elizabeth's and succeeding reigns — especially to "the Americas" as related in Kingsley's Westward Ho. Whether it was from a Glamorgan, a Somerset, or a Devon coasting point that the Seward who started the American stock took his departure seems "Again by marriage the Lordship of Glamorgan passed, this time, to the Despensers.

"In the early years of Hugh le Despenser's holding — in 1316 — came the rising led by Llewelyn Bren, a representative of a long line of Welsh leaders of this locality, to whom ordinary history has rendered but very scant justice. He attacked Caerphilly, then held by Sir John Fleming; Llewelyn was defeated and was killed by the cruel and rapacious Despenser in opposition to the King's intentions. It is believed that Llewelyn's body was buried at Cardiff, and it will no doubt be remembered that a supposed discovery of it occurred some 14 years ago at the southern end of Lord Bute's gardens in Cathays Park in rear of Queen Street.

"I am regarding the history of the two greater Castles of Glamorgan, Cardiff and Caerphilly, as being sufficiently known to need no special reference. But most of the Glamorgan lordships were held from Cardiff, as the seat of the Lord paramount.

"(Certain of the fees covering these holdings were almost nominal, but some few of the old fee customs, in spite of the changes and chances of long told generations, still remain. One of them relates to Merthyr Mawr, held by the Sewards from the Lords paramount at Cardiff by the annual contribution of two sparrow-hawks. Later on, this was commuted to a payment of two shillings, and this sum of two shillings is still paid from Merthyr Mawr every year to the Marquess of Bute at Cardiff.)"

The Sewards In America

Now, as to the Sewards in America, there are some who trace their ancestry to one who landed in Boston; others trace to another who landed in Maryland; others to one who landed in Virginia, and there are also several whose first American ancestor landed here more recently. As for our own branch of the family, we definitely trace back to Obadiah Seward who was in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York, in 1664, but I have been unable to discover the exact origin of this Obadiah.

When I first took up the study of the genealogy of our family, it was supposed that our branch came from an Obadiah Seward of Southold, Long Island. Southold, Long Island, is less than fifty miles to the northeast of Brookhaven, Long Island, and I believe Southold was a port where vessels from England frequently landed. It is, therefore, possible that Obadiah was in Southold before he was in Brookhaven. It is, however, clearly well established that he was a young man when he was first in Brookhaven. It is also interesting to note that across Long Island Sound on the Connecticut shore is the town of Guilford. There were Sewards in Guilford at the time they were in Long Island. Those in Guilford at that time were descended from a Seward who had landed in Boston. It is possible that Obadiah or his immediate ancestor came from the shores of Connecticut. The geographical relation of Long Island and Connecticut point toward this possibility. Also the fact that at this time Long Island was a part of the Colony of New Haven — also the New Haven Colony, which sold Connecticut lands to settlers might have sold lands located on Long Island — are three bits of evidence which might lead us to believe that Obadiah came to Long Island by way of Connecticut and did not land at Southold direct from England or Wales.

An interesting point may be mentioned here. For a long time I was puzzled as to why some descendants believed Obadiah lived in Southold and others thought he lived in Brookhaven. Eventually I found that the boundaries of the adjoining townships of Southold and Brookhaven overlapped to quite an extent, thereby causing considerable annoyance. At a later date a definite boundary was agreed upon. So it could be that Obadiah landed at Southold or lived there for a time and then moved to Brookhaven, or it is quite likely that what little land he owned at first was located in the disputed area which in the readjustment of the boundary was definitely placed in the township of Brookhaven. In the names of the Connecticut Sewards there is no mention of an Obadiah.

So, for a definite starting point, we have taken up Obadiah of Brookhaven. Of the children of this Obadiah[1], all seemingly stayed on Long Island with the exception of Obadiah, Jr.,[2] who moved to New Jersey. He had ten children and they spread out over the country and left many descendants who in turn migrated to near and distant points of this then new land. It has been a task to trace their journeys and look up records of their families and yet it has been a most interesting experience and it is satisfying to know that the records left by these pioneers and their descendants are such that the family may be proud of them.

Obadiah Seward and Descendants

1 OBADIAH[1] SEWARD, — the first record we can find of this family in America is in the Town Records of Brookhaven*, Long Island, N. Y. He drew lot No. 49 in 1664; was taxpayer there in 1675; signed quit claim 24 April 1728; deed signed by Obadiah Seward and Dinah, his wife, of their home lot and house 11 March 1698/99. In the records of Brookhaven mention is made of the erection of the first church on an hill and the interesting fact that the people were called to worship by the beating of a drum by Obed Seward. Probably married Dinah (or Ann Biggs) and had the following children:

Children:

2 i Obadiah[2], b. ab. 1702; d. prior 3 June, 1751; m. ab. 1720, Isabel ————.

ii Joseph, no record except an assessment roll for Brookhaven, L. I., for the year 1749.

iii Abner, no record except assessment roll for Brookhaven, L. I., for the year 1749.

iv Samuel, no record except will dated 7 September 1750 and probated 18 March, 1751, mentions brother Eliakim and mother Ann.

v Eliakim, no mention except as mentioned under brother Samuel.

2 OBADIAH[2] SEWARD (Obadiah[1]), b. ab. 1702, probably Brookhaven, L. I., N. Y., d. prior to 3 June, 1751, when letters of administration of his estate were granted to his widow, Isabel, of Morris County, N. J.

The township of Roxbury was formed 1740. Morris County was formed 15 March, 1738-1739. Obadiah Seward was appointed collector for the township 15 March, 1741.

Note: * The History of Sussex County, N. J. says that he came from Wales and settled at Southold, L. I., N. Y. Where the historians procured this knowledge I do not know. Mr. J. P. Crayon of Rockaway, who looked up the records of many of the old families of northern New Jersey, including the Sewards, says, "The pictures I have seen of the Sewards do not show them to be of Welsh descent" also "From the authority of Colonel John, with whom my people were conversant, he related to them they were of English and Irish descent." It seems reasonable to suppose that Obadiah is descended from the Guilford, Conn., Sewards instead of coming direct from Wales.

Note:  The Julian calendar was in use before 1752. The year began March 25th and extended to the following March 24th. March was the first month and February the twelfth.

(According to Brookhaven Town Records, p. 154, he was assessed there in 1741.)

Samuel Seward of Ohio

Samuel Seward was born in the State of New Jersey. He married Miss Elsie Jentry, and to them were born ten children: Obediah, Ann, William, James, Samuel, Irvin, Elias, Eliza, Martin G. and Daniel. Those living (1881) are Eliza Van Zant, Daniel and Martin G. Mr. Seward came to Hamilton County previous to 1800. For many days they were obliged to remain in the blockhouse at Carthage, so numerous and savage were the Indians at that time. After their fears had somewhat subsided he and his family located on a tract of land situated on Winton road, near Mount Pleasant. He at once set about the clearing of his farm, which he gradually continued to improve till today it is one of the finest farms in the county. His death occurred in 1819. The wife and mother survived him till the year 1843. Martin G. the seventh son, was born in 1807 on the old Seward homestead. His occupation has been that of a farmer. In 1831 he married Miss Mary Hill. They had born to them nine children: Samuel, James Riley, Viola J., Mary, Hannah, George, Lizzie, William and one who died in infancy. Samuel also died after he had reached manhood. The family are pleasantly situated on a beautiful farm adjoining Mount Pleasant. Mr. and Mrs. Seward are both consistent members of the Christian Church in the vicinity.

The Hawes

Bethyah Hawes was born in Dorchester (now a part of Boston) in 1637. Her parents were Richard and Anne Hawes who had arrived two years previously on the ship True Love from Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, England.[31] The following is from the History of the Town of Dorchester, Massachusetts prepared by a committee of the Dorchester Antiquarian and Historical Society, page 123:

> "Richard Hawes came in the Freelove, Capt. Gibbs, in 1635, with his wife Ann, and two children. His age was 29; his wife's, 26; that of his daughter Ann, 2½; son Obadiah, 6 months. (See Gleanings.) He signed the church covenant in 1636, and was a grantee of land in 1637 and 1646. Their other children were Bethia, born in Dorchester, 27(5) 1637; Deliverance, born 11(4) 1640; daughter Constant, born 17(5) 1642. They had a son Eleazer killed in the war, April 21, 1676. Mr. Hawes died in 1656."

The reference to Gleanings is to J. Savage: Gleanings for New England History in the Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, Third Series, vol. 8 (1838), pp. 243-348.

The records of the First Church at Dorchester (printed edition) contain a list of 1637-1638 baptisms, without individual dates. Bethyah is included as "Bethiah" Hawes. Her parents are listed on page 4 as early signers of the church covenant. They were not among the founding members but were the sixteenth couple to be admitted following the original signers. Individual dates are not given but the Hawes appear to be about 1635-6. The History of the Town of Dorchester says (pp. 13-20) that the first settlers arrived in 1630. The original name of the place where they settled was Mattapan. According to the History:

> "Tradition has always fixed upon the south side of Dorchester Neck (South Boston), in the Old Harbor, as the place of landing."

Dorchester was incorporated into Boston in 1868.

Richard Hawes of Dorchester, Massachusetts provides a history of the family. The following is from page 18:

> "RICHARD HAWES, baptized in Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, England, 2 November 1606, was the son of a Richard of that place, whose will of 9 September 1665; proved 11 January following, establishes the identity of our emigrant ancestor. At Great Missenden the baptisms of two children of Richard, by wife Anne, are recorded. The next that is known of this little family of four is their embarking on the "Truelove", at London, 19 September 1635, for New England. The sailing list gives the ages of all four. (Consult Hotten's Sailing Lists.)
>
> Richard Hawes, age 29 years
> Ann Hawes, age 26 years

[31] Hawes: Richard Hawes of Dorchester, Massachusetts, p.28.

> Anne Hawes, age 2½ years
> Obediah Hawes, age 6 months."

On page 28 of the Hawes book the birth date of Bethiah is stated to be July 27, 1637. The month differs from that in the History of the Town of Dorchester which says May 27, 1637. I am inclined to accept the family history which gives the following account of Bethiah:

> "Bethiah Hawes (Richard) was b. 27 July 1637, as recorded at Dorchester. 23 May 1659, she was living in the family of Zachariah Whitman of Milford, Ct. (Hoadley, Vol. 2: 263-289). He and his wife Sarah were passengers on the "Truelove," 1635, and natives of Bucks. Bethiah m. Obed Seward (Suard), 1 Oct., 1660, or 1661, both dates recorded at Milford; Robert Treat, magistrate, officiating. At Milford is the record of a son,
> Obediah Seward, b. 1 Nov., 1661, or 1662 (both dates given).
> "The next we know of this couple is that they were living at Brookhaven, Long Island, where he was one of the early comers of that settlement. References to the name of Seward there have been gleaned from the (printed) records, and from Mr. Osborn Shaw of Bellport, who has kindly furnished advance information from other volumes of Brookhaven records which he has in preparation."

There follows in the Hawes book numerous quotations from the Brookhaven records about Obadiah.

Great Missenden, the original English home of the Hawes, is in Buckinghamshire, about 35 miles Northwest of London. It is notable for the 16th century house, Chequers, which in 1917 was given to the nation by Lord Lee of Fareham as a country home for the Prime Minister of the day.

At page 20 the Hawes Family History records the handling of the estate of Richard Hawes (the inventory for which is substantial) and mentions the arrangements made for the younger children:

> "Suffolk Probate (also Gen. Reg. IX: 138). At a meeting of the magistrates, 22 Jan., 1656, power of administration to the estate of Richard Hawes, late of Dorchester, deceased, is granted to Major Humphrey Atherton and Leiftenant Roger Clap, they bringing in an inventory (Gen. Reg. V: 400) of ye estate unto ye Court. Edward Rawson, Recorder.
> "Suffolk Probate (also Gen. Reg. XI: 342). 'At a county court held in Boston, 29 April 1662. The Court being informed that Major Atherton & Capt. Clap as friends to the deceased Richard Haws of Dorchester, took some care about the estate, binding & placing out the children, the Major being since dead & Capt. Clap rendering to Obadiah Haws sone to ye late Richard an account thereof on request of sd Obadiah, The court judgeth it meet to grant Administration to the estate &c. to Obadiah Hawes his sonne in behalf of himself and the rest of his Brothers & Sisters so as he give security according to lawe.' The same day Obadiah deposed that an inventory presented was a true one, to the best of his knowledge, &c. This inventory was signed 27:11 mo: 1656, by jonas Humphrey and Hopestill foster."

Evidently Anne died before Richard and there were young children who had to be arranged for. Bethiah was 18. It was due to the arrangements made by Major Atherton and Captain Clap that Bethyah lived with Zachariah and Sarah Whitman[32] for the five years after her father's death until she married Obadiah Seward at age 23.

Some history will provide the setting. The five original New England colonies were Plymouth (1620), Massachusetts Bay (1628), Dorchester (1630), Connecticut (1636) and New Haven (1638). New Haven's jurisdiction included Milford, Branford, Saybrook and Guilford (adjacent to New Haven) as well as Greenwich and Stamford to the South and the North Fork of Long Island, then called Southold.[33]

[32] Atwater's History of the Colony of New Haven to its Absorption into Connecticut, Vol. 2, page 656, gives the following information about Whitman:

"Zechariah Whitman (1595-1666), brother of John Whitman (1614-1692) of Weymouth, Mass., came to Massachusetts (1635) in the Truelove, aged 40 years, with wife Sarah Biscoe, aged 25 years, and son Zechariah, aged two and a half years. He was at Milford in 1639. He was one of the trustees in the first deed, one of the judges chosen by the settlers to act in civil affairs, and one of the seven pillars of the church. His name is engraved on the Memorial Bridge. His wife was a cousin of Nathaniel Biscoe (162?-1683). See Whitman Genealogy (1889) by Chas. H. Farnam of New Haven, Conn., p. 1261. He d. April 23, 1666; his wife Sarah, b. 1619; d. Jan. 2, 1670-71; no children mentioned in his will."

[33] Fiske: The Beginnings of New England, pages 80-2, 92-5,126, 135. The story of the establishment of the New Haven Colony is told by Fiske in his The Beginnings of New England, pages 134-6:

"The overthrow of the Pequots (1637) was a cardinal event in the planting of New England. It removed the chief obstacle to the colonization of the Connecticut coast, and brought the inland settlements into such unimpeded communication with those on tide-water as to prepare the way for the formation of the New England confederacy. Its first fruits were seen in the direction taken by the next wave of migration, which ended the Puritan exodus from England to America. About a month after the storming of the palisaded village there arrived in Boston a company of wealthy London merchants, with their families. The most prominent among them, Theophilus Eaton, was a member of the Company of Massachusetts Bay. Their pastor, John Davenport, was an eloquent preacher and a man of power. He was a graduate of Oxford, and in 1624 had been chosen vicar of St. Stephen's parish, in Coleman [S]treet, London. When he heard that Cotton and Hooker were about to sail for America, he sought earnestly to turn them from what he deemed the error of their ways, but instead he became converted himself and soon incurred the especial enmity of Laud, so that it became necessary for him to flee to Amsterdam. In 1636 he returned to England, and in concert with Eaton organized a scheme of emigration that included men from Yorkshire, Hertfordshire, and Kent. The leaders arrived in Boston in the midst of the Antinomian disputes, and although Davenport won admiration for his skill in battling with heresy, he may perhaps have deemed it preferable to lead his flock to some new spot in the wilderness where such warfare might not be required. The merchants desired a find harbour and good commercial situation, and the reports of the men who returned from hunting the Pequots told them of just such a spot at Quinnipiack on Long Island Sound. Here they could carry out their plan of putting into practice a theocratic ideal even more rigid than that which

About 1661 Charles II granted Connecticut a charter which annexed the New Haven colonies to Connecticut and deprived them of their separate existence. There is a June 10, 1664 reference in the Brookhaven records about making provision for a "committee of Connecticut appointed for settling business on Long Island". Brookhaven adjoined Southold to the West. The Town of Brookhaven was directly across Long Island Sound. What is now Port Jefferson was part of Brookhaven and had a good harbor readily available to New Haven.

The new charter of Connecticut included within the boundaries of the colony "islands adjacent." This was interpreted by the colonists to include Fishers Island, Gardiners Island, Shelter Island and even the eastern part of Long Island. After England took Manhattan and what became New York from the Dutch, Connecticut's jurisdiction over those islands was questioned and ultimately was decided in favor of New York. The loyalty of the residents appears to have been with Connecticut because the towns on both the north and south forks of Long Island (Southold, Westhampton and Southampton) petitioned Charles II, unsuccessfully, to be allowed to remain a part of Connecticut. See Fishers Island by Henry L. Ferguson, p.17, and Short History of New York State by N.Y. State Historical Association, p.31.

The Obadiahs

The two Milford Obadiahs were the first and second Obadiahs of Brookhaven. We do not know the birth date of the first Obadiah but it is likely that he was older than his wife Bethyah who was born July 27, 1637. Probably he was born about 1635 or a year before or after.

The next Obadiah about whom we have extensive information is Obadiah (1702-1751) of New Jersey. His dates are separated from those of Obadiah, II, by an unsatisfactory gap. In Chapter III-F I have explained why I think it likely that there were four Obadiahs rather than the two listed by Dr. Seward. If there were four Obadiahs, their probable facts were:

Obadiah, I, born (perhaps 1635) in America or on the way to America.[34] Date of death about 1700. Wife was Bethyah Hawes.

Obadiah, II, born November 1, 1661, Milford, Connecticut. Date of death obtained in Massachusetts, and arrange their civil as well as ecclesiastical affairs in accordance with rules to be obtained from a minute study of the Scriptures.

"In the spring of 1638 the town of New Haven was accordingly founded. The next year a swarm from this new town settled Milford, while another party, freshly arrived from England, made the beginnings of Guilford. In 1640 Stamford was added to the group, and in 1643 the four towns were united into the republic of New Haven, to which Southold, on Long Island, and Branford were afterwards added."

SEWARD AND RELATED FAMILIES

[Bradleys, Corbells, Days, Eleys, Hawes, Kloennes, McKays, Phillips, Rughs, Swegers]

by George C. Seward

"...After the fashion that prevailed a hundred years ago, the most illustrious of Americans felt little interest in his ancestry; but with the keener historic sense and broader scientific outlook of the present day, the importance of such matters is better appreciated. The pedigrees of horses, dogs and fancy pigeons have a value that is quotable in terms of hard cash. Far more important, for the student of human affairs, are the pedigrees of men. By no possible ingenuity of constitution-making or of legislation can a society made up of ruffians and boors be raised to the intellectual and moral level of a society made up of well-bred merchants and yeomen, parsons and lawyers. One might as well expect to see a dray horse win the Derby. It is, moreover, only when we habitually bear in mind the threads of individual relationship that connect one country with another, that we get a really firm and concrete grasp of history. Without genealogy the study of history is comparatively lifeless..."

—From Old Virginia and Her Neighbors (Vol. II, p.25), by John Fiske, Cambridge, Massachusetts, writing in 1897 about George Washington.

Another point of view:

"They will ask you, "What have you done?"
Not, "Who were your ancestors?"
The famous veil in the sanctuary
Is not revered by the faithful
Because it came from the silkworm."
Sa'di, the Persian poet, 1184-1291

—From "Things I Like" (1932) by Carroll Frances McKay. See Appendix J, We Remember Carroll.

a search was made for them, but land transfers were not always recorded then. Original grants and a few subsequent conveyances are recorded in the records of The General Board of Proprietors. Some subsequent conveyances appear in the records of Colonial Conveyances in the Office of the Secretary of State, and some appear in the offices of the county clerks. Recording in the offices of the county clerks did not begin until about 1785, although after that date some earlier conveyances were recorded. In none of those places is there any record that Obadiah's land was conveyed. I have had searches made in all these places. That probably means the deed was never deposited in the public records.

Black River was in the township of Roxbury until January 29, 1799, when it became a separate town. It was in Morris County at the time of Obadiah's death and the Prerogative Court which had jurisdiction over estates was located in Perth Amboy—thus indicating that Obadiah had resided in the Eastern Division of New Jersey as distinguished from West New Jersey, the two colonial parts of what was later joined together to form the present New Jersey. New Jersey (along with New York and Delaware) was taken by the British from the Dutch in 1664, and while the Dutch took it back for a brief period, British ownership was confirmed by treaty on February 9, 1674. It was divided into two provinces, East and West. In 1702 the two were reunited but some distinctions continued, such as the location and territorial jurisdiction of the Prerogative Courts. Indeed, The General Board of Proprietors of the Eastern Division of New Jersey still has an office at 264 High Street, Perth Amboy, New Jersey 08861. The Registrar, Mr. Frederick A. Gerken, P.O. Box 32, Barnegat, New Jersey 08005, has kindly furnished me with information about lands owned by Obadiah and Eliakim in Morris County and by James, Samuel and John in Sussex County, which is set forth in Chapter III-D and later in this chapter.

In 1714 Hunterdon County, consisting of what is now Sussex, Warren, Morris and Hunterdon, was created. In 1738 Morris County was set off from Hunterdon. It included what is now Sussex, Warren and Morris. In 1753 Sussex was set off from Morris and was composed of what is now Sussex and Warren. In 1824 Warren was separated from Sussex.

Settlement in the area now called Chester began shortly after 1714. The following is taken from The Early History of Morris County, New Jersey by Rev. Joseph F. Tuttle [Read before the N.J. Historical Society, May 20th, 1869] p. 32:

children shared equally. The double share concept had a religious origin. See Bible: Deuteronomy xxi, 15-17.

> "...From a manuscript History of the Congregational Church (Compiled by Rev. Abner Morse) I learn that the tract of land now constituting the township of Chester was surveyed and run into lots in 1713 and 1714, and began soon after to be settled with emigrants from Southold, L.I., who had been brought up in the Congregational church planted there by their fathers, and were by conviction and profession attached to its doctrines and customs. It was in their hearts to do as their fathers had done, plant a church of the same faith and form a government as that in which they had been baptized and to which they owed so much. Having settled from one to three miles apart, in a country to be cleared of heavy timber, with their private buildings to erect, roads, bridges and fences to make, and families to support, it is wonderful that they, as early as 1747 should have been able to erect a commodious house of worship with pens and galleries to seat an audience of 400. This house stood about six rods west of the present meeting house.
> "The Presbyterian church, at Chester, was organized in 1752, and began its meeting house about 1755."

Munsell's History of Morris County says, page 211, that the settlers came from Southold and Easthampton, Long Island; and (page 212) that those from Southold were Congregationalists and those from Easthampton were Presbyterians.

The following is from A Scrapbook of History about Chester, New Jersey, mentioned above, which refers to Obadiah on pages 12-13:

> "Obadiah Seward came from Brookhaven, Long Island, 'in 1740', wrote Edwin Collis. But perhaps it was earlier for Frederick W. Seward, Jr. in his Obadiah Seward and Descendants (1948) gives a record of the birth of a Daniel Seward in 1738 'in Black River, N.J.'
> "Obadiah's farm was 'at the Crossroads' and covered at least Thaw Malin's land and Bell Laboratories' hill (539 E. Main St.). He was Roxbury township's first Collector, in 1741. He is said to have built the Malin house in the 1740s; it still has the original seven fireplaces and wide floorboards.
> "Obadiah Seward later removed to Berkshire Valley[24] where he spent the remainder of his life. A letter of administration of his estate was granted his widow Isabella on June 3, 1751. No doubt his Black River farm was left in the hands of one of his sons, for it was to be [24] Berkshire Valley is in Morris County about fifteen miles northeast of Chester and is about fifteen miles south of the Township of Hardyston, in Sussex County, where James, Sr., John and Samuel settled. Berkshire Valley borders the Town of Roxbury.

Seward property until it was sold in 1792. Then, in 1836, it was to be repurchased by a later Seward, remaining in the family until 1953.

"Obadiah Seward's children were John, Elicaum, Mehitable, Lydia, Isaac and probably the Daniel born in 1738."

But see Dr. Seward's book, p.47-8, where he lists the following additional children: Susan, Obadiah, James and Samuel. He says there were ten, born in the following order: Eliakim 1724, Susan, Obadiah, Mehitable 1728, John 1730, James 1732, Isaac 1733, Lydia 1735, Samuel and Daniel 1738. Dr. Seward's list and the information he gives about the children appear to be credible.

Four of Obadiah's children moved from Morris County to Sussex County, although Isaac, according to Dr. Seward (p.76) lived there only briefly and then moved to Muskinkink of Great Pond (Lake Hopatcong) near where his father, Obadiah, had lived. The General Board of Proprietors of the Eastern Division of New Jersey has records showing that James, Samuel and John owned land in Sussex County. James (see Chapter III-D) acquired his land in Hardyston Township, Sussex County, in two parcels: 38.09 acres on December 10, 1767 (Book S5, p. 400) and 11.90 acres on June 5, 1775 (Book S7, p.274). The December 10, 1767 deed to James refers to John's land and says that the land acquired by James is in the township of Hardyston near the head of Pagnanack River about one half mile to the northeast of that owned by John.

The "Pagnanack" river now is called "Pequannock". James' land began near the head of the river eight rods up the river "from where the road leading from John Seward's to the Goshen Road crosses" the river. Samuel also acquired 30.10 acres in Sussex County on February 23, 1764 (Book S5, p.134). Evidently, Samuel was in Sussex three and a half years before James. Whether he or John first moved to Sussex I have not determined.

John Seward's land was located about a mile and a half from Snufftown (now Stockholm) on the road to Vernon, now New Jersey State Route 515. Later it was owned by a family named Margerum. See Snell, History of Sussex and Warren Counties, p.65.[25] The location of the Seward houses is noted on [25] The following from Old Sussex Families of the Minisink Region by Charles Edgar Stickney (Reprint 1988 by Virginia Alleman Brown of Genealogical Researchers) was furnished by Barbara L. Waskowich of Sussex County Historical Society, 82 Main Street, Newton, New Jersey 07860, to whom I express my appreciation:

"Just previous to 1767, John Seward, born May 22, 1730, and who married Mary Swezy, March 22, 1751, came from Somerset county and settled in Sussex county, where Noah H. Margerum now lives near Stockholm. Obadiah Seward, the ancestor of the family, came from Wales and settled on the Lammington River, in Somerset County, N.J., about 1680. His son, John, above named, was freeholder in Hardyston township records in 1767. Eight years later when the hostilities broke out between England and the colonies, he enlisted as a private in Captain McMire's Company of the First Battalian, New Jersey line. He was soon promoted to the Captaincy of the Second Regiment; then Feb. 28, 1877, promoted to be Lieut. Colonel; and soon after upon Co. Ephraim Martin's resignation, to the Colonelship of the Regiment. He did much service during the war in driving off the gangs of tory marauders that infested the Snufftown mountains, and the enemy once posted a reward of $50 for his head. He kept his house barricaded for defense. One afternoon while he was walking through the woods he heard the click of a flint gunlock. He looked around and saw an Indian who had attempted to shoot him but whose gun missed fire. He drew his own rifle so quickly that the redskin could not get away, and ordered him to surrender, which he could not help doing, and so was taken prisoner.

"The Colonel once shot a man supposed to be a British spy, who was lurking around the house apparently for a sinister motive.

"He reared a family of ten children, and died upon his farm Dec. 17, 1797, in the 68th year of his age.

"Of his children, Samuel Swezy Seward, born Dec. 5, 1768, on the old homestead, married Mary Jennings, of Goshen, Orange county, N.Y., in 1795. He was educated as a physician and after he graduated lived but a short time in Vernon. The property at Snufftown (Stockholm) was disposed of to the Margarum family after Col. Seward's death and his son S.S. Seward the doctor, then removed to Florida, N.Y., where he at first embarked in the mercantile business. His professional practice soon occupied the most of his time however. In 1804, he was elected a Member of Assembly, and in 1815 County Judge. He then mostly relinquished his practice and gave up his mercantile interests. He was Judge seventeen years. In 1846, he donated the grounds, erected the buildings, and gave an endowment of $20.00 to the foundation of the Samuel S. Seward Institute at Florida. His wife, Mary Jennings, was of Irish parentage, a clear-headed, vigorous charitable woman. She died in 1843, he died in 1849. He was then called the richest man in Orange county, his estate amounting to $350,000.

"Their children were: Benjamin J., Edwin P., William H., George W., and a daughter.

"Of them William H. Seward, born May 16, 1801, became a famous politician and statesman. He attended first Farmer's Hall Academy at Goshen, N.Y.; and second Union College, at Schenectady. He then went South and taught school six months. Then he returned to the college and graduated. He then studied law with John Anthon, of New York, and Ogden Hoffman, of Goshen, and was admitted to the bar in 1822. He settled in Auburn, N.Y. In 1824, he married Frances A., daughter of Judge Miller. Thence he drifted into politics, and was elected Governor of New York State. Then he was elected by the Legislature as United States Senator. Lastly he was appointed by President Lincoln Secretary of State. He died at Auburn Oct. 10, 1872. His children were: Frederick A., Maj. Augustus, William H. and a daughter."

a Revolutionary War map included by Washington Irving in his Life of Washington, Vol. II, p.430-1. It is entitled "Part of New Jersey etc." The map description is "From the Original Mss. Map by R. Erskine, F.R.S. used in the U.S. Army 1778-80, now in the N.Y. Hist. Soc. Library." The map is part of The DeWitt Map Collection. The Seward location on the map shows only the word "Seward" and two houses approximately a mile apart. That corresponds roughly to the homes of John and James. Their brother Samuel also owned land in Sussex but I am not certain of its location relative to that of James and John. In 1764 Samuel owned land near that of James.

The records of the General Board (Book S3, p.27) show that Eliakim Seward acquired 53 acres in Morris County on March 28, 1745. Eliakim was probably the brother of Obadiah, who also left Brookhaven. It is possible he left Brookhaven at the same time Obadiah did, about 1740, because he is not mentioned in the 1741 tax roll. But the reference could possibly have been to the Eliakim who was the son of Obadiah, born about 1724.

James Seward, Sr. witnessed a deed dated December 8, 1764 signed by Samuel Seward of Sussex County, New Jersey, to land "on the branches of the Pompton River". See East Jersey Deeds Book D3, p. 239-42, recorded April 15, 1767. The deed was probably that of James' brother, Samuel, born about 1736.

The will of Nathan Cooper of Roxbury Township, Morris County, New Jersey, who died in 1797 and was the husband of Mehitable Seward, one of James' sisters, refers to "land bought of James Seward". Also, "land bought of Seward at Black River being next to Pain Brown's land" (which was probably Obadiah's land "at the Crossroads", still called Seward Hill and now owned by the Bell Laboratories). Also, "land bought of Daniel Seward at Black River". Liber 57, p.470, File 969 N. The will mentions also lands owned in Sussex County. When James went to Ohio he sold his land to Cooper.

Despite the omission of Susan, Obadiah, James and Samuel from A Scrapbook of History, clearly there was a James Seward—also a Samuel Seward; and Dr. Seward is probably right about their relationship to the Obadiahs of Long Island. Moreover, the children listed by Dr. Seward and their birthdates fit together.

Other references to Obadiah from the Chester Scrapbook of History:

"Chester is a green and rolling country with some of its hills rising to over a thousand feet. Seward's Hill (now Bell Laboratories) has been called 'the highest cultivated spot in Morris County'."

pages 10-11:

"On March 25, 1741 the following residents of Black River were among those appointed as first officers of Roxbury Township:

William Griffing-Clerk Samuel Coleman-Assessor
David Luse-Freeholder Obadiah Seward-Collector
Aaron Stark-Overseer of the Poor"

David Luse, who was named along with Obadiah as one of the initial officers of Roxbury, was according to William M. Kern of Grantwood, N.J., (Article 48 in Armstrong's Pioneer Families of Northwestern New Jersey, p. 275) the father of Isobel Luse who was possibly the wife of Obadiah Seward. Frances P. Mills' History of Descendants of New Jersey Settlers in Adams County, Mississippi, p.652 states that Isabel Luse born 1731 was Obadiah's wife. That appears doubtful to me because Obadiah's children were born during the period 1724-1738. Isabel Luse would have been seven years old when David, Obadiah's last child, was born. Hence I do not know the maiden name of Isobel Seward.

The following excerpts from Pioneer Families of Northwestern New Jersey tell about the origin of the town:

"These brothers (David and Benjamin Luse of Chester, N.J.) came from the neighborhood of Southold, Long Island, and appear to be the first settlers of Chester, Morris County, N.J. We will join their history for the first few years, as they were brothers that kept together. Benjamin is mentioned as selling a farm of 100 acres in Southold, before the year 1735, but we judge the brothers were settled in the North Aquebogue section. The Luse family are often mentioned in the early history of Southold and Shelter Island, and especially noted for making bequests to the support of the church, and for furnishing many sons to the ministry. But very little is said that makes up a connected family tree. There are families of the name located in Massachusetts, and along the coast up to Maine, but not so numerous."

pages 270-1:

"The present village of Chester is almost in the center of the farm of Benjamin Luse. David Luse was one-fourth mile southeast of the center of Chester; Walter Brown was on the southwest of these brothers; David Brown and the Ogdens on the Northwest; and John Sweazy and Obadiah Seward on the Northeast. No doubt but that walnut timber was searched for and carted out, but probably no real settling or farming was done before the Luse brothers arrived.

"The section seems first known as Roxbury - just Roxbury without a tag of State, County or township. Later was known as Lebanon. Still later was Black River, Roxbury township in Lebanon, or in Hunterdon County. In 1739 it became part of Morris County. The name of Black River was changed to Chester.

"When this section began to be settled, it attracted most of its families from Long Island and Westchester County; and we will show that many of the families were related. It was an English settlement, very little of the Pennsylvania Deutsch appeared. Many of the families were near to being Quakers, yet there seems to be no Quaker church established." ...

"DAVID LUSE we consider born about 1702. He made his will 1-23-1771 and died before 2-23-1771. His wife was Mary—and she survived him, but no tombstones are now to be found. He moved to Roxbury (Chester, N.J.) in 1736. In 1741 he became a Freeholder, and 9-20-1743 was appointed Justice of the Peace and Judge. He was reappointed Justice of the Peace in 1749 and Commissioner of the Peace 1755 and 1768. Each of these appointments seem to carry the powers of a Judge. He is mentioned as making the inventory of the early neighbors, Jonah Robinson in 1748, Obadiah Seward, Jr. in 1751, Hezekiah Reeve in 1759 and Lion Gardiner in 1759 or later. He was appointed executor for Lion Gardiner in 1759 and for 'Samuel Sweazy of Mendum' the same year...."

"No family records of David Luse or any of his children have been located by the writer. We give the children as referred to in the will. Boys first, then the girls...

"ISABEL. Married Obadiah Seward, Jr., from the clues we get. He died in 1751 in Chester. The Seward family were neighbors to the Luse."[26]

D.A.R. Application No. 101585 of Anna Elizabeth Seward Wallace dated April 7, 1913 says Isabel and Obadiah were married in 1720, that Obadiah was born 1702 and died 1751. The same information is in Application No. 101584 by her cousin, Mrs. Florence Elizabeth Seward Denson, also dated April 7, 1913. Neither gives Isabel's maiden name. The 1720 marriage date fits reasonably with the information that Dr. Seward had to the effect that Eliakim, the first surviving child of Obadiah, IV, was born 1724. If the marriage date is correct, Obadiah and Isabel (family name unknown) were probably married on Long Island, New York. However, Obadiah Seward is not mentioned in The Salmon Records of marriages and deaths of residents of Southold 1696-1811.

That same D.A.R. application says Obadiah, Sr. was born 1647, died 1746, and married Ann 1664.[27]

According to Dr. Seward, Obadiah and Isabel had ten children:

ELIAKIM, b. 1724; d. October 8, 1784.

OBADIAH, d. young; no children.

MEHITABLE (HETTY), b. 1728; d. April 15, 1812; m. 1748, Nathan (1725-1797), son of Nathan and Mary (Miller) Cooper who settled on Long Island ab. 1700. Nathan, Jr. purchased property from Hetty's brother James when James moved to Ohio.

JOHN,[28] b. May 22, 1730; d. October 2, 1797; m. March 22, 1751, Mary Swazey.

JAMES, b. 1732; d. 1808 in Ohio (Dad's ancestor. See Chapter III-D)

ISAAC, b. ab. 1733; d. ab. 1769; m. ab. 1753, Phebe (surname not known). Children included Daniel b. 1758; d. 1794 in Kentucky(?) after living for a while in Ohio; m. 1782 Mary Lee. Possibly also Samuel. See end of Chapter III-D and Dr. Seward's book, pages 285 of Addendum and 94.

LYDIA, b. 1735; d. December 22, 1775.

SAMUEL, b. ab. 1736; d. 1816(?); Dr. Seward says Samuel went to Ohio in 1792 and that in 1817 the widow and three or four children resided on a clearing ten miles below Cincinnati, Ohio. The 1799 voters list for Hamilton County includes a Samuel Seward along with James [26] The 1731 birthdate of Isabel Luse makes it very doubtful that she was the Isabel who married Obadiah. Note that David Luse did not sign the £200 bond with Isabel Seward. William Salmon did. Both were presumably available because they made the inventory for the estate. Could she have come from the Salmon family? I consider the family origin of Isabel uncertain.

[27] The dates do not fit with those of the Obadiah who married Bethyah Hawes in Milford, Colony of New Haven, October 31, 1660 and had a son named Obadiah born November 1, 1661. The D.A.R. Applications are discussed further in chapter III-F. See also chapter III-G. The 1647 birthdate is surely an error. Obadiah, III, was born c1682.

[28] John is the ancestor of Dr. Frederick W. Seward, Jr., the author of Obadiah Seward and Descendants, mentioned at the beginning of Chapter III. His 1939 letter to me is Appendix B. His ancestry is: John 1730-1797, Samuel Swazey 1768-1849, Edwin Polladore 1799-1872. Frederick Whittlesey, Sr. 1845-1925, Frederick Whittlesey, Jr. 1874-1960. John is the ancestor also of William Henry Seward, Secretary of State in Lincoln's cabinet; Samuel Swazey 1768-1849, William Henry 1801-72.

Seward, James Seward, Jr., and John Seward. See Marie Dickoré, Census for Cincinnati, Ohio, 1817 and Hamilton County, Ohio Voters List 1798 and 1799. The Centinel of the North-Western Territory (Saturday, August 16, 1794, Vol. 1, #40) carried an advertisement by Samuel Seward regarding a rifle. He said his address was White's Station which was on Mill Creek north of Cincinnati on the old Hamilton Road. See last pages of Chapter III-D regarding a Samuel Seward who died in Bracken County, Kentucky about 1816 and in 1799 operated a ferry across the Ohio River. A number of other Samuels are mentioned at the end of Chapter III-D.[29]

[29] The History of Hamilton Co. Ohio by Henry A. and Kate B. Ford, published 1881 by L.A. Williams & Co., Cleveland, contains at p.368 the following account of a Samuel Seward:

"Samuel Seward was born in the State of New Jersey. He married Miss Elsie Jentry, and to them were born ten children: Obediah, Ann, William, James, Samuel, Irwin, Elias, Eliza, Martin G., and Daniel. Those living are Eliza Van Zant, Daniel, and Martin G. Mr. Seward came to Hamilton County previous to 1800. For many days they were obliged to remain in the blockhouse at Carthage, so numerous and savage were the Indians at that time. After their fears had somewhat subsided he and his family located on a tract of land situated on Winton Road, near Mount Pleasant. He at once set about the clearing of his farm, which he gradually continued to improve till to-day it is one of the finest farms in the county. His death occurred in 1819. The wife and mother survived him till the year 1843. Martin G., the seventh son, was born in 1807 on the old Seward homestead. His occupation had been that of a farmer. In 1831 he married Miss Mary Hill. They had born to them nine children; Samuel, James Riley, Viola J., Mary, Hannah, George, Lizzie, William, and one who died in infancy. Samuel also died, after he had reached manhood. The family are pleasantly situated on a beautiful farm adjoining Mount Pleasant. Mr. and Mrs. Seward are both consistent members of the Christian church in the vicinity." A Samuel Seward who is the ancestor listed in First Families of Hamilton County, Ohio #098 is said to have married Alice Gentry in Surrey County, North Carolina October 22, 1789.

Carthage was in the Northern part of Mill Creek township adjoining Springfield Township where (in Glendale) James, Jr. lived, less than two miles north. Winton Road is about two miles west of Carthage and part of it borders what is now Spring Grove Cemetery. Also Seward Cousins, p.30, records from the Van Zant family papers (published by Virginia Raymond Cummins in Hamilton County, Ohio, Court and Other Records) the following from the Van Zant Bible, presumably the children of Samuel Seward:

Obadiah Seward born September 18, 1790
Ann Seward born April 3, 1792
William Seward born January 3, 1794
James Seward born December 25, 1796
Samuel Seward born January 7, 1798
Joseph Seward born March 25, 1800
Elias Seward born March 24, 1802
Eliza Seward born April 3, 1804
Martin Seward born October 19, 1807

DANIEL, b. 1738 in Black River, New Jersey; d. August 10, 1826 in Goshen, New York; m. Ann Bishop who died 1790.

David Seward born November 7, 1809

See Seward Cousins, Vol. 1, p.70, regarding a Samuel Seward born in New Jersey who was in Jersey County, North Carolina in 1790 and settled in Monmouth County, Ohio about 1791. His children appear to be those listed above from the Van Zant Bible. He appears to have died about 1814.

See Seward Cousins, Vol. II, p.82, regarding another Samuel Seward born 1735 in New Jersey, who went to North Carolina and then to Kentucky. This is not inconsistent with Dr. Seward's account. Kentucky is across the Ohio River from Cincinnati. Also, it would explain why Samuel may have arrived in 1792 while James and his family arrived November 18, 1788.

There was a Samuel who was a minor on October 9, 1794 when the will of his father, Daniel Seward, was probated in Hamilton County. Daniel left a wife, Mary, and five minor children: Melley, Mehitable, Malen, John and Samuel.

Probate Book 1 for Hamilton County, Ohio notes (page 244) that Alsey Seward and William Snodgrass were appointed administrators for the estate of Samuel Seward, deceased. The entry is not dated but the next prior date was April 6, 1814 and the next later date was June 9, 1814. On page 274 of that book it is recorded that Samuel Sewart (Seward) 17, son of Samuel Stewart(?), chooses Daniel M. Fleming as a guardian.

The combined church records compiled by the Morristown Presbyterian Church list a Samuel Seward who married Elizabeth Keen July 25, 1780.

III-F The Obadiahs of Brookhaven, Long Island, New York

Dr. Seward did not have sufficient information about the ancestors of the 1702-1751 Obadiah. He assumed there was only one prior Obadiah, and that the first knowledge of him was the c1664 record in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York. He attributes to that Obadiah, as his children, (1) Obadiah (1702-1751), (2&3) Joseph and Abner who appeared on the 1749 Brookhaven assessment role, and (4&5) Samuel whose will probated March 18, 1751 mentioned his brother, Eliakim, and his mother, Ann.

I think there were three Obadiahs before the 1702-1751 Obadiah. I have designated them as follows:

Obadiah, II, 1661--?-
Obadiah, III, c1682-c1748
Obadiah, IV, 1702-1751

The facts discussed in this Chapter III-F and the next suggest to me that Abner and Joseph were descendants of Obadiah, II, thus making them brothers of Obadiah, III, and that Samuel and Eliakim (along with Obadiah, IV) were the sons of Obadiah, III. Eliakim probably moved to New Jersey following his brother, Obadiah, IV, who moved there about 1740. On March 28, 1745 an Eliakim Seward acquired 53 acres of land in Morris County (East Jersey Board of Proprietors Book S3, p.27). Samuel moved to Islip, Long Island. Van Benthuysen in Seaward and Seward Families of America says he married Mary Hodge of New Haven October 15, 1724. His will is mentioned in the opening paragraph of this chapter. In addition to being listed in the 1749 assessment role, Joseph along with the other townspeople was listed in a deed by William Smith dated December 18, 1753 to clear title to certain real property in favor of the Town.

There are two applications for membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution which are helpful to establish that there were four Obadiahs: No. 46921 by Mrs. Marian Seward Holt of Houston, Texas, dated January 26, 1904 and No. 101585 by Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Seward Wallace of Covington, Virginia, dated April 7, 1913. They both trace their ancestry to the Obadiah who was the father of the 1702-1751 Obadiah. The earlier application gives the names without dates. The 1913 application gives the same names (except the earlier one says the wife of Obadiah, IV, was Isabella rather than Isabel and spelled Obadiah as Obidiah) but also gives dates. The ancestry Mrs. Wallace gave is:

John Hoblit Seward born 1822, died 1892, and his wife Laura Roberts born 1842, died -?-, married 1858

Samuel Seward (a fourth child) born December 29, 1793, died 1870 and his wife Anna Elizabeth Stewart, born 1800, died 1882, married 1815

Daniel Seward born February 28, 1758 (the date has been overwritten and could be 1756) in Morris County, New Jersey died January 15, 1794 in Hamilton County, Ohio and his wife Mary Lee born 1761, died 1828, married 1782. Daniel was a private Minute Man in the Morris County, New Jersey Militia in the Revolutionary War.

Isaac Seward born 1733, died 1769 and his wife Phoebe born -?- died -?-, married 1753

Obadiah Seward born 1702, died 1751, and his wife Isabel born -?- died -?-, married 1720

Obadiah Seward born 1647, died 1746, and his wife Ann born -?- died -?-, married 1664

The information in both is helpful, especially the name, Ann, as the wife of Obadiah, III, (which I had deduced from analysis of the Brookhaven town records, but confirmation is comforting) and the 1720 marriage date of Obadiah, IV, and Isabel. However, the 1647 birth date given by Mrs. Wallace for Obadiah, III, appears inaccurate. Not only is it unlikely that he lived 99 years, but other facts indicate that the birth date is incorrect. The first Obadiah was born c1635 and married October 31, 1660. His son Obadiah, II, was born November 1, 1661. I do not know the birth date of Obadiah, III, but he was probably born about 1681-85 when his father, Obadiah, II, was 20-25. He could not have been born as early as 1647. Also the date stated for his marriage to Ann, 1664, while reasonable if his birth date were 1647, is not reasonable when the birth date is corrected, because in 1664 he was only three years old. A c1682 birthdate for Obadiah, III, and a marriage date of about c1700 for him and Ann would fit better and takes into account the fact that their first child, Obadiah, was born in 1702.

In Chapter III-G the facts are stated about the first Obadiah's marriage to Bethyah Hawes on October 31, 1660 in Milford, Connecticut and the birth of their son, Obadiah, on November 1, 1661. The first Obadiah must have been older than 13 when he married. Hence, he must have been born before 1647. His birthday was probably about 1635 because his wife was born in 1637.

The facts point to four original Obadiahs. We have hard information about Obadiah, I (c1635-c1700), Obadiah, II (1661--?-) and Obadiah, IV (1702--1751). If there was no Obadiah, III, we would have to accept that Obadiah, IV, a first child was born when his father was 43 years old and had been married for twenty years. My estimate is that Obadiah, III, was born c1682, married Ann c1700, first child, Obadiah, IV, was born 1702, and that Obadiah, III, died c1748.

Now let us review the information about Obadiah, I. References to Obadiah and his family appear frequently in the Brookhaven Town Records, which are available in various printed editions in genealogy libraries. The earliest Brookhaven reference I have found is under date of December 29, 1662:

> "Obadia Sewarye plaintife Attorney mr. William (East) of milford (marchant) against william poole defendent
> "Obed payse Courte Charges
> "the plaintife declares (against) defendt in an acction of debt to will East wich being demanded by his sayd Attorney he refuseth to pay for which (he Craves the judgment of the Courte with Cost of) shewte thus withdrawne"

It is a confusing record but it seems that Obadiah appeared by attorney or agent, which suggests he may not have been personally present; and it refers to Milford, Connecticut where there are 1660 (marriage) and 1661 (birth) records relating to Obadiah. See Chapter III-G. There are not many references to attorneys in the Brookhaven records of law suits. Most complaints appear to have been handled personally. Obadiah was involved in another law suit in 1666 against Thomas Thorp "for stricking me, and setting his doggs upon me." In that record he is referred to as "Obadiah Suard" and no agents are mentioned.

There was a William East in Milford. He was there as early as 1639 and died there in 1681. See Atwater's History of the Colony of New Haven to its Absorption into Connecticut, Vol. 2, pp.640, 646 and 650.

The earliest reference I have found to Obadiah is to his marriage October 31, 1660 or 1661 (there are two entries of the marriage under possibly different dates) to Bethyah Hawes in Milford (Conn. Vital Records for Milford, Vol. 1, p. 4 and Old Long Book, p. 13) The next reference is to the birth of a son "Obed" November 1, 1660 or 1661. Again there are two entries with different dates (Vol. 1, p. 5, and Old Long Book, p. 14).

The next reference to Obadiah in Brookhaven after the 1662 law suit relates to 1664. It is a list which appears to be under the date of January 1, 1665 of those who were absent from town meetings in 1664. Among the 11 names is "seward 3". Of the others, only "bigs" and "geners" also missed as many as three meetings. It suggests that Obadiah was entitled to attend the town meetings in 1664 and that he missed three of them.

Obadiah had some relationship with Brookhaven as early as 1662 even though he may not yet have been living there. By 1664 he was one of the freeholders. This is borne out also by the records of land distributions.

The first land purchase by the founders of the Town of Brookhaven was on April 14, 1655. It was by deed from the Sachem of Setauket, Warawakmy, and his next of kin to the original proprietors of the Town who at that time did not include any Sewards. The Town's name was originally "Setauket". It was later changed to Brookhaven. There is still a village called Setauket in the Town.

From time to time land was distributed by lot to the proprietors (freeholders). The date of the first distribution to "Obed Sewerd" appears to be 1664, but the date is not clear. In a drawing of lots in 1667 "Obed Seward" was listed among some "new purchasers" who received two lots rather than one. In all, there were 40 participants in that drawing.

Such drawings continued from time to time. As late as July 4, 1774 "Obed Seward" drew lot 14. That was 98 years after the first certain reference to Obadiah; but 26 others on the 1667 list were also on the 1774 list, and four of them got two lots rather than one. There were only 28 1774 participants who were not on the 1667 list. Of course, the 26 had not all lived 98+ years. Their names were carried forward in some manner and their interests were owned by others. Not a single one of the trustees of the freeholders in office on July 5, 1773 was on the 1774 list and they certainly were participants. Clearly the list of those who received lots cannot be relied upon to verify that a particular person was alive at the dates of the later drawings.

On March 11, 1699 Obadiah, II, and Dinah Seward sold their "home lot and house". They signed their names with an X. In an earlier record, on June 5, 1684, Dinah Seward witnessed an agreement by her mark.

A 1702 entry refers to Obadiah's "father" (presumably father-in-law) as "Bigs"; and an entry of the previous year, May 1, 1701, regarding a town meeting refers to "Bigs" as the father-in-law of Obadiah Seward. Dinah was probably Dinah Bigs. Bethyah was the wife of Obadiah, I.

Although the 1699 deed, as well as some earlier ones (December 11, 1676 and a March 1691 mortgage of a house and seven other parcels of land to Alexander Bryan, a merchant of Milford, signed by Obadiah with an X) indicate that Obadiah, II, and Obadiah, III, could not sign their names, an April 24, 1738 deed is manually signed. See pages 141-3 of Records of the Town of Brookhaven up to 1800 — selected extracts printed 1880 in Patchogue at the office of the Advance. It is a quitclaim deed by many of the townspeople, perhaps all of them, to the minister, Mr. Phillips. Seven signed with an X, but Obadiah and 89 others signed their names. There were 97 signers in all, and there was only one Seward. Probably that 1738 Obadiah, IV, who could sign his name was the son of the 1699 Obadiah, III, who could not, and was the one who moved to Chester, New Jersey and in 1741 became Collector of Roxbury Township.

In two instances father and son of the same name signed the 1738 deed to Minister Phillips, one in each adding "junior" beside his name. If there were two Obadiah's living who had possible rights to the Town property, why did they both not sign?

The Obadiah who became Collector of Roxbury died in 1751. He was not the Obadiah who was born November 1, 1661 in Milford, Connecticut because that would mean he would have been elected Collector at age 80, which is not likely. Furthermore, a Collector should be able to write his name. So there must have been at least four Obadiahs.

Beginning in 1733 there are references to payments (presumably poor allowances) for Obadiah Seward and Anna Seward (August 2, 1733, April 30, 1739, May 2, 7, 17, 1743 and January 3, 1743). Those probably refer to Obadiah, III. On March 26, 1739 the trustees of the Town purchased a coat for Obadiah. On June 6, 1748 the trustees of the Town and Samuel Seward agreed on three persons to decide the controversy between them regarding the maintenance of Samuel's parents (Obadiah, III, and Anna Seward), and on December 19, 1748 the trustees appointed a committee to represent it in the proceeding. By this time Samuel's brothers, Obadiah and Eliakim, had moved to New Jersey,[30] but if Joseph and Abner were his brothers and were still there, why were they not involved in the support controversy? Abner was listed in the Town assessment roll for 1749. So he was still there which suggests that Abner was not a brother of Samuel.

Also, during the period the Town was paying for Obadiah's support there were drawings for new lots and Obadiah was among those who received lots. Why were they not used for his support? Perhaps Obadiah had disposed of his proprietor's rights and the purchaser exercised the rights in Obadiah's name.

In a 1704 tax assessment list "Obadiah Soward" was included for 2 shillings and 5 pence which was higher than most. Eleven were higher. Fifty-nine were lower. The Obadiah of 1704 was reasonably well off economically. See Records of the Town of Brookhaven up to 1800, p.97.

The Brookhaven tax assessment of 1741 listed:

Souard Obadiah one half of one pence
Souard Joseph four pence

[30] Obadiah was in New Jersey no later than 1741 and Eliakim no later than 1745. See Chapter III-E.

See Records of the Town of Brookhaven up to 1800, pp.152-

Presumably the reference is to Obadiah, III, not IV, who had moved to New Jersey. Only four others out of about 150 had assessments as low as Obadiah's; and only 41 had assessments as low as Joseph's. That suggests the family was not in good circumstances. Samuel Seward was not listed. Nor was Abner or Eliakim.

In the Town assessment role for 1749 Obadiah (Records of the Town of Brookhaven up to 1800, pp.161-164) was not listed. Nor was Joseph or Eliakim. The Sewards then listed were:

Abner 1 shilling and 1 pence
Samuel 2 shillings and 3 pence

Probably Obadiah, III, died after June 6, 1748 and before the 1749 assessment was made. D.A.R. application No. 101585 by Anna Elizabeth Seward Wallace states that Obadiah died in 1746. But that appears to conflict with the June 6, 1748 Brookhaven record mentioned above about support for Obadiah.

Dr. Seward's Obadiah Seward and Descendants includes (pp.24-32) a summary of references to Obadiah from the Brookhaven Town records.

III-G. Obadiah of Milford, Connecticut, and the Hawes

The first reference to Obadiah Seward, I, in the Brookhaven records links him to Milford, Connecticut. See Chapter III-F. It was the record of a lawsuit December 29, 1662 in which Obadiah was represented by William East of Milford. Also on October 31, 1660 (1661) Obadiah had married Bethyah Hawes in Milford (Conn. Vital Records for Milford, Vol. 1, p. 4 and Old Long Book p. 13).

The Connecticut town records of early births, marriages and deaths have been abstracted and collected into the Barbour Collection with volumes for each town arranged alphabetically by name. The following are the Hawes and Seward entries for Milford of dates near Obadiah's. The references to the original records have been added by me.

Hawes,

"Bethyah, m. Obed Seward, October 31, 1660" — Vol. 1, p. 4
"Bethiah, m. Obed Seward, October 31, 1961 by Robert Treat, Magistrate" — Old Long Book, p. 13

Seward,

"Elizabeth, d. Nathaniel, m. Walter Smith, Sept. 26, 1676, by Capt. Tapping" — Old Long Book, p. 30
"Mercy, m. Samuel Camp, Jan. 6, 1681" — Vol. 1, p. 18
"Obed, m. Bethyah Hawes, Oct. 31, 1660" — Vol. 1, p. 4
"Obed, m. Bethiah Hawes, Oct. 31, 1661, by Robert Treat, Magistrate" — Old Long Book, p. 13
"Obadiah, s. Obed, b. Nov. 1, 1661, hitherto given into the jurisdiction of New Haven" — Vol. 1, p. 5
"Obadiah, s. Obed, b. Nov. 1, 1661(2)" — Old Long Book, p. 14

Examination of photocopies of the original entries from which the Barbour Collection digests were made indicates that Elizabeth, Nathaniel and Mercy were not Sewards. The handwriting has been misinterpreted in preparing the summary. The original entries to which the other five items relate are:

> "Obadiah Seward sonne of Obed Seward was born the 1st of November 1661. (hitherto given into the jurisdiction" The words beginning with the parenthesis sign appear to have been added subsequent to the original entry because they are in a different handwriting. Note also that the summary in the Barbour Collection has added "of New Haven".

Old Long Book, page 13:

> "Obed Seward and Bethyah Hawes ... ? ... of Marr[i]age before Mr. Robert Treat ... ? ... the one and thirtieth of October ... ? ..."

Old Long Book, page 14:

> "Obadiah Seward sonn of Obid Seward was bourn the first day of November Anno: 166?. hitherto given into the jurisdiction
> The last figure in the date is unclear and may be 1. It appears to have been overwritten; but the entries just before and just after are 1662. The notation "(ie) admitted)" was added after and below the original entry. It probably refers to the father's status in the Colony, that he was a newcomer but had been accepted. The abstract in the Barbour Collection uses the date 1661(2) and does not include the added phrase about jurisdiction.

The conclusion I draw from the records is that the only Sewards recorded in Milford were Obadiah, I, and Obadiah, II. However, there were three Sewards, Edward, George and William, II (see Chapter III-H about William, I) in the nearby settlement of Guilford which also was a part of the Colony of New Haven. This chapter will deal with the two Milford Obadiahs. The Guilford Sewards and their possible relationship to the Milford Sewards will be discussed in Chapter III-H.

The Hawes

Bethyah Hawes was born in Dorchester (now a part of Boston) in 1637. Her parents were Richard and Anne Hawes who had arrived two years previously on the ship True Love from Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, England.[31] The following is from the History of the Town of Dorchester, Massachusetts prepared by a committee of the Dorchester Antiquarian and Historical Society, page 123:

> "Richard Hawes came in the Freelove, Capt. Gibbs, in 1635, with his wife Ann, and two children. His age was 29; his wife's, 26; that of s daughter Ann, 2½; son Obadiah, 6 months. (See Gleanings.) He signed the church covenant in 1636, and was a grantee of land in 1637 and 1646. Their other children were Bethia, born in Dorchester, 27(5) 1637; Deliverance, born 11(4) 1640; daughter Constant, born 17(5) 1642. They had a son Eleazer killed in the war, April 21, 1676. Mr. Hawes died in 1656."

The reference to Gleanings is to J. Savage: Gleanings for New England History in the Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, Third Series, vol. 8 (1838), pp. 243-348.

The records of the First Church at Dorchester (printed edition) contain a list of 1637-1638 baptisms, without individual dates. Bethyah is included as "Bethiah" Hawes. Her parents are listed on page 4 as early signers of the church covenant. They were not among the founding members but were the sixteenth couple to be admitted following the original signers. Individual dates are not given but the Hawes appear to be about 1635-6. The History of the Town of Dorchester says (pp. 13-20) that the first settlers arrived in 1630. The original name of the place where they settled was Mattapan. According to the History:

> "Tradition has always fixed upon the south side of Dorchester Neck (South Boston), in the Old Harbor, as the place of landing."

Dorchester was incorporated into Boston in 1868.

Richard Hawes of Dorchester, Massachusetts provides a history of the family. The following is from page 18:

> "RICHARD HAWES, baptized in Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, England, 2 November 1606, was the son of a Richard of that place, whose will of 9 September 1665; proved 11 January following, establishes the identity of our emigrant ancestor. At Great Missenden the baptisms of two children of Richard, by wife Anne, are recorded. The next that is known of this little family of four is their embarking on the "Truelove", at London, 19 September 1635, for New England. The sailing list gives the ages of all four. (Consult Hotten's Sailing Lists.)
>
> Richard Hawes, age 29 years
> Ann Hawes, age 26 years
> Anne Hawes, age 2½ years
> Obediah Hawes, age 6 months."

On page 28 of the Hawes book the birth date of Bethiah is stated to be July 27, 1637. The month differs from that in the History of the Town of Dorchester which says May 27, 1637. I am inclined to accept the family history which gives the following account of Bethiah:

> "Bethiah Hawes (Richard) was b. 27 July 1637, as recorded at Dorchester. 23 May 1659, she was living in the family of Zachariah Whitman of Milford, Ct. (Hoadley, Vol. 2: 263-289). He and his wife Sarah were passengers on the "Truelove," 1635, and natives of Bucks. Bethiah m. Obed Seward (Suard), 1 Oct., 1660, or 1661, both dates recorded at Milford; Robert Treat, magistrate, officiating. At Milford is the record of a son,
> Obediah Seward, b. 1 Nov., 1661, or 1662 (both dates given).
> "The next we know of this couple is that they were living at Brookhaven, Long Island, where he was one of the early comers of that settlement. References to the name of Seward there have been gleaned from the (printed) records, and from Mr. Osborn Shaw of Bellport, who has kindly furnished advance information from other volumes of Brookhaven records which he has in preparation."

There follows in the Hawes book numerous quotations from the Brookhaven records about Obadiah.

Great Missenden, the original English home of the Hawes, is in Buckinghamshire, about 35 miles Northwest of London. It is notable for the 16th century house, Chequers, which in 1917 was given to the nation by Lord Lee of Fareham as a country home for the Prime Minister of the day.

At page 20 the Hawes Family History records the handling of the estate of Richard Hawes (the inventory for which is substantial) and mentions the arrangements made for the younger children:

> "Suffolk Probate (also Gen. Reg. IX: 138). At a meeting of the magistrates, 22 Jan., 1656, power of administration to the estate of Richard Hawes, late of Dorchester, deceased, is granted to Major Humphrey Atherton and Leiftenant Roger Clap, they bringing in an inventory (Gen. Reg. V: 400) of ye estate unto ye Court. Edward Rawson, Recorder.
>
> "Suffolk Probate (also Gen. Reg. XI: 342). "At a county court held in Boston, 29 April 1662. The Court being informed that Major Atherton & Capt. Clap as friends to the deceased Richard Haws of Dorchester, took some care about the estate, binding & placing out the children, the Major being since dead & Capt. Clap rendering to Obadiah Haws sone to ye late Richard an account thereof on request of sd Obadiah, The court judgeth it meet to grant Administration to the estate &c. to Obadiah Hawes his sonne in behalf of himself and

...he rest of his Brothers & Sisters so as he give security according ... lawe". The same day Obadiah deposed that an inventory presented was a true one, to the best of his knowledge, &c. This inventory was signed 27:11 mo: 1656, by jonas Humphrey and Hopestill foster."

Evidently Anne died before Richard and there were young children who had to be arranged for. Bethiah was 18. It was due to the arrangements made by Major Atherton and Captain Clap that Bethyah lived with Zachariah and Sarah Whitman[32] for the five years after her father's death until she married Obadiah Seward at age 23.

Some history will provide the setting. The five original New England colonies were Plymouth (1620), Massachusetts Bay (1628), Dorchester (1630), Connecticut (1636) and New Haven (1638). New Haven's jurisdiction included Milford, Branford, Saybrook and Guilford (adjacent to New Haven) as well as Greenwich and Stamford to the South and the North Fork of Long Island, then called Southold.[33] About 1661 Charles II granted Connecticut a charter which

[32] Atwater's History of the Colony of New Haven to its Absorption into Connecticut, Vol. 2, page 656, gives the following information about Whitman:

"Zechariah Whitman (1595-1666), brother of John Whitman (1614-1692) of Weymouth, Mass., came to Massachusetts (1635) in the Truelove, aged 40 years, with wife Sarah Biscoe, aged 25 years, and son Zechariah, aged two and a half years. He was at Milford in 1639. He was one of the trustees in the first deed, one of the judges chosen by the settlers to act in civil affairs, and one of the seven pillars of the church. His name is engraved on the Memorial Bridge. His wife was a cousin of Nathaniel Biscoe (162?-1683). See Whitman Genealogy (1889) by Chas. H. Farnam of New Haven, Conn., p. 1261. He d. April 23, 1666; his wife Sarah, b. 1619; d. Jan. 2, 1670-71; no children mentioned in his will."

[33] Fiske: The Beginnings of New England, pages 80-2, 92-5,126, 135. The story of the establishment of the New Haven Colony is told by Fiske in his The Beginnings of New England, pages 134-6:

"The overthrow of the Pequots (1637) was a cardinal event in the planting of New England. It removed the chief obstacle to the colonization of the Connecticut coast, and brought the inland settlements into such unimpeded communication with those on tide-water as to prepare the way for the formation of the New England confederacy. Its first fruits were seen in the direction taken by the next wave of migration, which ended the Puritan exodus from England to America. About a month after the storming of the palisaded village there arrived in Boston a company of wealthy London merchants, with their families. The most prominent among them, Theophilus Eaton, was a member of the Company of Massachusetts Bay. Their pastor, John Davenport, was an eloquent preacher and a man of power. He was a graduate of Oxford, and in 1624 had been chosen vicar of St. Stephen's parish, in Coleman [S]treet, London. When he heard that Cotton and Hooker were about to sail for America, he sought earnestly to turn them from what he deemed the error of their ways, but instead he became converted himself and soon incurred the especial enmity of Laud, so that it annexed the New Haven colonies to Connecticut and deprived ... of their separate existence. There is a June 10, 1664 reference in the Brookhaven records about making provision for a "committee of Connecticut appointed for settling business on Long Island". Brookhaven adjoined Southold to the West. The Town of Brookhaven was directly across Long Island Sound. What is now Port Jefferson was part of Brookhaven and had a good harbor readily available to New Haven.

The new charter of Connecticut included within the boundaries of the colony "islands adjacent." This was interpreted by the colonists to include Fishers Island, Gardiners Island, Shelter Island and even the eastern part of Long Island. After England took Manhattan and what became New York from the Dutch, Connecticut's jurisdiction over those islands was questioned and ultimately was decided in favor of New York. The loyalty of the residents appears to have been with Connecticut because the towns on both the north and south forks of Long Island (Southold, Westhampton and Southampton) petitioned Charles II, unsuccessfully, to be allowed to remain a part of Connecticut. See Fishers Island by Henry L. Ferguson, p.17, and Short History of New York State by N.Y. State Historical Association, p.31.

The Obadiahs

The two Milford Obadiahs were the first and second Obadiahs of Brookhaven. We do not know the birthdate of the first Obadiah but it is likely that he was older than his wife Bethyah who was born July 27, 1637. Probably he was born about 1635 or a year before or after.

became necessary for him to flee to Amsterdam. In 1636 he returned to England, and in concert with Eaton organized a scheme of emigration that included men from Yorkshire, Hertfordshire, and Kent. The leaders arrived in Boston in the midst of the Antinomian disputes, and although Davenport won admiration for his skill in battling with heresy, he may perhaps have deemed it preferable to lead his flock to some new spot in the wilderness where such warfare might not be required. The merchants desired a find harbour and good commercial situation, and the reports of the men who returned from hunting the Pequots told them of just such a spot at Quinnipiack on Long Island Sound. Here they could carry out their plan of putting into practice a theocratic ideal even more rigid than that which obtained in Massachusetts, and arrange their civil as well as ecclesiastical affairs in accordance with rules to be obtained from a minute study of the Scriptures.

"In the spring of 1638 the town of New Haven was accordingly founded. The next year a swarm from this new town settled Milford, while another party, freshly arrived from England, made the beginnings of Guilford. In 1640 Stamford was added to the group, and in 1643 the four towns were united into the republic of New Haven, to which Southold, on Long Island, and Branford were afterwards added."

See also Osgood, American Colonies in the Seventeenth Century, vol. 1, pages 321-7.

The next Obadiah about whom we have extensive information is Obadiah (1702-1751) of New Jersey. His dates are separated from those of Obadiah, II, by an unsatisfactory gap. In Chapter III-F I have explained why I think it likely that there were four Obadiahs rather than the two listed by Dr. Seward. If there were four Obadiahs, their probable facts were:

Obadiah, I, born (perhaps 1635) in America or on the way to America.[34] Date of death about 1700. Wife was Bethyah Hawes.

Obadiah, II, born November 1, 1661, Milford, Connecticut. Date of death about 1698/9. Wife was Dinah Biggs. See Hawes Richard Hawes, p.30, which confirms my deduction from the Brookhaven Town Records that Obadiah, II, married Dinah Biggs.

Obadiah, III, born in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York about 1682. Died about 1748. Wife was Anna or Ann.

Obadiah, IV, born 1702 in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York, died May 14, 1751 in Berkshire Valley, Morris County, New Jersey. Wife was Isabel Luse.

If we assume that the average age for a man to marry in those times was 18 to 25 and that the first child was born within two years thereafter, then the four Obadiahs fit into the time frame. We are certain of the birth date of Obadiah, II, November 1, 1661, and we are reasonably certain of the birth date of the Brookhaven—Black River (Chester) Obadiah, 1702, and the 1724 birthdate of his first child. In the following table the guesses are in parenthesis and the facts reasonably known are without parenthesis:

	Birth	Marriage			Birth of First Child and Age		Death
Obadiah, I	(1635)	1660	Bethyah	1661	Obadiah	26	(1700)
Obadiah, II	1661	(1681)	Dinah	(1682)	Obadiah	20	-?-
Obadiah, III	(1682)	(1700)	Anna	1702	Obadiah	20	1748
Obadiah, IV	1702	1720	Isabel	1724	Eliakim[35]	22	1751

The table demonstrates the likelihood of four Obadiahs but it does not establish that there were four. Whether three or four, we know they were all named Obadiah. The first two are recorded in Connecticut, and we know that Eliakim's father was an Obadiah junior.

The principal difficulty with the three Obadiahs theory is that we must accept that Obadiah, II, did not have his first child until he was age 41 even though he was married at age 22.

[34] See next chapter: III-H "William of England and the British West Indies.

[35] Their fourth child, who died in infancy, was named Obadiah. See Chapter III-E.

There is another question which is puzzling. In 1738 many of the town inhabitants signed a quitclaim deed to give the minister a parcel of land. As mentioned above, Obadiah, IV, signed but why did not Samuel, Joseph, Abner and Eliakim sign? Did the rule of primogeniture apply? Also, as mentioned above, why during the period the town was supporting Obadiah, III, were lots drawn by him or in his name and not used for his support? Had he disposed of his rights to others who acted in his name?

The following from Colonial and Revolutionary Lineages of America, p.67, confirms some of the foregoing, particularly about Bethyah Hawes and her family. I quote it not so much for confirmation, which is not needed, but to disagree with its listing "Ann" as the wife of Obadiah, II.

"I. Obadiah (1) Seward, earliest known ancestor of this family, was living in Milford, Connecticut in 1660. No previous record of him has been found. The next account of Obadiah Seward, who is believed to be identical with the subject of this generation, shows that he arrived at Southold, Long Island, New York, in 1664, with his son, Obadiah, aged three years. Southold is southeast of Milford, Connecticut. He evidently settled at Brookhaven, Suffolk County, Long Island, where he drew Lot No. 49, in 1664, and was a tax payer there as late as 1675.

"Obadiah (1) Seward married, at Milford, Connecticut, October 31, 1660, Bethia or Bethiah Hawes, who was born in Dorchester, Massachusetts, July 27, 1637. She was a daughter of Richard Hawes, of Great Missenden, County Bucks, England, who arrived in the Massachusetts Colony on the Truelove in 1635, accompanied by his wife Ann or Anne, and two children, born in England, Ann and Obadiah.

"Among the children of Obadiah (1) and Bethia or Bethiah (Hawes) Seward, was Obadiah (2), of whom further.

"(Alvin Seward Van Benthuysen: The Seward and Seaward Families of the United States, pp.116, 118. F.W. Seward, Jr.: Obadiah Seward of Long Island, New York, and his Descendants, p.47. C.E. Banks: The Planters of the Commonwealth, p.172. J. Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary of the First Settlers of New England.)

"II. Obadiah (2) Seward, son of Obadiah (1) and Bethia or Bethiah (Hawes) Seward, was born at Milford, Connecticut, November 1, 1661. At the age of three years, his father brought him to Southold, Long Island, New York. ... He married Ann. The eldest of their five sons was: Obadiah (3), of whom further."

Note the reference to Ann which conflicts with my guess that the wife of Obadiah, II, was Dinah Biggs.

III-H William of 1634 and the Origin of Obadiah, I

Now let us return to the statement in Chambers' Early Germans of New Jersey that the father of Obadiah, I, was William Seward who sailed from London January 6, 1634/5 on a ship the first stop of which was to be St. Christopher and the Barbados. See Chapter III-E. On page 485 of his book, Chambers repeats in part the information about William which he gave on page 202. He cites no authority and he is clearly incorrect in saying that William Seward of 1634/5 was the first Seward in America but an analysis of the facts gives some credence to Chambers' statement about William being the father of Obadiah, I, even if it was a guess.

There was a William Seward, age 26, who sailed from the Port of London January 6, 1634/5 on the ship Bonaventure, James Romsey, Master, bound initially for the Barbados and St. Christopher. See Hotten: The Original Lists of Persons of Quality, p.39, and Tepper: Passengers to America, p.60. Neither reference states who, if anyone, accompanied the named passengers, and only adult males are listed. Presumably some were heads of families. Very likely, females and children were on board. Both lists certify that the passengers whose names are included had taken the oath of allegiance, although that may have little significance to the problem. How long did William stay in the Barbados or St. Christopher, if at all, and when did he come to the mainland? I have found no other record of him except a reference by Alvin Seward van Benthuysen in his The Seaward and Seward Families of America, p. 503, which states that William Symonds by his will proved February 20, 1634/5 left a bequest to his godson, William Seward, who was overseas. The Symons' (or Symonds, both spellings are used in the record) will referred to by van Benthuysen is in the Public Records Office, Chancery Lane, London, WC2 (document reference PROB11/167 P.C.C.1635-9). It was admitted to probate by the Prerogative Court of Canterbury on February 20, 1634/5 and it does leave "unto William Seaward my Godsonn one peece of gold of twentie two shillinge to be paid as before" i.e., within six months. Twenty-two shillings in gold in 1634/5 was the equivalent in 1993 of about £74 or U.S. $110. Another significant fact about William Symonds is that his will was not probated locally in Exeter where he lived and where in ordinary course it would have been offered for probate. At that time Exeter was a separate county apart from Devonshire. His estate was handled by the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, a procedure reserved for important people. The index describes him as a gentleman of Exeter, as does the will itself. The term "gentleman" in the 1600s applied to those who ranked just below nobility. Although not noble they were entitled to bear arms. See Oxford English Dictionary and the discussion under the heading "British Origins; the Factor of Social Rank" on pages 798-802 of David Hackett Fischer's Albion's Seed.

Presumably William Seaward, the legatee, also lived in or near Exeter, but I have not succeeded in locating information about him despite excellent research assistance. There were Sewards (Seawards) in nearby Stoke-in-Teignhead, see footnote 1. Van Benthuysen apparently did find information indicating that the Seaward legatee was overseas — which agrees with the fact that William (and presumably his family) left England on January 6, 1634/5, six weeks before the will was admitted to probate. I have not found anything confirming that the William "Seward" who was on board the Bonaventure was the William "Seaward" who was the godson of William Symonds but I think we can assume he was. The will itself says nothing about the whereabouts of William Seaward. It was made in 1633/4 about a year before Symonds' death. The importance of the information is that it suggests the William Seward who was on board the Bonaventure, if a protegee of the gentleman William Symonds, was of good family background and an immigrant of more than ordinary standing, probably a "gentleman."

I do not attach much significance to the difference in spelling between Seaward and Seward. Spelling was not so accurate in the 1600s.

The change from the Julian to Gregory calendar in England in 1751, even though of retroactive effect, does not affect that sequence of dates. The moving of New Year's Day from March 25 to January 1 put both dates (January 4, 1634 and February 20, 1634) into the historical year 1635 of the same month and day as before.

I will refer to William (who left England in 1634/5) as William, I, to distinguish him from the later William, II, who arrived in America about 1643. It appears likely that William, I, and his family (whether or not the godson of William Symonds) continued on to the mainland and arrived, probably at Boston, in the late Spring of the historical year 1635. I will have more later about William, I, and his arrival in America; but the possibility I advance (seconding Chambers but with more facts) is that Obadiah, I, was born to William, I, either on the journey to America or shortly after arrival. Based on the age of Obadiah's wife and the date of their marriage, previously discussed, I have estimated the birthday of Obadiah, I, to be about 1635.

The second William Seward (a different William whom I have called William, II) is recorded in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. LII for 1898, p.323:

"William Seward[36] was born in England in 1627. He came from

SEWARD AND RELATED FAMILIES

by George C. Seward

"...After the fashion that prevailed a hundred years ago, the most illustrious of Americans felt little interest in his ancestry; but with the keener historic sense and broader scientific outlook of the present day, the importance of such matters is better appreciated. The pedigrees of horses, dogs and fancy pigeons have a value that is quotable in terms of hard cash. Far more important, for the student of human affairs, are the pedigrees of men. By no possible ingenuity of constitution-making or of legislation can a society made up of ruffians and boors be raised to the intellectual and moral level of a society made up of well-bred merchants and yeomen, parsons and lawyers. One might as well expect to see a dray horse win the Derby. It is, moreover, only when we habitually bear in mind the threads of individual relationship that connect one country with another, that we get a really firm and concrete grasp of history. Without genealogy the study of history is comparatively lifeless..."

—From Old Virginia and Her Neighbors (Vol. II, p.25), by John Fiske, Cambridge, Massachusetts, writing in 1897 about George Washington.

Another point of view:

"They will ask you, "What have you done?"
Not, "Who were your ancestors?"
The famous veil in the sanctuary
Is not revered by the faithful
Because it came from the silkworm."
Sa'di, the Persian poet, 1184-1291

—From "Things I Like" (1932) by Carroll Frances McKay. See Appendix J, We Remember Carroll.

p. 188. F.H. Carpenter (p. 36) says this is the same person as that listed above because he appears in A List of Names of the Living in Virginia February 16, 1624 under Elizabeth City.

Robert Sewar, age 23, to Virginia in 1635. Hotten: The Original Lists of Persons of Quality, p. 84; also Tepper: Passengers to America, p. 87.

John Seward, in Virginia, before 1637. F.H. Carpenter (p. 36) gives information about family and land holdings in Isle of Wight County. He carried on also a merchant business in Bristol, England. He may have been the John Seward who represented Isle of Wight in the Virginia House of Burgesses 1645-6 (Journal vol. 1, p. xviii).

Robert Seward of Exeter, New Hampshire, 1639. Savage suggests he may have been a brother of Richard and may have resided in Portsmouth, New Hampshire in 1649. Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary, p.57, and Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire, p.183. F.H. Carpenter (p.36) says he signed the combination[37] in 1639, removed to Hampton, New Hampshire, bought land from Lieutenant Howard and in 1646 sold it to Nat Boulter.

Henry Seward, a millwright, was in Hampton, New Hampshire in 1649 and came to America about 1636. F.H. Carpenter (p. 37) gives information about the family. Probably is the same person described as Sayward, supra.

Roger Seward, in Boston 1655, a mariner. Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary, p. 57. F.H. Carpenter (p. 38) gives further information and says he was a brother of Richard of Portsmouth who died in 1663. To same effect see Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire, p. 183.

James Seward, age not given, to Virginia in 1655. Greer: Early Virginia Immigrants, p. 294.

The Filby and Meyer 1982-5 Cumulated Supplement to the Passenger and Immigration Lists includes three additional names:

James Seward to Maryland 1656
Mary Seward to Maryland 1656

[37] I am not certain of the meaning of "combination" but think it refers to the "covenant" designed to resolve religious disputes in which Englishmen and Scotsmen joined. Charles, I, in 1635 ordered that Scotland, which was heavily Presbyterian, should use in its churches the service book prepared by Archbishop Laud for the English (Anglican) churches. The Scots resisted and in a national covenant which thousands signed, pledged not to accept changes in religion unless approved by the Presbyterian church assembly. This had the effect of giving the churches power to decide for themselves how to conduct their religious services.

The latter reference is to William, II, who settled in Guilford.

My analysis has brought me to the conclusion that Obadiah Seward, I, was born about 1635. See Chapter III-H. I have found no record of a Seward in New England to be his likely father. There were Sewards in Virginia at that date, as the foregoing list indicates but the name Obadiah suggests that his parents were Puritans and hence probably New Englanders. The earliest New England Seward appears to have been Henry Sayward (Seward) of Hampton, New Hampshire. He gave a deposition in 1669 in which he said he had been in America 32 years and upwards since he had come from England. See Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire. Hence he arrived about 1637. His children were Joseph born about 1655 and John, but no Obadiah. That requires us to think further about William (1608-) who probably arrived in Boston about 1634/5.[38] My conjecture is that Obadiah, I, was his son and was born

[38] The time when he left England was a depressing one for Puritans, which the Sewards probably were. The period is described in E.P. Cheney in his European Background of American History, pages 226-228:

"...from 1629 to 1640... Parliament had no meetings, and ... the Court of Star Chamber, the High Commission, and the Privy Council were the all-powerful instruments of an administration sympathetic with the high-church party. The oppressions of the Puritans were now at their height, and the prospect of ever obtaining freedom to worship as they chose seemed the darkest. With the most prominent liberal and Puritan leaders imprisoned for their political opinions, like Sir John Eliot, or lying in prison, crushed under enormous fines, like Prynne; with the courts subservient to the royal will; with court preachers declaring the duty of passive obedience to the government; with Laud guiding the policy of the king in all ecclesiastical matters, – the state of the Puritans might well seem hopeless, and they might well look towards some distant land as a place for the establishment of a purified national church." . . .

"It was under this regime that the great Puritan migration to America took place. The Puritans represented a class of society which was much more ready to emigrate than the Catholics. As early as 1597 some imprisoned Brownists sent a petition to the Privy Council asking that they might be allowed to settle in America; and four men of the same persuasion even went on a voyage to examine the land. In 1608 many Puritans seem to have prepared to emigrate to Virginia, when by Archbishop Bancroft's influence they were forbidden by the king to go, except with his express permission in each individual case.

"The Separatists early became wanderers on the face of the earth, a now famous group of them leaving their English homes for Amsterdam, migrating thence to Leyden, and then, after hesitating between a Dutch and an English colony and between North and South America, a portion settling themselves on Plymouth Harbor. In all this history of early colonization there have been few such occasions as that of the year 1638, when fourteen ships bound for New England lay in the Thames at one time, and when three thousand settlers reached Boston within the same year. Almost all the Englishmen who were ever to emigrate to New England left their homes during the twelve years between 1628 and 1640."

Is it likely that Obadiah, I, born about 1635, was the son of George Seward who was possibly 16 to 25 years of age when he arrived in Guilford in 1651? If George was born about 1626 at the earliest, Obadiah born about 1635 was not his offspring. Even if George was age 30 when he arrived in 1651 it is unlikely that Obadiah was his son. Van Benthuysen suggests that Edward, judging from the date of his death (about 1651) may have been born as early as 1600. This is of course possible but, as previously noted, is it likely that a 43 year old person would have returned to England to serve in the Revolution? The conjecture I have put forth above — that William, I, was the father of Obadiah, and that Edward, George and William, II, were only collateral relatives, perhaps nephews of William, I, — seems more logical. Also it is possible that Edward's military service shortened his life.

It does not seem likely that Edward (possible birthdate 1621), and George (possible birthdate 1621-28) were sons of William, I, born in 1608. The birthdate (1627) of William, II, makes him questionable but still unlikely. The similarity of names makes one want to believe they were father and son but it appears not to be so. Puritanism was the major influence which brought the early settlers to what became New England. That same Puritanism made old testament biblical names popular. Hence it would have been in accord with the times for William, I, to name his son Obadiah. It was a popular Puritan name. Obadiah's brother-in-law, the brother of Bethyah Hawes Seward, was named Obadiah. See Chapter III-G. David Hackett Fischer in his Albion's Seed says (p. 94) that in seventeenth century Boston 90 percent of all first names were taken from the Bible.

Van Benthuysen notes (supplement p. 8) that Edward Seward died about 1651 in Guilford where he had lived since his return from his service in the English revolutionary war against Charles I. He compares that date with the date William, II, died (March 5, 1702) and finds it difficult to believe they were brothers. It is more likely, he thinks, that William, II, was Edward's son. He notes — but does not rely on — some possible circumstantial evidence: that William, II, was living in New Haven when he married Grace Norton of Guilford (where Edward lived) and that William moved to Guilford after Edward's death (possibly having inherited property from Edward). Based upon the 50 year difference in their death dates he estimates Edward's birthdate to be about 1600 which contrasts with my estimate of 1621. My estimates, previously given, were based on my guess that Edward was a minimum of 16 on his original arrival in America in either 1637 or 1639 (the two different dates which are given) and his age in 1643 when he volunteered to serve in Cromwell's army which I thought might be 18-28. On van Benthuysen's analysis Edward was 37 or 39 when he originally arrived, and was 43 when he volunteered for the army. Whether Edward's birthdate was 1600 or 1621 does not matter greatly to my analysis about Obadiah, I. Instead of being Obadiah's possible cousin, Edward may have been a possible uncle. I have found nothing to suggest that the two were more closely connected than that. If William, I, was the godson of William Symonds and came from Devon, a close relationship with William, II, from Sussex becomes more difficult.

My age analysis suggests that Obadiah, I, and William, II, were at best cousins. The fact that no information has been found about the birth of Obadiah would be explained if my theory is correct that he was born on the journey from England.

In addition to William, I, Edward, George, William, II, and Obadiah, I have found records of a number of other Sewards in America before 1660. I cannot say the list is exhaustive but I have tried to run down every index. I list them in as near chronological order as possible:

John and James Seaward, fishermen in New England waters in 1620, were met and consulted by the Mayflower about local harbors: Pilot Lore, p. 2, New York and New Jersey Sandy Hook Pilots Benevolent Association, The Sandy Hook Pilots by William Westerbaker in The New Yorker, September 14, 1968, p. 135.

Henry Sayward, age not given, to New England in 1620-1650. Banks: Topographical Dictionary of 2885 English Emigrants, p.46. Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire, p.182, says that Henry in a deposition given October 15, 1669 said he had been in America for 32 years since he left England. He had a son, Joseph born 1665, and possibly John and Samuel. Died 1682.

Richard Seward of Portsmouth, New Hampshire; date of arrival not known but died there in 1663 leaving according to Savage, children and grandchildren, details not known. Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary, p.57. Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire, p.183. This is confirmed in Rambles about Portsmouth by Charles Warren Brewster, Vol. 1, p.26, where under date of 1660 Richard Seward, Sr. and Richard Seward, Jr. are both mentioned. F.H. Carpenter (p.38), in his Seward Family Records, published by International Research Publications, London 1977, gives further information about the family but I did not note any clues to Obadiah. The same is true of Pope. However, see Roger Seward below and Robert of Exeter.

John Seward, age 30, to Virginia in 1622. Jester and Hiden: Musters of the Inhabitants in Virginia, p.53; also Hotten: The Original Lists of Persons of Quality, p.249. F.H. Carpenter (p.36) says John came over in the ship Geife and that he was the servant to Susan Bush of Elizabeth City.

John Seaward, age not given, to Virginia in 1623. Colonial Records of Virginia, p.53; also Hotten: The Original Lists of Persons of Quality, born in 1600 or before. Would it not be unusual in the 1600s for a 43 year old person to be involved in military service? Atwater's History of the Colony of New Haven says (pp.167, 627 and 635) that Edward is believed to have been on the second ship (July 1639) which brought people to the newly founded colony of Quinnipac (New Haven) and that those colonists settled at Guilford, which in October 1643, along with Milford, was admitted to the federation then consisting of New Haven, Southold and Stamford. According to Atwater, Edward may have returned to England and then again came back to New England but no record has been found of a wife or family. The 1639 arrival date differs from the 1637 given by Savage.

George's birthday range is a guestimate based on the assumption that he was 16 to 25 when he arrived in Guilford about 1651.

Obadiah was probably a couple of years older than his wife who was born in 1637. We are not far off with him at 1634-6 and I will therefore use c1635. We can get a confirmation by comparing the dates of the marriages – William of Guilford, April 2, 1651 and Obadiah, October 31, 1660 – which suggests William was about nine years older than Obadiah. That would mean Obadiah was born about 1634-6.

The New Haven Colony Sewards may have been related; but the age estimates suggest that Edward, George and probably William, II, were too old to be children of William, I. Obadiah clearly could have been. Edward, George and William, II, may have been one branch of the family and William, I, and Obadiah another. If the Guilford Sewards were related, they probably all came from Sussex because Edward's will is said to have left property to his kinsmen in Selsey and Chichester. If William, I, was the father of Obadiah, I, and if William, I, was the godson of William Symons of Exeter, that branch of the Sewards probably came from Exeter which is about 125 miles from Chichester. That would make a close relationship between Obadiah and the Guilford Sewards more tenuous. There are too many "ifs" to justify a conclusion about the relationship between the Milford and Guilford Sewards.

To justify my conclusion that William, I, did not stay in the Caribbean, I have made an extensive search of the records of Barbados and Nevis which was the initial stop of the Bonaventure, but have found no reference to William or any other Seward of his time frame. Baptism records, marriage records, will records, military records and estate records exist but none lists a Seward as early as William's 1634/5 date. The earliest I have located is a Malachia Seward, described as a gentleman of Barbados, in St. Thomas Parish, who died September 17, 1666, possessed of moderate wealth, 47 acres of land and 10 slaves. There was a Richard Seward who registered his will in Jamaica between 1672-6. There was a Robert Seward listed in Captain Burr's Company on the Island of Nevis 1677-8. I found no prior Sewards. Hence I think it likely that William did not stay there long, if at all, and continued on to Massachusetts. He probably arrived in the spring of 1634/5. It was more usual than not for ships to stop in the Caribbean to drop and take on cargo on their way to Boston. Both cargo and passengers were revenue producers. London, the Caribbean and Boston were the revenue stops.

Van Benthuysen in the supplement volume to the second edition of his The Seaward and Seward Families of America devotes pages 8-10 to a discussion of the possible relationship of Obadiah and William of Guilford and Obadiah's origin without reaching any firm conclusion other than they must have been related not as brothers but possibly as cousins. Also he disagreed with the suggestion which has been made that Edward and William of Guilford were brothers. He thought it more likely because of the dates of their deaths that Edward could have been William's father. Edward died about 1651 and William II about 1689, 38 years apart.

He said that a careful search of the Massachusetts records had not turned up a birth record for Obadiah and that that was true also of such Portsmouth records as are available and the New Hampshire records.

> "It is to be borne in mind that we do not know where Obadiah was before his arrival in Milford. Such Portsmouth records as are available shed no light on his possible birth in that town, nor does his birth appear in any other New Hampshire record." (p. 744, supplement)

I, too, have investigated without success every record source I have learned about in America and have retained experts to do that for me in England. New England was reasonably good about birth records, as was England, and it is curious that no record has been found in either England or New England about Obadiah's birth. Birth on shipboard or otherwise along the way would be an explanation.

At page 744 of his supplement van Benthuysen mentions and leaves open a suggestion by Edwin Judd Seward that Obadiah might have been the son of George of Guilford:

> "4800-Obadiah Seward. Attention is called to the statement of Edwin Judd Seward, appearing on page 660, to the effect that Obadiah was the son of George Seward of Guilford, Connecticut, brother of William Seward of Guilford, Connecticut, making Obadiah the nephew of William Seward of Guilford, Connecticut, this linking the families of William and Obadiah. While the compiler has not been able to authenticate this relationship, is it quite possibly correct. The compiler, as stated early in Volume I, believes that some relationship existed and in Volume II [pp.8-10] dwells at further length on the possibility."

Bristol to New England, and is said to have been in Taunton, Mass., in 1643. He settled in New Haven, shortly after arriving in America, and while residing there married Grace Norton, of Guilford." (April 2, 1651) "He removed to Guilford shortly afterward and took the oath of fidelity there, May 4, 1654."

me at Seven Trees Camp and said he had a sword which had been given to Colonel William Seward on July 7, 1894 by the Ninth Regiment of the New York National Guard. Ed had received it from his uncle, George Schermerhorn Seward, whose wife, Myrtle Seamans, was Ed's mother's sister. George Schermerhorn Seward had one son who died without issue.

Ed did not know the whereabouts of any descendant of Colonel (later General) Seward and he wanted to give the sword a permanent home with the Seward line. Could I find the proper person? I said I would try. It was quite a nice sword which he handed to me, and he gave me the following genealogical start:

Colonel William Seward was born 1837 and died 1905. He married Louisa Lockwood 1864 and had six children:

I - Elizabeth
II - William, Jr.
III - Louise Roe
IV - Edward Townsend
V - George Schermerhorn, born 8/7/1874 (Hackensack, New York), died 2/4/1943 (Beverly Hills, California)
VI - Julia Lockwood

Colonel Seward's ancestors were:

William - (1810-1890) m1833 Catherine Charlock
William - (1784-1823) m1805 Mary Besley
Reverend William - (1747-1822) m Thankful Parmelee
Reverend William - (1712-1782) m1742 Concurrence Stevens
Deacon William - (1683/4-1764) m1710 Damaris Punderson
Captain John - (1653/4-?) m1679 Abigail Bushnell
William - (1627-1689) m1651 Grace Norton

It did not appear to me how Colonel Seward fitted into my branch of the Seward family, although Ed thought the Colonel was related to William H. Seward, Lincoln's Secretary of State. I wrote a great many letters, without success, attempting to find someone who would claim the Colonel's ancestors. Perhaps someone who reads this note will be able to supply the missing information. Meanwhile, with Ed's permission, I entrusted the sword to my elder son, Gordon; but I believe he will be willing to give it to a Seward descendant of the Colonel.

It does appear possible that my ancestor Obadiah (c1635-c1700) was related to William (1627-1689), the ancestor of Ed's Uncle George Schermerhorn Seward. See analysis in this chapter.

Ed's mother was Ethel Seamans, born 10/20/90 in Aurora,Illinois, who died 5/19/73. His father was Edmond Stephen Gillette, Sr., born 4/5/91 also in Aurora, Illinois. He died 1/6/78 in Santa Monica, California. Ed was born August 5, 1916 in Aurora, Illinois. He has lived in San Francisco since 1949.

I have a second hand report of a book by Luria Henry Musladin, History of Our Family in America 1620-1950 which is said to say of that second William: "William Seward born in Bristol, Eng. came to America in Elizabeth & Dorcas to Newbury, Mass. 1643." I have not succeeded in locating the book but it appears that no reference is given for the place of birth and that Musladin may have been confused by the fact that the ship on which William sailed came from the port of Bristol.

There were two other Sewards in Guilford: Edward and George. According to Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary, p. 5, Edward was in Ipswich, Massachusetts in 1637. He went home in 1643 to fight in the English Civil War, serving in the Garrison of Chichester, Sussex, England, where he made his will leaving property to kinsmen and friends at Selsey and Chichester. He returned to America in 1650 and resided at Guilford where he died about 1651. He is listed in the History of the Colony of New Haven, Vol. 1, p. 167, as one of the 1650-52 Guilford planters who had not been admitted as freemen. I have been advised by the Connecticut State Library that there is no record of a will for Edward. I have commissioned a search in England but to date the Chichester will has not been found.

George was in Guilford in 1651 according to Savage, p. 57. He was at Branford, Connecticut in 1668 and is thought to have moved to what became Newark, New Jersey. Savage says perhaps he was a brother of William, II. I have not found a New Jersey will or other record for George. He was said to be one of the original Covenanters. See John Richard Green: Short History of the English People, p. 1152, regarding the Covenant and the part it played in the English Civil War.

The entire Seward group, Milford and Guilford, is listed below in accordance with my estimate of their birthdates, the "guestimates" being in parenthesis:

William, I	1608'
Edward	(1621)—Van Benthuysen says 1600. See later in this chapter.
George	(1621-28)
William, II	1627
Obadiah	*c*1635

In the following paragraphs the known information about each is set forth to explain my estimates of their birth dates. We know about William, I, and William, II; and we are reasonably certain about Obadiah.

Edward was probably 18-30 in 1643 when he returned to England to join the Puritan forces fighting Charles, I, but he was probably at least 16 in 1637, the earliest date for his arrival in America. Hence I have estimated his birthdate to be 1621. I am unsure about van Benthuysen's estimate that Edward was

by George C. Seward

"...After the fashion that prevailed a hundred years ago, the most illustrious of Americans felt little interest in his ancestry; but with the keener historic sense and broader scientific outlook of the present day, the importance of such matters is better appreciated. The pedigrees of horses, dogs and fancy pigeons have a value that is quotable in terms of hard cash. Far more important, for the student of human affairs, are the pedigrees of men. By no possible ingenuity of constitution-making or of legislation can a society made up of ruffians and boors be raised to the intellectual and moral level of a society made up of well-bred merchants and yeomen, parsons and lawyers. One might as well expect to see a dray horse win the Derby. It is, moreover, only when we habitually bear in mind the threads of individual relationship that connect one country with another, that we get a really firm and concrete grasp of history. Without genealogy the study of history is comparatively lifeless..."

—From Old Virginia and Her Neighbors (Vol. II, p.25), by John Fiske, Cambridge, Massachusetts, writing in 1897 about George Washington.

Another point of view:

"They will ask you, "What have you done?"
Not, "Who were your ancestors?"
The famous veil in the sanctuary
Is not revered by the faithful
Because it came from the silkworm."
Sa'di, the Persian poet, 1184-1291

replete with misinformation. Even those more experienced than we have a tendency to interpret what they find into what they want to find or to shape it to the need they perceive. There are examples in this book. The translators of the new edition of the Domesday Book were trying to be helpful when they translated all spelling variations of Siward as Siward. Only by going to the Latin text could we learn that the Seward name was in current use at least as early as 1086. See Foreword about Seward name. Another example is the Barbour Collection of the Connecticut State Library whose compilers were endeavoring to assist researchers who could not look at the originals which are fading with time. Only a hard look by someone more familiar with the facts could have detected that the handwriting which was thought to evidence four Sewards in Milford in the early days of the Colony had been misread. See Chapter III-G. There were only Obadiah, I, and his son Obadiah, II.

Research regarding one's ancestors has no end. There is more that I perhaps will still be able to do, but to be certain that what I have completed will be preserved, I must again put in print now what I have. Perhaps some other interested person will add to my work and will correct any errors which still remain. Although the geographic origin of my first documented Seward ancestor, Obadiah, born about 1635, remains uncertain, it is fair to say about my family and Carroll's, that no matter what line one wants to follow back, our ancestors have been in America a long time. The Sewards and McKays were here years before Thomas Jefferson, whom I greatly admire, drafted the Declaration of Independence.

Foreword about the Seward name

While my family history has been traced back only to the 1600s, the name Seward has long existed in English history. What I have learned about it may be of interest as background for the 17th century individuals whom I can identify as my family.

Hereditary surnames (family names) were not known in England before the Conquest. The concept was just beginning to come into use in Normandy about that time. See Freeman: The Norman Conquest (Revised American Edition, 1873), vol. V, page 378 et seq. Freeman suggests that the surname Siward may have originated with the Siward who was the son of Thurkill of Warwick. Freeman says, vol. IV, page 531:

> "The name Siward appears constantly as a surname in the reign of Henry the Third. [1216-1272] Genealogists might do some service by finding out whether its bearers were descendants of Thurkill and Aelfwine."

He describes Thurkill as the son of Aelfwine, a sheriff at the time William conquered England, who made his peace with William and not only kept his lands but greatly increased them out of royal grants from confiscated estates of less diplomatic Englishmen. Thurkill, according to Freeman, "stands out more conspicuously in Domesday than any other Englishman," but his son, Siward, was dispossessed of the greater part of his lands by William Rufus (1087-1100). See Freeman, vol. IV, p. 126 and 529 et seq. In the Phillimore translation of the Domesday Book, Thurkill is "Thorkell". The list of lands under that name (vol. 37, Index of Persons, p. 202) is impressive and extends into twenty-five counties. My examination of the volumes suggests there were a number of Thorkells but there is nevertheless ample property listed to support Freeman's statement.

Thurkill was from Warwick which was a part of the domaine of the fabled Earl Siward (-1055). I have not attempted to prove a family connection between Earl Siward and Aelfwine who was of a generation shortly following that of the Earl, although Siward, the grandson of Aelfwine, and Earl Waltheof, the son of Earl Siward, do appear to have had a common ancestor. According to Freeman (who in vol. iv, p. 13 cites Orderic Vitalis [presumably Historica Ecclesiastica] 506B), Siward, the grandson of Aelfwine, may have been the descendant of Earl Uhtred (of Northumberland) by his third wife, Aelgifa, who was the daughter of King Aethelred (978-1013). Earl Uhtred was Earl Waltheof's great grandfather —the grandfather of his mother, Aethelflaed (Freeman, vol. i, p. 352 and vol. iv, p. 356-7). Perhaps it was admiration for Earl Siward and his place in history as well as the possible family relationship which was the motivation for the use by Thurkill of the name for his son. There is much about Earl Siward in Freeman's volumes, and Shakespeare made him one of his characters in Macbeth. See also Skene: Celtic Scotland, Vol. 1, p. 408 etc., Thierry: History of the Conquest of England, Book III, p. 140 and the Dictionary of National Biography.[2]

[2] SIWARD, Earl of Northumberland (d. 1055), called Digera or the strong (Vita AEdwardi, p. 401), a Dane, is said to have been the son of a Danish jarl named Biorn [BIORN]. According to legend he was descended from a white bear and a lady. Fitting out a ship, he is said to have sailed to Orkney, where he overcame a dragon, went thence to Northumbria, and, in obedience to a supernatural command, to London, where he entered the service of King Edward the Confessor. In that capacity he is described as slaying Tostig, the Earl of Huntingdon, who was stated to be the queen's brother-in-law, and he received Tostig's earldom (Origo et Gesta Siwardi ap. Scriptores rerum Danicarum, iii. 288; Bromton, cols. 945-6). As a matter of fact, he probably came to England with Canute, and received the earldom of Deira after the death of Eadwulf Cutel, the earl of Northumbria, when the Northumbrian earldom appears to have been divided (Sym. Dunelm, i. 219). He is described as earl in the attestation of a charter dated 1026 (Codex Dipl. iv. No. 742; if this charter is genuine, Freeman's belief as to the date when Siward became earl, Norman Conquest, i. 587, and n. 1, needs modification). He married AElflaed, daughter of Ealdred, earl of Bernicia, the nephew of Eadwulf Cutel. In 1011 he was employed by Hardecanute [q.v.], along with Earls Godwin [q.v.] and Leofric [q.v.], to ravage Worcestershire. At the king's instigation [see under Hardecanute] he in this year slew his wife's uncle Eadwulf, who had succeeded his brother Ealdred in Bernicia, and received his earldom, becoming earl of the whole of Northumberland from the Humber to the Tweed (Sym. Dunelm. i. 91), and also held, probably at a later date, the earldom of Huntingdonshire (Codex Dipl. iv. No. 903; Norman Conquest, i. 792, 3rd ed.). He accompanied Edward the Confessor from Gloucester to Winchester when, in 1043, the king seized the treasures of his mother Emma [q.v.]. Ethelric, bishop of Durham, complained to him in 1045, that he had been driven out from his bishopric by the clerks of Durham, for he had been elected against their will; he offered the earl money to reinstate him, and Siward compelled the clerks to receive him back (Sym. Dunelm. u.s.)

Siward upheld Edward the Confessor [q.v.] in his quarrel with Godwin in 1051. The story that he joined Archbishop Stigand [q.v.] and Earls Godwin and Leofric, in advising the king to appoint Duke William as his successor, and in swearing to uphold this arrangement (William of Pottiers, p. 129), is incredible as it stands, but may refer to a promise made by Edward during William's visit in this year (cf. Norman Conquest, ii. 296-303, iii. 678). In pursuance of the king's command, Siward invaded Scotland both by sea and land with a large force in 1054. The king of Scotland was Macbeth [q.v.], who had slain his predecessor Duncan I [q.v.], the husband of a sister or cousin of the earl (Skene), and Siward's invasion was evidently undertaken on behalf of Duncan's son Malcolm [see Malcolm III called Canmore]. A fierce battle took place on 27 July; the Scots were routed, Macbeth fled, and Malcolm appears to have been established as king of Cumbria in the district south of the Firths of Forth and Clyde. Many of the earl's followers were slain in the battle, both English and Danes, and among them his elder son Osbeorn and his nephew Siward. It is said that when he heard that Osbeorn had fallen, he asked whether he had received his death wound before or behind, and on being told

David C. Douglas, at page 86 of his William the Conqueror, gives an example of the emergence of a surname and his example mentions a granddaughter of Earl Siward, thus demonstrating how well connected the Earl's descendants were with the prominent families of the time:

> "Tosny is the earliest family to be discovered in Normandy wherein a territorial appellation is found to be descendible "[about 1200]" in the manner of a surname, and the succession "[genealogy]" which has here been displayed is thus of exceptional interest. Similarly, the marriage alliances formed by members of this family are symptomatic of its growing power. Not only did the widow of Roger I marry a count of Evreux, but his sister linked Normandy to Maine, by allying herself with Guy de Laval, and one of his daughters married William fitz Osbern, steward of Normandy, and later earl of Hereford. Nor was the Old English aristocracy itself to be unaffected by Tosny fortunes, for Ralph IV of Tosny (the son of the man who fought at Hastings) married a daughter of Waltheof, son of Earl Siward of Northumbria. A better illustration of the expanding influence of a that it was before, said 'I am right glad, for no other death would be worthy of me or my son' (Hen. Hunt. p. 194). Early in 1055 he died at York. When he felt that his end was near, he is said to have cried, 'How shameful is it that I could not have died in one of all my fights, and have lived on to die at last like a cow,' i.e. lying in his bed. Then he bade his attendants arm him with his breast-plate, helmet, and shield, and give him his sword and gilded axe, that he might meet death as a warrior, and so standing fully armed he died (ibid. p. 196). Siward had built a minster at a place called Galmanho, close to York, where the abbey of St. Mary afterwards stood, and dedicated it to St. Olaf, and there he was buried. He was of almost gigantic size; he seems to have been violent and unscrupulous, but must on the whole have been a just as well as a strenuous ruler. By his first wife AElthed, he had two sons, Osbeorn and Waltheof [q.v.]. On his marriage with her he gave her Barmpton, near Darlington, and five other estates which were claimed by the church of Durham; she, however, declared that they were hers by hereditary right, and left them to her son Waltheof (Sym. Dunelm. i. 219-20). His second wife was Godgifu, a widow, who died not long after her marriage to him. Before she married him she gave Ryhall and Belmeathorpe, near Stamford, to the monastery of Peterborough, to pass to the monks after her death, but when she died Siward made agreement with the abbot that he should keep them during his life (Codex Dipl. iv. No. 927). Siward and his Osbeorn, called by Shakespeare 'young Siward,' appear in 'Macbeth.'

rising Norman family in the eleventh century could hardly be obtained."

Waltheof had married Judith, a niece of the conqueror. She turned against him and caused him to be executed on a questionable charge of treason. According to Freeman, (vol. iv, p.411), Waltheof's death was the turning point in the history of William and "the greatest crime of his life", after which his affairs did not go well. Earl Waltheof was immensely popular and stories were generated about miracles at his grave. His biography is in the Dictionary of National Biography and immediately following it is a biography of his grandson, Waltheof of Melrose (who was canonized as a saint), the son of Simon de Senlis and Matilda, the elder daughter of Waltheof. Waltheof had three daughters. Matilda after Simon's death married David the First, King of Scotland. The second daughter, Judith, married Ralph, the younger, of Tosny, and the third, whose name appears not to have survived, married Robert fitz Richard of Clare. Freeman's summary and comments (vol. iv, p.410) about Earl Waltheof's descendants are as follows:

> "...there is no doubt that a daughter of Waltheof did marry Simon of Senlis, and conveyed to him the Earldoms of Northampton and Huntingdon. Simon was the founder of the castle of Northampton, and of the neighbouring Priory of Saint Andrew, and he died on his way back from a pilgrimage or crusade to Jerusalem. Of the marriage of Simon and Matilda came three children, a younger Simon, a younger Matilda, and a younger Waltheof, who became Abbot of Melrose. But the daughter of the martyred Earl, after her first husband's death, consoled her widowhood with a loftier marriage. She became the wife of David of Scotland (1124-1153), one of the sons of Malcolm and of the holy Margaret, and who himself became one of the most renowned princes who ever wore the Scottish Crown. Through this marriage came the long connexion between the Earldom of Huntingdon and the royal house of Scotland, and through it too the blood of Waltheof, and thereby of the long list of his forefathers, human and otherwise, passed into the veins of the later Kings of England, and also, if genealogists are to be trusted, into those of many of their subjects."

There are numerous references to Siwards in English history just prior to and after the Conquest. The fact that their owners merited being so recorded is of itself significant. The Anglo-Saxon Chronicles record that Siward, Abbot of Abbington was consecrated Archbishop in 1044. Abbot Siward may formerly have been a monk at Glastonbury Abbey according to Geoffrey Ashe in his King Arthur's Avalon, page 195. The Anglo-Saxon Chronicles record also that in 1058 Abbot Siward was made Bishop of Rochester and that in 1071 Siward Bearn along with Bishop Aethelwine and their "many hundred men" submitted to William at Ely (p. 204). A Siward joined with FitzHamon, Count of Gloucester, in his campaign to subjugate Glamorgan in southern Wales and thus acquired Talavan castle which his descendants sold during the reign of Edward III (1327-77) when they returned to their ancestral lands in Somerset. Of still another Siward, this one from Stropshire, Freeman said (Vol. V, p. 510) he is "one of the owners of a not uncommon name." Orderic Vitalis, the historian, was taught by a Siward. Freeman says (Vol. IV, p. 337) "At the age of five years [1080] he [Orderic] learned the first rudiments of letters from the priest Siward, his maternal kinsman, in the church by the gate of Shrewsbury...". To the same effect see the biography of Orderic in the Dictionary of National Biography. Abbot Siward of Crowland Abbey was mentioned in charters or other documents in 810, 819, 825 and 833. Abbot Siward of Abington Abbey was mentioned under date of 1033. Bishop Siward was mentioned in 1045, and Abbot Siward in 1110. See Anglo-Saxon Charters by P.H. Sawyer (Royal Historical Society). Since the name Siward was at those times a given name and had not yet developed into a surname, the Siwards mentioned cannot be said to be connected by family with those now bearing the surname.

I have suggested that admiration for Earl Siward, for which there was abundant basis, led to the use of the name as a given name and possibly caused it to develop into a surname. According to Freeman (Vol. 1, p. 520), the Earl was a Dane who was a follower of Canute, and his Danish name was Sigeweard—which as a matter of easier pronunciation became Siward or Saeward depending upon how the scribe of the moment interpreted the sound. The Latin "ae" and the Anglo-Saxon "i" were interchanged easily in pronunciation. The name became a popular one as is evidenced by the Domesday Book which was a survey of the country's wealth prepared in 1086 by order of William, I, to improve his tax system. The survey covered all the counties except some of the Northern ones such as Northumberland, where there were probably even more Siwards. Also London and Winchester (the current and former capital cities) were not included. It lists lands, related property and property holders; but distinguishing among property holders of the same name is difficult. Is the Siward who held land in Essex the same individual who held land in Dorset or Devon? Perhaps more research than I have done would connect some of the names, but the fact is that property in every county included in the Domesday Book, except Middlesex, is listed under the name Siward or Saeward, and the name must have represented a number of individuals because no Siward ranked with Thurkill as a land holder of English (as distinguished from Norman) descent. Sewards were not Normans.

In some counties, particularly Lincolnshire, Stropshire and Yorkshire, the number of parcels listed under Siward is very large. Also the Siwards in Northamptonshire, Derbyshire, Devonshire and Essex had substantial holdings. The Saeward holdings as compared with those of Siward are smaller in number. I found no listings in the index under Seward or Seaward; but the ori[illegible] Latin text before translation includes many Seuuards which translat[illegible] into Seward.

There is a note about the name in Vol. 9-2 (16, 43) which says the name as used in the Domesday Book was Siuuard (us) and in the earlier Exeter Book (Liber Exonieusis) was Siduuard (us) and in Old English was Sigeweard. Reference is made to O. von Feilitzen Pre-Conquest Personal Names of Domesday (Uppsala 1937). My examination of the Latin text in some of the Domesday volumes leads me to believe the name was in process of change in 1086. The translators have endeavored to reduce differences in spelling throughout the volumes. That helps with research but masks the differences which existed. For instance, in the original text for Shropshire (vol. 25) there are at least 24 Seuuards and one Seward, all of which were translated as Siward by the Phillimore editors. Considering that there was no "w" in old Latin, which used two "u"s instead, Seuuard could have been translated into Seward.

In many instances the Siward referred to was the landholder in 1066 who had been dispossessed by William in favor of someone else. There are a few instances of the reverse, i.e., the Siward was the one favored by William. Also there are instances where the record states that the Siward in possession was in possession also in 1066.

The names in Domesday are all given or "Christian" names, not inherited family names which we now call surnames. The Phillmore Domesday Book index of names (vol. 37) includes a list of names by title such as "Siward the priest", "Siward the thane", "Siward the falconer", "Siward the hunter" and "Siward, Earl Waltheof's man". The introduction suggests that such names might be considered surnames, but clearly they are not inherited family names such as genealogists use to trace family lines. It took another hundred or more years for Siward or Seward to become an inherited surname, and I have not found any basis to dispute with Freeman over his conjecture that the surname possibly began with the Siward who was the son of Thurkill and the grandson of Aelfwine.

There are earlier records of the name, and they too were given names, not inherited surnames. The earliest reference I have found is to the Seward who with his two brothers, Sered and Sigebert, was for a short period (619-623) joint king of the East Saxons. The history of the three brothers is recorded in John Speed's The History of Great Britaine (1632) at pages 234-5. They were the sons of Sebert (596-619) and his Queen Anthelgoda. Seward was the second of the three. London was King Sebert's capital city and during his lifetime a predecessor of St. Paul's Cathedral was built on the site of a Roman temple to Diana by his overlord uncle, King Ethelbert of Kent who prevailed upon Sebert to convert to Christianity. The first Bishop of St. Paul's was Mellitus (604) with whom Seward and his brothers quarreled after their father's death. They expelled Mellitus from their kingdom. Speed called them "wicked irreligious men". Bede in his History of the English Church and People (Chapter 5) relates in detail their disagreement with Mellitus. See also Hodgkin: A History of the Anglo-Saxons, 3rd Ed., vol. 1, pages 268-9, and Lappenberg: A History of England under the Anglo-Saxon Kings, vol. 1, pages 142-3, 244 and 288. The Seward name of the years 619-623 appears not to have survived. The joint king of the East Saxons did not have the prestige of the distinguished Earl of Northumberland. The present "Seward" name developed out of "Siward."

Nor are the current Sewards responsible for the Seward whom Speed and the venerable Bede condemned; but I do enjoy visiting St. Paul's and looking at the tablet which lists Mellitus as the first of a long line of Bishops. I have even silently asked Mellitus for his forgiveness.

Geoffrey of Monmouth (Book II, ch. 16, entitled Before the Romans Came) writing in the early 1100s mentions a king of the Franks named Suard (Suhard in another translation). There are many other spelling variations of the name although the predominant American style is now Seward. That is so also in England; but according to Alvin van Benthuysen in his Seaward and Seward Families of America, supplement p. 9, Seaward was the accepted spelling in the Colonies, my ancestor Obadiah Seward of Milford and his possible cousins, Edward, George and William Seward of Guilford being the exceptions, a conclusion I do not fully share. See Chapter III-H in which I have listed some early colonial Sewards. In Canada there may still be more Seawards than Sewards, but the Seaward spelling appears in the USA, and there are Sowards, Sewarts and a number of other forms which may possibly have a common ancestry. In addition the Seward name has been adopted by some from American minority groups—possibly because Sewards or Seawards settled early in the South of our country and perhaps also because William H. Seward, Lincoln's Secretary of State, was associated with Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

While these comments about the origin of the name may be of incidental interest, I must emphasize that the Sewards who have been the subject of my research have not been traced back further than the mid 1600s.

III-F The Obadiahs of Brookhaven, Long Island, New York

Dr. Seward did not have sufficient information about the ancestors of the 1702-1751 Obadiah. He assumed there was only one prior Obadiah, and that the first knowledge of him was the c1664 record in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York. He attributes to that Obadiah, as his children, (1) Obadiah (1702-1751), (2&3) Joseph and Abner who appeared on the 1749 Brookhaven assessment role, and (4&5) Samuel whose will probated March 18, 1751 mentioned his brother, Eliakim, and his mother, Ann.

I think there were three Obadiahs before the 1702-1751 Obadiah. I have designated them as follows:

Obadiah, II, 1661--?-
Obadiah, III, c1682-c1748
Obadiah, IV, 1702-1751

The facts discussed in this Chapter III-F and the next suggest to me that Abner and Joseph were descendants of Obadiah, II, thus making them brothers of Obadiah, III, and that Samuel and Eliakim (along with Obadiah, IV) were the sons of Obadiah, III. Eliakim probably moved to New Jersey following his brother, Obadiah, IV, who moved there about 1740. On March 28, 1745 an Eliakim Seward acquired 53 acres of land in Morris County (East Jersey Board of Proprietors Book S3, p.27). Samuel moved to Islip, Long Island. Van Benthuysen in Seaward and Seward Families of America says he married Mary Hodge of New Haven October 15, 1724. His will is mentioned in the opening paragraph of this chapter. In addition to being listed in the 1749 assessment role, Joseph along with the other townspeople was listed in a deed by William Smith dated December 18, 1753 to clear title to certain real property in favor of the Town.

There are two applications for membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution which are helpful to establish that there were four Obadiahs: No. 46921 by Mrs. Marian Seward Holt of Houston, Texas, dated January 26, 1904 and No. 101585 by Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Seward Wallace of Covington, Virginia, dated April 7, 1913. They both trace their ancestry to the Obadiah who was the father of the 1702-1751 Obadiah. The earlier application gives the names without dates. The 1913 application gives the same names (except the earlier one says the wife of Obadiah, IV, was Isabella rather than Isabel and spelled Obadiah as Obidiah) but also gives dates. The ancestry Mrs. Wallace gave is:

John Hoblit Seward born 1822, died 1892, and his wife Laura Roberts born 1842, died -?-, married 1858

Samuel Seward (a fourth child) born December 29, 1793, died 1870 and his wife Anna Elizabeth Stewart, born 1800, died 1882, married 1815

Daniel Seward born February 28, 1758 (the date has been overwritten and could be 1756) in Morris County, New Jersey died January 15, 1794 in Hamilton County, Ohio and his wife Mary Lee born 1761, died 1828, married 1782. Daniel was a private Minute Man in the Morris County, New Jersey Militia in the Revolutionary War.

Isaac Seward born 1733, died 1769 and his wife Phoebe born -?- died -?-, married 1753

Obadiah Seward born 1702, died 1751, and his wife Isabel born -?- died -?-, married 1720

Obadiah Seward born 1647, died 1746, and his wife Ann born -?- died -?-, married 1664

The information in both is helpful, especially the name, Ann, as the wife of Obadiah, III, (which I had deduced from analysis of the Brookhaven town records, but confirmation is comforting) and the 1720 marriage date of Obadiah, IV, and Isabel. However, the 1647 birth date given by Mrs. Wallace for Obadiah, III, appears inaccurate. Not only is it unlikely that he lived 99 years, but other facts indicate that the birth date is incorrect. The first Obadiah was born c1635 and married October 31, 1660. His son Obadiah, II, was born November 1, 1661. I do not know the birth date of Obadiah, III, but he was probably born about 1681-85 when his father, Obadiah, II, was 20-25. He could not have been born as early as 1647. Also the date stated for his marriage to Ann, 1664, while reasonable if his birth date were 1647, is not reasonable when the birth date is corrected, because in 1664 he was only three years old. A c1682 birthdate for Obadiah, III, and a marriage date of about c1700 for him and Ann would fit better and takes into account the fact that their first child, Obadiah, was born in 1702.

In Chapter III-G the facts are stated about the first Obadiah's marriage to Bethyah Hawes on October 31, 1660 in Milford, Connecticut and the birth of their son, Obadiah, on November 1, 1661. The first Obadiah must have been older than 13 when he married. Hence, he must have been born before 1647. His birthday was probably about 1635 because his wife was born in 1637.

The facts point to four original Obadiahs. We have hard information about Obadiah, I (c1635-c1700), Obadiah, II (1661--?-) and Obadiah, IV (1702--1751). If there was no Obadiah, III, we would have to accept that Obadiah, IV, a first child was born when his father was 43 years old and had been married for twenty years. My estimate is that Obadiah, III, was born c1682, married Ann c1700, first child, Obadiah, IV, was born 1702, and that Obadiah, III, died c1748.

Now let us review the information about Obadiah, I. References to Obadiah and his family appear frequently in the Brookhaven Town Records, which are available in various printed editions in genealogy libraries. The earliest Brookhaven reference I have found is under date of December 29, 1662:

> "Obadia Sewarye plaintife Attorney mr. William (East) of milford (marchant) against william poole defendent
> "Obed payse Courte Charges
> "the plaintife declares (against) defendt in an acction of debt to will East wich being demanded by his sayd Attorney he refuseth to pay for which (he Craves the judgment of the Courte with Cost of) shewte thus withdrawne"

It is a confusing record but it seems that Obadiah appeared by attorney or agent, which suggests he may not have been personally present; and it refers to Milford, Connecticut where there are 1660 (marriage) and 1661 (birth) records relating to Obadiah. See Chapter III-G. There are not many references to attorneys in the Brookhaven records of law suits. Most complaints appear to have been handled personally. Obadiah was involved in another law suit in 1666 against Thomas Thorp "for stricking me, and setting his doggs upon me." In that record he is referred to as "Obadiah Suard" and no agents are mentioned.

There was a William East in Milford. He was there as early as 1639 and died there in 1681. See Atwater's History of the Colony of New Haven to its Absorption into Connecticut, Vol. 2, pp.640, 646 and 650.

The earliest reference I have found to Obadiah is to his marriage October 31, 1660 or 1661 (there are two entries of the marriage under possibly different dates) to Bethyah Hawes in Milford (Conn. Vital Records for Milford, Vol. 1, p. 4 and Old Long Book, p. 13) The next reference is to the birth of a son "Obed" November 1, 1660 or 1661. Again there are two entries with different dates (Vol. 1, p. 5, and Old Long Book, p. 14).

The next reference to Obadiah in Brookhaven after the 1662 law suit relates to 1664. It is a list which appears to be under the date of January 1, 1665 of those who were absent from town meetings in 1664. Among the 11 names is "seward 3". Of the others, only "bigs" and "geners" also missed as many as three meetings. It suggests that Obadiah was entitled to attend the town meetings in 1664 and that he missed three of them.

Obadiah had some relationship with Brookhaven as early as 1662 even though he may not yet have been living there. By 1664 he was one of the freeholders. This is borne out also by the records of land distributions.

The first land purchase by the founders of the Town of Brookhaven was on April 14, 1655. It was by deed from the Sachem of Setauket, Warawakmy, and his next of kin to the original proprietors of the Town who at that time did not include any Sewards. The Town's name was originally "Setauket". It was later changed to Brookhaven. There is still a village called Setauket in the Town.

From time to time land was distributed by lot to the proprietors (freeholders). The date of the first distribution to "Obed Sewerd" appears to be 1664, but the date is not clear. In a drawing of lots in 1667 "Obed Seward" was listed among some "new purchasers" who received two lots rather than one. In all, there were 40 participants in that drawing.

Such drawings continued from time to time. As late as July 4, 1774 "Obed Seward" drew lot 14. That was 98 years after the first certain reference to Obadiah; but 26 others on the 1667 list were also on the 1774 list, and four of them got two lots rather than one. There were only 28 1774 participants who were not on the 1667 list. Of course, the 26 had not all lived 98+ years. Their names were carried forward in some manner and their interests were owned by others. Not a single one of the trustees of the freeholders in office on July 5, 1773 was on the 1774 list and they certainly were participants. Clearly the list of those who received lots cannot be relied upon to verify that a particular person was alive at the dates of the later drawings.

On March 11, 1699 Obadiah, II, and Dinah Seward sold their "home lot and house". They signed their names with an X. In an earlier record, on June 5, 1684, Dinah Seward witnessed an agreement by her mark.

A 1702 entry refers to Obadiah's "father" (presumably father-in-law) as "Bigs"; and an entry of the previous year, May 1, 1701, regarding a town meeting refers to "Bigs" as the father-in-law of Obadiah Seward. Dinah was probably Dinah Bigs. Bethyah was the wife of Obadiah, I.

Although the 1699 deed, as well as some earlier ones (December 11, 1676 and a March 1691 mortgage of a house and seven other parcels of land to Alexander Bryan, a merchant of Milford, signed by Obadiah with an X) indicate that Obadiah, II, and Obadiah, III, could not sign their names, an April 24, 1738 deed is manually signed. See pages 141-3 of Records of the Town of Brookhaven up to 1800 — selected extracts printed 1880 in Patchogue at the office of the Advance. It is a quitclaim deed by many of the townspeople, perhaps all of them, to the minister, Mr. Phillips. Seven signed with an X, but Obadiah and 89 others signed their names. There were 97 signers in all, and there was only one Seward. Probably that 1738 Obadiah, IV, who could sign his name was the son of the 1699 Obadiah, III, who could not, and was the one who moved to Chester, New Jersey and in 1741 became Collector of Roxbury Township.

In two instances father and son of the same name signed the 1738 deed to Minister Phillips, one in each adding "junior" beside his name. If there were two Obadiah's living who had possible rights to the Town property, why did they both not sign?

The Obadiah who became Collector of Roxbury died in 1751. He was not the Obadiah who was born November 1, 1661 in Milford, Connecticut because that would mean he would have been elected Collector at age 80, which is not likely. Furthermore, a Collector should be able to write his name. So there must have been at least four Obadiahs.

Beginning in 1733 there are references to payments (presumably poor allowances) for Obadiah Seward and Anna Seward (August 2, 1733, April 30, 1739, May 2, 7, 17, 1743 and January 3, 1743). Those probably refer to Obadiah, III. On March 26, 1739 the trustees of the Town purchased a coat for Obadiah. On June 6, 1748 the trustees of the Town and Samuel Seward agreed on three persons to decide the controversy between them regarding the maintenance of Samuel's parents (Obadiah, III, and Anna Seward), and on December 19, 1748 the trustees appointed a committee to represent it in the proceeding. By this time Samuel's brothers, Obadiah and Eliakim, had moved to New Jersey,[30] but if Joseph and Abner were his brothers and were still there, why were they not involved in the support controversy? Abner was listed in the Town assessment roll for 1749. So he was still there which suggests that Abner was not a brother of Samuel.

Also, during the period the Town was paying for Obadiah's support there were drawings for new lots and Obadiah was among those who received lots. Why were they not used for his support? Perhaps Obadiah had disposed of his proprietor's rights and the purchaser exercised the rights in Obadiah's name.

In a 1704 tax assessment list "Obadiah Soward" was included for 2 shillings and 5 pence which was higher than most. Eleven were higher. Fifty-nine were lower. The Obadiah of 1704 was reasonably well off economically. See Records of the Town of Brookhaven up to 1800, p.97.

The Brookhaven tax assessment of 1741 listed:

Souard Obadiah one half of one pence
Souard Joseph four pence

[30] Obadiah was in New Jersey no later than 1741 and Eliakim no later than 1745. See Chapter III-E.

See Records of the Town of Brookhaven up to 1800, pp.152-5

Presumably the reference is to Obadiah, III, not IV, who had moved to New Jersey. Only four others out of about 150 had assessments as low as Obadiah's; and only 41 had assessments as low as Joseph's. That suggests the family was not in good circumstances. Samuel Seward was not listed. Nor was Abner or Eliakim.

In the Town assessment role for 1749 Obadiah (Records of the Town of Brookhaven up to 1800, pp.161-164) was not listed. Nor was Joseph or Eliakim. The Sewards then listed were:

Abner 1 shilling and 1 pence
Samuel 2 shillings and 3 pence

Probably Obadiah, III, died after June 6, 1748 and before the 1749 assessment was made. D.A.R. application No. 101585 by Anna Elizabeth Seward Wallace states that Obadiah died in 1746. But that appears to conflict with the June 6, 1748 Brookhaven record mentioned above about support for Obadiah.

Dr. Seward's Obadiah Seward and Descendants includes (pp.24-32) a summary of references to Obadiah from the Brookhaven Town records.

III-G Obadiah of Milford, Connecticut, and the Hawes

The first reference to Obadiah Seward, I, in the Brookhaven records links him to Milford, Connecticut. See Chapter III-F. It was the record of a lawsuit December 29, 1662 in which Obadiah was represented by William East of Milford. Also on October 31, 1660 (1661) Obadiah had married Bethyah Hawes in Milford (Conn. Vital Records for Milford, Vol. 1, p. 4 and Old Long Book p. 13).

The Connecticut town records of early births, marriages and deaths have been abstracted and collected into the Barbour Collection with volumes for each town arranged alphabetically by name. The following are the Hawes and Seward entries for Milford of dates near Obadiah's. The references to the original records have been added by me.

Hawes,

"Bethyah, m. Obed Seward, October 31, 1660" — Vol. 1, p. 4
"Bethiah, m. Obed Seward, October 31, 1961 by Robert Treat, Magistrate" — Old Long Book, p. 13

Seward,

"Elizabeth, d. Nathaniel, m. Walter Smith, Sept. 26, 1676, by Capt. Tapping" — Old Long Book, p. 30
"Mercy, m. Samuel Camp, Jan. 6, 1681" — Vol. 1, p. 18
"Obed, m. Bethyah Hawes, Oct. 31, 1660" — Vol. 1, p. 4
"Obed, m. Bethiah Hawes, Oct. 31, 1661, by Robert Treat, Magistrate" — Old Long Book, p. 13
"Obadiah, s. Obed, b. Nov. 1, 1661, hitherto given into the jurisdiction of New Haven" — Vol. 1, p. 5
"Obadiah, s. Obed, b. Nov. 1, 1661(2)" — Old Long Book, p. 14

Examination of photocopies of the original entries from which the Barbour Collection digests were made indicates that Elizabeth, Nathaniel and Mercy were not Sewards. The handwriting has been misinterpreted in preparing the summary. The original entries to which the other five items relate are:

"Obadiah Seward sonne of Obed Seward was born the 1st of November 1661. (hitherto given into the jurisdiction" The words beginning with the parenthesis sign appear to have been added subsequent to the original entry because they are in a different handwriting. Note also that the summary in the Barbour Collection has added "of New Haven".

Old Long Book, page 13:

"Obed Seward and Bethyah Hawes ... ? ... of Marr[i]age before Mr. Robert Treat ... ? ... the one and thirtieth of October ... ? ..."

Portions including the year are not legible. The date of the immediately preceding entry is 1660. The Barbour Collection abstract includes the date as 1661.

Old Long Book, page 14:

"Obadiah Seward sonn of Obid Seward was bourn the first day of November Anno: 166?. hitherto given into the jurisdiction

(ie) admitted)"

The last figure in the date is unclear and may be 1. It appears to have been overwritten; but the entries just before and just after are 1662. The notation "(ie) admitted)" was added after and below the original entry. It probably refers to the father's status in the Colony, that he was a newcomer but had been accepted. The abstract in the Barbour Collection uses the date 1661(2) and does not include the added phrase about jurisdiction.

The conclusion I draw from the records is that the only Sewards recorded in Milford were Obadiah, I, and Obadiah, II. However, there were three Sewards, Edward, George and William, II (see Chapter III-H about William, I) in the nearby settlement of Guilford which also was a part of the Colony of New Haven. This chapter will deal with the two Milford Obadiahs. The Guilford Sewards and their possible relationship to the Milford Sewards will be discussed in Chapter III-H.

The Hawes

Bethyah Hawes was born in Dorchester (now a part of Boston) in 1637. Her parents were Richard and Anne Hawes who had arrived two years previously on the ship True Love from Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, England.[31] The following is from the History of the Town of Dorchester, Massachusetts prepared by a committee of the Dorchester Antiquarian and Historical Society, page 123:

"Richard Hawes came in the Freelove, Capt. Gibbs, in 1635, with his wife Ann, and two children. His age was 29; his wife's, 26; that of his daughter Ann, 2½; son Obadiah, 6 months. (See Gleanings.) He signed the church covenant in 1636, and was a grantee of land in 1637 and 1646. Their other children were Bethia, born in Dorchester, 27(5) 1637; Deliverance, born 11(4) 1640; daughter Constant, born 17(5) 1642. They had a son Eleazer killed in the war, April 21, 1676. Mr. Hawes died in 1656."

The reference to Gleanings is to J. Savage: Gleanings for New England History in the Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, Third Series, vol. 8 (1838), pp. 243-348.

The records of the First Church at Dorchester (printed edition) contain a list of 1637-1638 baptisms, without individual dates. Bethyah is included as "Bethiah" Hawes. Her parents are listed on page 4 as early signers of the church covenant. They were not among the founding members but were the sixteenth couple to be admitted following the original signers. Individual dates are not given but the Hawes appear to be about 1635-6. The History of the Town of Dorchester says (pp. 13-20) that the first settlers arrived in 1630. The original name of the place where they settled was Mattapan. According to the History:

> "Tradition has always fixed upon the south side of Dorchester Neck (South Boston), in the Old Harbor, as the place of landing."

Dorchester was incorporated into Boston in 1868.

Richard Hawes of Dorchester, Massachusetts provides a history of the family. The following is from page 18:

> "RICHARD HAWES, baptized in Great Missenden, Buckinghamshire, England, 2 November 1606, was the son of a Richard of that place, whose will of 9 September 1665; proved 11 January following, establishes the identity of our emigrant ancestor. At Great Missenden the baptisms of two children of Richard, by wife Anne, are recorded. The next that is known of this little family of four is their embarking on the "Truelove", at London, 19 September 1635, for New England. The sailing list gives the ages of all four. (Consult Hotten's Sailing Lists.)
>
> Richard Hawes, age 29 years
> Ann Hawes, age 26 years
> Anne Hawes, age 2½ years
> Obediah Hawes, age 6 months."

On page 28 of the Hawes book the birth date of Bethiah is stated to be July 27, 1637. The month differs from that in the History of the Town of Dorchester which says May 27, 1637. I am inclined to accept the family history which gives the following account of Bethiah:

> "Bethiah Hawes (Richard) was b. 27 July 1637, as recorded at Dorchester. 23 May 1659, she was living in the family of Zachariah Whitman of Milford, Ct. (Hoadley, Vol. 2: 263-289). He and his wife Sarah were passengers on the "Truelove," 1635, and natives of Bucks. Bethiah m. Obed Seward (Suard), 1 Oct., 1660, or 1661, both dates recorded at Milford; Robert Treat, magistrate, officiating. At Milford is the record of a son,
> Obediah Seward, b. 1 Nov., 1661, or 1662 (both dates given).
> "The next we know of this couple is that they were living at Brookhaven, Long Island, where he was one of the early comers of that settlement. References to the name of Seward there have been gleaned from the (printed) records, and from Mr. Osborn Shaw of Bellport, who has kindly furnished advance information from other volumes of Brookhaven records which he has in preparation."

There follows in the Hawes book numerous quotations from the Brookhaven records about Obadiah.

Great Missenden, the original English home of the Hawes, is in Buckinghamshire, about 35 miles Northwest of London. It is notable for the 16th century house, Chequers, which in 1917 was given to the nation by Lord Lee of Fareham as a country home for the Prime Minister of the day.

At page 20 the Hawes Family History records the handling of the estate of Richard Hawes (the inventory for which is substantial) and mentions the arrangements made for the younger children:

> "Suffolk Probate (also Gen. Reg. IX: 138). At a meeting of the magistrates, 22 Jan., 1656, power of administration to the estate of Richard Hawes, late of Dorchester, deceased, is granted to Major Humphrey Atherton and Leiftenant Roger Clap, they bringing in an inventory (Gen. Reg. V: 400) of ye estate unto ye Court. Edward Rawson, Recorder.
> "Suffolk Probate (also Gen. Reg. XI: 342). "At a county court held in Boston, 29 April 1662. The Court being informed that Major Atherton & Capt. Clap as friends to the deceased Richard Haws of Dorchester, took some care about the estate, binding & placing out the children, the Major being since dead & Capt. Clap rendering to Obadiah Haws sone to ye late Richard an account thereof on request of sd Obadiah, The court judgeth it meet to grant Administration to the estate &c. to Obadiah Hawes his sonne in behalf of himself and the rest of his Brothers & Sisters so as he give security according to lawe". The same day Obadiah deposed that an inventory presented was a true one, to the best of his knowledge, &c. This inventory was signed 27:11 mo: 1656, by jonas Humphrey and Hopestill foster."

Evidently Anne died before Richard and there were young children who had to be arranged for. Bethiah was 18. It was due to the arrangements made by Major Atherton and Captain Clap that Bethyah lived with Zachariah and Sarah Whitman[32] for the five years after her father's death until she married Obadiah Seward at age 23.

Some history will provide the setting. The five original New England colonies were Plymouth (1620), Massachusetts Bay (1628), Dorchester (1630), Connecticut (1636) and New Haven (1638). New Haven's jurisdiction included Milford, Branford, Saybrook and Guilford (adjacent to New Haven) as well as Greenwich and Stamford to the South and the North Fork of Long Island, then called Southold.[33] About 1661 Charles II granted Connecticut a charter which

[32] Atwater's History of the Colony of New Haven to its Absorption into Connecticut, Vol. 2, page 656, gives the following information about Whitman:

"Zechariah Whitman (1595-1666), brother of John Whitman (1614-1692) of Weymouth, Mass., came to Massachusetts (1635) in the Truelove, aged 40 years, with wife Sarah Biscoe, aged 25 years, and son Zechariah, aged two and a half years. He was at Milford in 1639. He was one of the trustees in the first deed, one of the judges chosen by the settlers to act in civil affairs, and one of the seven pillars of the church. His name is engraved on the Memorial Bridge. His wife was a cousin of Nathaniel Biscoe (162?-1683). See Whitman Genealogy (1889) by Chas. H. Farnam of New Haven, Conn., p. 1261. He d. April 23, 1666; his wife Sarah, b. 1619; d. Jan. 2, 1670-71; no children mentioned in his will."

[33] Fiske: The Beginnings of New England, pages 80-2, 92-5,126, 135. The story of the establishment of the New Haven Colony is told by Fiske in his The Beginnings of New England, pages 134-6:

"The overthrow of the Pequots (1637) was a cardinal event in the planting of New England. It removed the chief obstacle to the colonization of the Connecticut coast, and brought the inland settlements into such unimpeded communication with those on tide-water as to prepare the way for the formation of the New England confederacy. Its first fruits were seen in the direction taken by the next wave of migration, which ended the Puritan exodus from England to America. About a month after the storming of the palisaded village there arrived in Boston a company of wealthy London merchants, with their families. The most prominent among them, Theophilus Eaton, was a member of the Company of Massachusetts Bay. Their pastor, John Davenport, was an eloquent preacher and a man of power. He was a graduate of Oxford, and in 1624 had been chosen vicar of St. Stephen's parish, in Coleman [S]treet, London. When he heard that Cotton and Hooker were about to sail for America, he sought earnestly to turn them from what he deemed the error of their ways, but instead he became converted himself and soon incurred the especial enmity of Laud, so that it annexed the New Haven colonies to Connecticut and deprived them of their separate existence. There is a June 10, 1664 reference in the Brookhaven records about making provision for a "committee of Connecticut appointed for settling business on Long Island". Brookhaven adjoined Southold to the West. The Town of Brookhaven was directly across Long Island Sound. What is now Port Jefferson was part of Brookhaven and had a good harbor readily available to New Haven.

The new charter of Connecticut included within the boundaries of the colony "islands adjacent." This was interpreted by the colonists to include Fishers Island, Gardiners Island, Shelter Island and even the eastern part of Long Island. After England took Manhattan and what became New York from the Dutch, Connecticut's jurisdiction over those islands was questioned and ultimately was decided in favor of New York. The loyalty of the residents appears to have been with Connecticut because the towns on both the north and south forks of Long Island (Southold, Westhampton and Southampton) petitioned Charles II, unsuccessfully, to be allowed to remain a part of Connecticut. See Fishers Island by Henry L. Ferguson, p.17, and Short History of New York State by N.Y. State Historical Association, p.31.

The Obadiahs

The two Milford Obadiahs were the first and second Obadiahs of Brookhaven. We do not know the birthdate of the first Obadiah but it is likely that he was older than his wife Bethyah who was born July 27, 1637. Probably he was born about 1635 or a year before or after.

became necessary for him to flee to Amsterdam. In 1636 he returned to England, and in concert with Eaton organized a scheme of emigration that included men from Yorkshire, Hertfordshire, and Kent. The leaders arrived in Boston in the midst of the Antinomian disputes, and although Davenport won admiration for his skill in battling with heresy, he may perhaps have deemed it preferable to lead his flock to some new spot in the wilderness where such warfare might not be required. The merchants desired a find harbour and good commercial situation, and the reports of the men who returned from hunting the Pequots told them of just such a spot at Quinnipiack on Long Island Sound. Here they could carry out their plan of putting into practice a theocratic ideal even more rigid than that which obtained in Massachusetts, and arrange their civil as well as ecclesiastical affairs in accordance with rules to be obtained from a minute study of the Scriptures.

"In the spring of 1638 the town of New Haven was accordingly founded. The next year a swarm from this new town settled Milford, while another party, freshly arrived from England, made the beginnings of Guilford. In 1640 Stamford was added to the group, and in 1643 the four towns were united into the republic of New Haven, to which Southold, on Long Island, and Branford were afterwards added."

See also Osgood, American Colonies in the Seventeenth Century, vol. 1, pages 321-7.

The next Obadiah about whom we have extensive information is Obadiah (1702-1751) of New Jersey. His dates are separated from those of Obadiah, II, by an unsatisfactory gap. In Chapter III-F I have explained why I think it likely that there were four Obadiahs rather than the two listed by Dr. Seward. If there were four Obadiahs, their probable facts were:

Obadiah, I, born (perhaps 1635) in America or on the way to America.[34] Date of death about 1700. Wife was Bethyah Hawes.

Obadiah, II, born November 1, 1661, Milford, Connecticut. Date of death about 1698/9. Wife was Dinah Biggs. See Hawes Richard Hawes, p.30, which confirms my deduction from the Brookhaven Town Records that Obadiah, II, married Dinah Biggs.

Obadiah, III, born in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York about 1682. Died about 1748. Wife was Anna or Ann.

Obadiah, IV, born 1702 in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York, died May 14, 1751 in Berkshire Valley, Morris County, New Jersey. Wife was Isabel Luse.

If we assume that the average age for a man to marry in those times was 18 to 25 and that the first child was born within two years thereafter, then the four Obadiahs fit into the time frame. We are certain of the birth date of Obadiah, II, November 1, 1661, and we are reasonably certain of the birth date of the Brookhaven—Black River (Chester) Obadiah, 1702, and the 1724 birthdate of his first child. In the following table the guesses are in parenthesis and the facts reasonably known are without parenthesis:

	Birth	Marriage			Birth of First Child and Age		Death
Obadiah, I	(1635)	1660	Bethyah	1661	Obadiah	26	(1700)
Obadiah, II	1661	(1681)	Dinah	(1682)	Obadiah	20	-?-
Obadiah, III	(1682)	(1700)	Anna	1702	Obadiah	20	1748
Obadiah, IV	1702	1720	Isabel	1724	Eliakim[35]	22	1751

The table demonstrates the likelihood of four Obadiahs but it does not establish that there were four. Whether three or four, we know they were all named Obadiah. The first two are recorded in Connecticut, and we know that Eliakim's father was an Obadiah junior.

The principal difficulty with the three Obadiahs theory is that we must accept that Obadiah, II, did not have his first child until he was age 41 even though he was married at age 22.

[34] See next chapter: III-H "William of England and the British West Indies.

[35] Their fourth child, who died in infancy, was named Obadiah. See Chapter III-E.

There is another question which is puzzling. In 1738 many of the town inhabitants signed a quitclaim deed to give the minister a parcel of land. As mentioned above, Obadiah, IV, signed but why did not Samuel, Joseph, Abner and Eliakim sign? Did the rule of primogeniture apply? Also, as mentioned above, why during the period the town was supporting Obadiah, III, were lots drawn by him or in his name and not used for his support? Had he disposed of his rights to others who acted in his name?

The following from Colonial and Revolutionary Lineages of America, p.67, confirms some of the foregoing, particularly about Bethyah Hawes and her family. I quote it not so much for confirmation, which is not needed, but to disagree with its listing "Ann" as the wife of Obadiah, II.

"I. Obadiah (1) Seward, earliest known ancestor of this family, was living in Milford, Connecticut in 1660. No previous record of him has been found. The next account of Obadiah Seward, who is believed to be identical with the subject of this generation, shows that he arrived at Southold, Long Island, New York, in 1664, with his son, Obadiah, aged three years. Southold is southeast of Milford, Connecticut. He evidently settled at Brookhaven, Suffolk County, Long Island, where he drew Lot No. 49, in 1664, and was a tax payer there as late as 1675.

"Obadiah (1) Seward married, at Milford, Connecticut, October 31, 1660, Bethia or Bethiah Hawes, who was born in Dorchester, Massachusetts, July 27, 1637. She was a daughter of Richard Hawes, of Great Missenden, County Bucks, England, who arrived in the Massachusetts Colony on the Truelove in 1635, accompanied by his wife Ann or Anne, and two children, born in England, Ann and Obadiah.

"Among the children of Obadiah (1) and Bethia or Bethiah (Hawes) Seward, was Obadiah (2), of whom further.

"(Alvin Seward Van Benthuysen: The Seward and Seaward Families of the United States, pp.116, 118. F.W. Seward, Jr.: Obadiah Seward of Long Island, New York, and his Descendants, p.47. C.E. Banks: The Planters of the Commonwealth, p.172. J. Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary of the First Settlers of New England.)

"II. Obadiah (2) Seward, son of Obadiah (1) and Bethia or Bethiah (Hawes) Seward, was born at Milford, Connecticut, November 1, 1661. At the age of three years, his father brought him to Southold, Long Island, New York. ... He married Ann. The eldest of their five sons was: Obadiah (3), of whom further."

Note the reference to Ann which conflicts with my guess that the wife of Obadiah, II, was Dinah Biggs.

III-I William of 1634 and the Origin of Obadiah, I

Now let us return to the statement in Chambers' Early Germans of New Jersey that the father of Obadiah, I, was William Seward who sailed from London January 6, 1634/5 on a ship the first stop of which was to be St. Christopher and the Barbados. See Chapter III-E. On page 485 of his book, Chambers repeats in part the information about William which he gave on page 202. He cites no authority and he is clearly incorrect in saying that William Seward of 1634/5 was the first Seward in America but an analysis of the facts gives some credence to Chambers' statement about William being the father of Obadiah, I, even if it was a guess.

There was a William Seward, age 26, who sailed from the Port of London January 6, 1634/5 on the ship Bonaventure, James Romsey, Master, bound initially for the Barbados and St. Christopher. See Hotten: The Original Lists of Persons of Quality, p.39, and Tepper: Passengers to America, p.60. Neither reference states who, if anyone, accompanied the named passengers, and only adult males are listed. Presumably some were heads of families. Very likely, females and children were on board. Both lists certify that the passengers whose names are included had taken the oath of allegiance, although that may have little significance to the problem. How long did William stay in the Barbados or St. Christopher, if at all, and when did he come to the mainland? I have found no other record of him except a reference by Alvin Seward van Benthuysen in his The Seaward and Seward Families of America, p. 503, which states that William Symonds by his will proved February 20, 1634/5 left a bequest to his godson, William Seward, who was overseas. The Symons' (or Symonds, both spellings are used in the record) will referred to by van Benthuysen is in the Public Records Office, Chancery Lane, London, WC2 (document reference PROB11/167 P.C.C.1635-9). It was admitted to probate by the Prerogative Court of Canterbury on February 20, 1634/5 and it does leave "unto William Seaward my Godsonn one peece of gold of twentie two shillinge to be paid as before" i.e., within six months. Twenty-two shillings in gold in 1634/5 was the equivalent in 1993 of about £74 or U.S. $110. Another significant fact about William Symonds is that his will was not probated locally in Exeter where he lived and where in ordinary course it would have been offered for probate. At that time Exeter was a separate county apart from Devonshire. His estate was handled by the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, a procedure reserved for important people. The index describes him as a gentleman of Exeter, as does the will itself. The term "gentleman" in the 1600s applied to those who ranked just below nobility. Although not noble they were entitled to bear arms. See Oxford English Dictionary and the discussion under the heading "British Origins; the Factor of Social Rank" on pages 798-802 of David Hackett Fischer's Albion's Seed.

Presumably William Seaward, the legatee, also lived in or near Exeter, but I have not succeeded in locating information about him despite excellent research assistance. There were Sewards (Seawards) in nearby Stoke-in-Teignhead, see footnote 1. Van Benthuysen apparently did find information indicating that the Seaward legatee was overseas — which agrees with the fact that William (and presumably his family) left England on January 6, 1634/5, six weeks before the will was admitted to probate. I have not found anything confirming that the William "Seward" who was on board the Bonaventure was the William "Seaward" who was the godson of William Symonds but I think we can assume he was. The will itself says nothing about the whereabouts of William Seaward. It was made in 1633/4 about a year before Symonds' death. The importance of the information is that it suggests the William Seward who was on board the Bonaventure, if a protegee of the gentleman William Symonds, was of good family background and an immigrant of more than ordinary standing, probably a "gentleman."

I do not attach much significance to the difference in spelling between Seaward and Seward. Spelling was not so accurate in the 1600s.

The change from the Julian to Gregory calendar in England in 1751, even though of retroactive effect, does not affect that sequence of dates. The moving of New Year's Day from March 25 to January 1 put both dates (January 4, 1634 and February 20, 1634) into the historical year 1635 of the same month and day as before.

I will refer to William (who left England in 1634/5) as William, I, to distinguish him from the later William, II, who arrived in America about 1643. It appears likely that William, I, and his family (whether or not the godson of William Symonds) continued on to the mainland and arrived, probably at Boston, in the late Spring of the historical year 1635. I will have more later about William, I, and his arrival in America; but the possibility I advance (seconding Chambers but with more facts) is that Obadiah, I, was born to William, I, either on the journey to America or shortly after arrival. Based on the age of Obadiah's wife and the date of their marriage, previously discussed, I have estimated the birthday of Obadiah, I, to be about 1635.

The second William Seward (a different William whom I have called William, II) is recorded in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. LII for 1898, p.323:

Bristol to New England, and is said to have been in Taunton, Mass., in 1643. He settled in New Haven, shortly after arriving in America, and while residing there married Grace Norton, of Guilford." (April 2, 1651) "He removed to Guilford shortly afterward and took the oath of fidelity there, May 4, 1654."

me at Seven Trees Camp and said he had a sword which had been given to Colonel William Seward on July 7, 1894 by the Ninth Regiment of the New York National Guard. Ed had received it from his uncle, George Schermerhorn Seward, whose wife, Myrtle Seamans, was Ed's mother's sister. George Schermerhorn Seward had one son who died without issue.

Ed did not know the whereabouts of any descendant of Colonel (later General) Seward and he wanted to give the sword a permanent home with the Seward line. Could I find the proper person? I said I would try. It was quite a nice sword which he handed to me, and he gave me the following genealogical start:

Colonel William Seward was born 1837 and died 1905. He married Louisa Lockwood 1864 and had six children:

I - Elizabeth
II - William, Jr.
III - Louise Roe
IV - Edward Townsend
V - George Schermerhorn, born 8/7/1874 (Hackensack, New York), died 2/4/1943 (Beverly Hills, California)
VI - Julia Lockwood

Colonel Seward's ancestors were:

William - (1810-1890) m1833 Catherine Charlock
William - (1784-1823) m1805 Mary Besley
Reverend William - (1747-1822) m Thankful Parmelee
Reverend William - (1712-1782) m1742 Concurrence Stevens
Deacon William - (1683/4-1764) m1710 Damaris Punderson
Captain John - (1653/4-?) m1679 Abigail Bushnell
William - (1627-1689) m1651 Grace Norton

It did not appear to me how Colonel Seward fitted into my branch of the Seward family, although Ed thought the Colonel was related to William H. Seward, Lincoln's Secretary of State. I wrote a great many letters, without success, attempting to find someone who would claim the Colonel's ancestors. Perhaps someone who reads this note will be able to supply the missing information. Meanwhile, with Ed's permission, I entrusted the sword to my elder son, Gordon; but I believe he will be willing to give it to a Seward descendant of the Colonel.

It does appear possible that my ancestor Obadiah (c1635-c1700) was related to William (1627-1689), the ancestor of Ed's Uncle George Schermerhorn Seward. See analysis in this chapter.

Ed's mother was Ethel Seamans, born 10/20/90 in Aurora,Illinois, who died 5/19/73. His father was Edmond Stephen Gillette, Sr., born 4/5/91 also in Aurora, Illinois. He died 1/6/78 in Santa Monica, California. Ed was born August 5, 1916 in Aurora, Illinois. He has lived in San Francisco since 1949.

I have a second hand report of a book by Luria Henry Musladin, History of Our Family in America 1620-1950 which is said to say of that second William: "William Seward born in Bristol, Eng. came to America in Elizabeth & Dorcas to Newbury, Mass. 1643." I have not succeeded in locating the book but it appears that no reference is given for the place of birth and that Musladin may have been confused by the fact that the ship on which William sailed came from the port of Bristol.

There were two other Sewards in Guilford: Edward and George. According to Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary, p. 5, Edward was in Ipswich, Massachusetts in 1637. He went home in 1643 to fight in the English Civil War, serving in the Garrison of Chichester, Sussex, England, where he made his will leaving property to kinsmen and friends at Selsey and Chichester. He returned to America in 1650 and resided at Guilford where he died about 1651. He is listed in the History of the Colony of New Haven, Vol. 1, p. 167, as one of the 1650-52 Guilford planters who had not been admitted as freemen. I have been advised by the Connecticut State Library that there is no record of a will for Edward. I have commissioned a search in England but to date the Chichester will has not been found.

George was in Guilford in 1651 according to Savage, p. 57. He was at Branford, Connecticut in 1668 and is thought to have moved to what became Newark, New Jersey. Savage says perhaps he was a brother of William, II. I have not found a New Jersey will or other record for George. He was said to be one of the original Covenanters. See John Richard Green: Short History of the English People, p. 1152, regarding the Covenant and the part it played in the English Civil War.

The entire Seward group, Milford and Guilford, is listed below in accordance with my estimate of their birthdates, the "guestimates" being in parenthesis:

William, I	1608
Edward	(1621)—Van Benthuysen says 1600. See later in this chapter.
George	(1621-28)
William, II	1627
Obadiah	*c*1635

In the following paragraphs the known information about each is set forth to explain my estimates of their birth dates. We know about William, I, and William, II; and we are reasonably certain about Obadiah.

Edward was probably 18-30 in 1643 when he returned to England to join the Puritan forces fighting Charles, I, but he was probably at least 16 in 1637, the earliest date for his arrival in America. Hence I have estimated his birthdate to be 1621. I am unsure about van Benthuysen's estimate that Edward was n in 1600 or before. Would it not be unusual in the 1600s for a 43 year old person to be involved in military service? Atwater's History of the Colony of New Haven says (pp.167, 627 and 635) that Edward is believed to have been on the second ship (July 1639) which brought people to the newly founded colony of Quinnipac (New Haven) and that those colonists settled at Guilford, which in October 1643, along with Milford, was admitted to the federation then consisting of New Haven, Southold and Stamford. According to Atwater, Edward may have returned to England and then again came back to New England but no record has been found of a wife or family. The 1639 arrival date differs from the 1637 given by Savage.

George's birthday range is a guestimate based on the assumption that he was 16 to 25 when he arrived in Guilford about 1651.

Obadiah was probably a couple of years older than his wife who was born in 1637. We are not far off with him at 1634-6 and I will therefore use c1635. We can get a confirmation by comparing the dates of the marriages – William of Guilford, April 2, 1651 and Obadiah, October 31, 1660 – which suggests William was about nine years older than Obadiah. That would mean Obadiah was born about 1634-6.

The New Haven Colony Sewards may have been related; but the age estimates suggest that Edward, George and probably William, II, were too old to be children of William, I. Obadiah clearly could have been. Edward, George and William, II, may have been one branch of the family and William, I, and Obadiah another. If the Guilford Sewards were related, they probably all came from Sussex because Edward's will is said to have left property to his kinsmen in Selsey and Chichester. If William, I, was the father of Obadiah, I, and if William, I, was the godson of William Symons of Exeter, that branch of the Sewards probably came from Exeter which is about 125 miles from Chichester. That would make a close relationship between Obadiah and the Guilford Sewards more tenuous. There are too many "ifs" to justify a conclusion about the relationship between the Milford and Guilford Sewards.

To justify my conclusion that William, I, did not stay in the Caribbean, I have made an extensive search of the records of Barbados and Nevis which was the initial stop of the Bonaventure, but have found no reference to William or any other Seward of his time frame. Baptism records, marriage records, will records, military records and estate records exist but none lists a Seward as early as William's 1634/5 date. The earliest I have located is a Malachia Seward, described as a gentleman of Barbados, in St. Thomas Parish, who died September 17, 1666, possessed of moderate wealth, 47 acres of land and 10 slaves. There was a Richard Seward who registered his will in Jamaica between 1672-6. There was a Robert Seward listed in Captain Burr's Company on the Island of Nevis 1677-8. I found no prior Sewards. Hence I think it likely that William did not stay there long, if at all, and continued on to Massachusetts. He probably arrived in the spring of 1634/5. It was more usual than not for ships to stop in the Caribbean to drop and take on cargo on their way to Boston. Both cargo and passengers were revenue producers. London, the Caribbean and Boston were the revenue stops.

Van Benthuysen in the supplement volume to the second edition of his The Seaward and Seward Families of America devotes pages 8-10 to a discussion of the possible relationship of Obadiah and William of Guilford and Obadiah's origin without reaching any firm conclusion other than they must have been related not as brothers but possibly as cousins. Also he disagreed with the suggestion which has been made that Edward and William of Guilford were brothers. He thought it more likely because of the dates of their deaths that Edward could have been William's father. Edward died about 1651 and William II about 1689, 38 years apart.

He said that a careful search of the Massachusetts records had not turned up a birth record for Obadiah and that that was true also of such Portsmouth records as are available and the New Hampshire records.

> "It is to be borne in mind that we do not know where Obadiah was before his arrival in Milford. Such Portsmouth records as are available shed no light on his possible birth in that town, nor does his birth appear in any other New Hampshire record." (p. 744, supplement)

I, too, have investigated without success every record source I have learned about in America and have retained experts to do that for me in England. New England was reasonably good about birth records, as was England, and it is curious that no record has been found in either England or New England about Obadiah's birth. Birth on shipboard or otherwise along the way would be an explanation.

At page 744 of his supplement van Benthuysen mentions and leaves open a suggestion by Edwin Judd Seward that Obadiah might have been the son of George of Guilford:

> "4800-Obadiah Seward. Attention is called to the statement of Edwin Judd Seward, appearing on page 660, to the effect that Obadiah was the son of George Seward of Guilford, Connecticut, brother of William Seward of Guilford, Connecticut, making Obadiah the nephew of William Seward of Guilford, Connecticut, this linking the families of William and Obadiah. While the compiler has not been able to authenticate this relationship, is it quite possibly correct. The compiler, as stated early in Volume I, believes that some relationship existed and in Volume II [pp.8-10] dwells at further length on the possibility."

Is it likely that Obadiah, I, born about 1635, was the son of George Seward who was possibly 16 to 25 years of age when he arrived in Guilford in 1651? If George was born about 1626 at the earliest, Obadiah born about 1635 was not his offspring. Even if George was age 30 when he arrived in 1651 it is unlikely that Obadiah was his son. Van Benthuysen suggests that Edward, judging from the date of his death (about 1651) may have been born as early as 1600. This is of course possible but, as previously noted, is it likely that a 43 year old person would have returned to England to serve in the Revolution? The conjecture I have put forth above — that William, I, was the father of Obadiah, and that Edward, George and William, II, were only collateral relatives, perhaps nephews of William, I, — seems more logical. Also it is possible that Edward's military service shortened his life.

It does not seem likely that Edward (possible birthdate 1621), and George (possible birthdate 1621-28) were sons of William, I, born in 1608. The birthdate (1627) of William, II, makes him questionable but still unlikely. The similarity of names makes one want to believe they were father and son but it appears not to be so. Puritanism was the major influence which brought the early settlers to what became New England. That same Puritanism made old testament biblical names popular. Hence it would have been in accord with the times for William, I, to name his son Obadiah. It was a popular Puritan name. Obadiah's brother-in-law, the brother of Bethyah Hawes Seward, was named Obadiah. See Chapter III-G. David Hackett Fischer in his Albion's Seed says (p. 94) that in seventeenth century Boston 90 percent of all first names were taken from the Bible.

Van Benthuysen notes (supplement p. 8) that Edward Seward died about 1651 in Guilford where he had lived since his return from his service in the English revolutionary war against Charles I. He compares that date with the date William, II, died (March 5, 1702) and finds it difficult to believe they were brothers. It is more likely, he thinks, that William, II, was Edward's son. He notes — but does not rely on — some possible circumstantial evidence: that William, II, was living in New Haven when he married Grace Norton of Guilford (where Edward lived) and that William moved to Guilford after Edward's death (possibly having inherited property from Edward). Based upon the 50 year difference in their death dates he estimates Edward's birthdate to be about 1600 which contrasts with my estimate of 1621. My estimates, previously given, were based on my guess that Edward was a minimum of 16 on his original arrival in America in either 1637 or 1639 (the two different dates which are given) and his age in 1643 when he volunteered to serve in Cromwell's army which I thought might be 18-28. On van Benthuysen's analysis Edward was 37 or 39 when he originally arrived, and was 43 when he volunteered for the army. Whether Edward's birthdate was 1600 or 1621 does not matter greatly to my analysis about Obadiah, I. Instead of being Obadiah's possible cousin, Edward may have been a possible uncle. I have found nothing to suggest that the two were more closely connected than that. If William, I, was the godson of William Symonds and came from Devon, a close relationship with William, II, from Sussex becomes more difficult.

My age analysis suggests that Obadiah, I, and William, II, were at best cousins. The fact that no information has been found about the birth of Obadiah would be explained if my theory is correct that he was born on the journey from England.

In addition to William, I, Edward, George, William, II, and Obadiah, I have found records of a number of other Sewards in America before 1660. I cannot say the list is exhaustive but I have tried to run down every index. I list them in as near chronological order as possible:

John and James Seaward, fishermen in New England waters in 1620, were met and consulted by the Mayflower about local harbors: Pilot Lore, p. 2, New York and New Jersey Sandy Hook Pilots Benevolent Association, The Sandy Hook Pilots by William Westerbaker in The New Yorker, September 14, 1968, p. 135.

Henry Sayward, age not given, to New England in 1620-1650. Banks: Topographical Dictionary of 2885 English Emigrants, p.46. Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire, p.182, says that Henry in a deposition given October 15, 1669 said he had been in America for 32 years since he left England. He had a son, Joseph born 1665, and possibly John and Samuel. Died 1682.

Richard Seward of Portsmouth, New Hampshire; date of arrival not known but died there in 1663 leaving according to Savage, children and grandchildren, details not known. Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary, p.57. Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire, p.183. This is confirmed in Rambles about Portsmouth by Charles Warren Brewster, Vol. 1, p.26, where under date of 1660 Richard Seward, Sr. and Richard Seward, Jr. are both mentioned. F.H. Carpenter (p.38), in his Seward Family Records, published by International Research Publications, London 1977, gives further information about the family but I did not note any clues to Obadiah. The same is true of Pope. However, see Roger Seward below and Robert of Exeter.

John Seward, age 30, to Virginia in 1622. Jester and Hiden: Musters of the Inhabitants in Virginia, p.53; also Hotten: The Original Lists of Persons of Quality, p.249. F.H. Carpenter (p.36) says John came over in the ship Geife and that he was the servant to Susan Bush of Elizabeth City.

John Seaward, age not given, to Virginia in 1623. Colonial Records of Virginia, p.53; also Hotten: The Original Lists of Persons of Quality, p. 188. F.H. Carpenter (p. 36) says this is the same person as that listed above because he appears in A List of Names of the Living in Virginia February 16, 1624 under Elizabeth City.

Robert Sewar, age 23, to Virginia in 1635. Hotten: The Original Lists of Persons of Quality, p. 84; also Tepper: Passengers to America, p. 87.

John Seward, in Virginia, before 1637. F.H. Carpenter (p. 36) gives information about family and land holdings in Isle of Wight County. He carried on also a merchant business in Bristol, England. He may have been the John Seward who represented Isle of Wight in the Virginia House of Burgesses 1645-6 (Journal vol. 1, p. xviii).

Robert Seward of Exeter, New Hampshire, 1639. Savage suggests he may have been a brother of Richard and may have resided in Portsmouth, New Hampshire in 1649. Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary, p.57, and Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire, p.183. F.H. Carpenter (p.36) says he signed the combination[37] in 1639, removed to Hampton, New Hampshire, bought land from Lieutenant Howard and in 1646 sold it to Nat Boulter.

Henry Seward, a millwright, was in Hampton, New Hampshire in 1649 and came to America about 1636. F.H. Carpenter (p. 37) gives information about the family. Probably is the same person described as Sayward, supra.

Roger Seward, in Boston 1655, a mariner. Savage: A Genealogical Dictionary, p. 57. F.H. Carpenter (p. 38) gives further information and says he was a brother of Richard of Portsmouth who died in 1663. To same effect see Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire, p. 183.

James Seward, age not given, to Virginia in 1655. Greer: Early Virginia Immigrants, p. 294.

The Filby and Meyer 1982-5 Cumulated Supplement to the Passenger and Immigration Lists includes three additional names:

James Seward to Maryland 1656
Mary Seward to Maryland 1656

[37] I am not certain of the meaning of "combination" but think it refers to the "covenant" designed to resolve religious disputes in which Englishmen and Scotsmen joined. Charles, I, in 1635 ordered that Scotland, which was heavily Presbyterian, should use in its churches the service book prepared by Archbishop Laud for the English (Anglican) churches. The Scots resisted and in a national covenant which thousands signed, pledged not to accept changes in religion unless approved by the Presbyterian church assembly. This had the effect of giving the churches power to decide for themselves how to conduct their religious services.

The latter reference is to William, II, who settled in Guilford.

My analysis has brought me to the conclusion that Obadiah Seward, I, was born about 1635. See Chapter III-H. I have found no record of a Seward in New England to be his likely father. There were Sewards in Virginia at that date, as the foregoing list indicates but the name Obadiah suggests that his parents were Puritans and hence probably New Englanders. The earliest New England Seward appears to have been Henry Sayward (Seward) of Hampton, New Hampshire. He gave a deposition in 1669 in which he said he had been in America 32 years and upwards since he had come from England. See Pope: The Pioneers of Maine and New Hampshire. Hence he arrived about 1637. His children were Joseph born about 1655 and John, but no Obadiah. That requires us to think further about William (1608-) who probably arrived in Boston about 1634/5.[38] My conjecture is that Obadiah, I, was his son and was born

[38] The time when he left England was a depressing one for Puritans, which the Sewards probably were. The period is described in E.P. Cheney in his European Background of American History, pages 226-228:

"...from 1629 to 1640... Parliament had no meetings, and ... the Court of Star Chamber, the High Commission, and the Privy Council were the all-powerful instruments of an administration sympathetic with the high-church party. The oppressions of the Puritans were now at their height, and the prospect of ever obtaining freedom to worship as they chose seemed the darkest. With the most prominent liberal and Puritan leaders imprisoned for their political opinions, like Sir John Eliot, or lying in prison, crushed under enormous fines, like Prynne; with the courts subservient to the royal will; with court preachers declaring the duty of passive obedience to the government; with Laud guiding the policy of the king in all ecclesiastical matters, – the state of the Puritans might well seem hopeless, and they might well look towards some distant land as a place for the establishment of a purified national church." . . .

"It was under this regime that the great Puritan migration to America took place. The Puritans represented a class of society which was much more ready to emigrate than the Catholics. As early as 1597 some imprisoned Brownists sent a petition to the Privy Council asking that they might be allowed to settle in America; and four men of the same persuasion even went on a voyage to examine the land. In 1608 many Puritans seem to have prepared to emigrate to Virginia, when by Archbishop Bancroft's influence they were forbidden by the king to go, except with his express permission in each individual case.

"The Separatists early became wanderers on the face of the earth, a now famous group of them leaving their English homes for Amsterdam, migrating thence to Leyden, and then, after hesitating between a Dutch and an English colony and between North and South America, a portion settling themselves on Plymouth Harbor. In all this history of early colonization there have been few such occasions as that of the year 1638, when fourteen ships bound for New England lay in the Thames at one time, and when three thousand settlers reached Boston within the same year. Almost all the Englishmen who were ever to emigrate to New England left their homes during the twelve years between 1628 and 1640."

mine (see Chapter III). He attended Union College. The Union College Alumni Bulletin, issue of March-April 1983 has the following about his college days and the purchase of Alaska:

"The red-haired Seward came to Union in 1816 at the age of fifteen and enrolled in the sophomore class. His stay was interrupted by a financial misunderstanding with his father.

"Ashamed of his rustic appearance, young Seward had a Schenectady tailor make him clothing. His father refused to pay what he thought was an unreasonable expense. So Seward withdrew from the College, travelled to Georgia with a friend, and became a schoolmaster for a short time.

"After a change of heart, he returned to Union and completed his studies with high honors, becoming one of the earliest members of the College's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. After graduation, he studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1822.

"Before being named Secretary of State, Seward served as a New York state senator, governor of the state, and a U.S. senator. Although inexperienced in foreign affairs, he was a shrewd politician and had the gift of understanding the popular mood.

"Seward negotiated for Alaska's sale in the face of heavy political opposition, which used "Seward's Folly" to describe the effort. He believed the territory's value would increase and that it would be a secure place for commercial and naval operations.

"The treaty to buy Alaska was signed in 1867. The cost of adding 590,000 square miles (about one-fifth the area of the continental United States) was $7.2 million.

"When asked what his greatest political achievement was, Seward apparently told a friend, 'The purchase of Alaska. But it will take another generation to find out.'"

See footnote 25 for further information about William H. Seward.

In addition to "Cousin" John Seward, I had a friendship over a period of years with George Oulton Seward of Starvecrow, Peasemarsh (near Rye),

William H. Seward, Lincoln's Secretary of State

William H. Seward, in whom John was interested, was the grandnephew of my ancestor James, Sr. (1732-1808) and a second cousin of my ancestor George Washington (1813-95). Diagramed, that relationship is as follows:

[40] Senator in the New York Legislature 1831-34; Governor of New York State 1839-42; Senator in the Congress 1849-61; Secretary of State in the cabinets of Lincoln and Johnson 1861-69; purchased Alaska 1867. The following are the opening paragraphs of his autobiography (Autobiography Life and Letters of William H. Seward, pp. 19-20):

"I can tell you little of my ancestors. I know the fathers of my father and mother only by name and tradition. John Seward, of Morris County, New Jersey, has been described to me as a gentleman of Welsh descent, intelligent, public-spirited, and courteous. He bore, bravely and well, a colonel's commission in the Revolutionary War, and educated a numerous family respectably. He died in 1799. His wife, Mary Swezy, lived until 1816. I remember her as a highly-intellectual woman, pious as well as patriotic, although many of her relations had adhered to the British cause, and consequently found it convenient to seek an asylum, after the war, in Nova Scotia and Canada. Of my maternal grandfather, Isaac Jennings, I know only that he was of English derivation, a well-to-do farmer, who turned out with the militia of Goshen, and, more fortunate than most of his associates, escaped the Indian massacre at the battle of Minisink. His wife, Margaret Jackson, who was of Irish descent, survived him many years. Her peculiarity which I most distinctly remember was, antipathy toward the Roman Catholic religion.

"My father, Samuel S. Seward, received such a classic education as the academies of that period furnished, Columbia College, the only one in the colony of New York, being disorganized during the war. He was educated a physician, and during my minority practiced his profession, to which occupation he added those of the farmer, the merchant, and county politician, magistrate, and judge, discharging the functions of all with eminent ability, integrity, and success, and gradually building up what at that day, and in that rural neighborhood, seemed a considerable fortune. He represented Orange County in the State Legislature in 1804, and showed much vigor and ability in debate. My mother, Mary Jennings, enjoyed only the advantages of education in country schools, but improved them. She is remembered by her survivors as a person of excellent sense, gentleness, truthfulness, and candor.

"I was the fourth of six children, and the third son, born in 1801, May 16th. A daughter, older than myself, died in infancy; a second daughter and a son came after me. I have been told that the tenderness of my health caused me to be early set apart for a collegiate education, then regarded, by every family, as a privilege so high and so costly that not more than one son could expect it."

One of William's sons, Frederick William, was Assistant Secretary of State in his father's administration under Lincoln and Johnson and continued in that capacity under President Hayes. His recollections were published in 1916 under the title Reminiscences of A War-Time Statesman and Diplomat 1830-1915.

The date William H. Seward gave for the death of his grandfather John Seward, 1799, appears to me to be not correct. My information is that he died October 2, 1797.

The home of William H. Seward at Auburn, New York is now a museum. See Appendix F regarding the note paper and insignia used by him. I obtained a sheet of the note paper from the museum.

William H. Seward was attacked by Lewis Paine of the same group of assassins — Booth, Paine and others — who killed Lincoln on the night of Saturday April 15, 1865 and had laid plans to kill Seward and Grant. The following is the initial official dispatch about those events signed by Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War, and printed in The New York Herald that day:

"This evening at about 9:30 P.M., at Ford's Theatre, the President, while sitting in his private box with Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Harris and Major Rathburn, was shot by an assassin, who suddenly entered the box and approached behind the President.

"The assassin then leaped upon the stage, brandishing a huge dagger or knife, and made his escape in the roar of the theatre.

"The pistol ball entered the back of the President's head and penetrated nearly through the head. The wound is mortal.

"The President has been insensible ever since it was inflicted, and is now dying.

"About the same hour an assassin, whether the same or not, entered Mr. Seward's apartments, and under pretense of having a prescription, was shown to the Secretary's sick chamber. The assassin immediately rushed to the bed and inflicted two or three stabs on the throat and two on the face.

"It is hoped the wounds may not be mortal. My apprehension is that they will prove fatal.

"The nurse alarmed Mr. Frederick Seward, who was in an adjoining room, and he hastened to the door of his father's room, when he met the assassin, who inflicted upon him one or more dangerous wounds. The recovery of Frederick Seward is doubtful. It is not probable that the President will live through the night.

"General Grant and wife were advertised to be at the theatre this evening, but he started to Burlington at six o'clock this evening.

"At a Cabinet meeting, at which General Grant was present, the subject of the state of the country and the prospect of a speedy peace were discussed. The President was very cheerful and hopeful, and spoke very kindly of General Lee and others of the confederacy, and of the establishment of government in Virginia.

"All the members of the Cabinet except Mr. Seward, are now in attendance upon the President.

"I have seen Mr. Seward, but he and Frederick were both unconscious.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War"

INDEX 225

INTRODUCTION

The name of SEWARD is believed, by some historians, to have been derived from the Saxon baptismal name of SIWARD. The original Saxon significance of the name was guardian or ward of the sea. The name has been spelled many ways but SEWARD is most commonly used today.

The first Seward to come to America was believed to have been a John Seward who settled in Virginia about 1635. There is no documentation that this John Seward was related to the Obadiah Seward who landed in New England, although both came from England. Most researchers believe that Obadiah was of English ancestry, although, there are some who believe he may have been of Welch ancestry.

The first written records, in this country, of Obadiah Seward are contained in the Connecticutt Vital Records of Births, Marriages and Deaths of the Town of Milford, Connecticutt. The first record is in the Old Log Book, Page 13 "HAWES, Bethyah m. Obed Seward, October 31, 1660". The second record is in the Town Book of Records, Volume 1, Page 4 HAWES, Bethiah m. Obed Seward, October 31, 1661 by Robert Treat, Magestrate". The date of the marriage not the same, but it is believed that the correct date is 1660 since their son, Obed (Obadiah), was born November 1, 1661. Some researchers think that the original Obadiah Seward first landed at Boston, but, this has not been documented. It is known that some Sewards did land in Boston and then removed to Guilford (Connecticutt), however, it is most likely that Obadiah landed at New Haven. The date that Obadiah landed at New Haven is not known, but it was before 1660. The name Obadiah was, in some instances, spelled as "Obed".

Obadiah's wife, Bethiah Hawes, is believed to be the daughter of Richard and Ann Hawes who came to New England, from England, on the ship TRUELOVE which left England on September 19, 1635. The family, at that time, consisted of Richard age 29, Ann age 26, Anna age 2 1/2 and Obediah age 6 months.

There were at least four Obadiahs (or Obeds) listed in the Town Records of Brookhaven, Long Island and later in Southold, Long Island, as follows:

Obadiah1, born in England in the early 1640s, came to New Haven, married Bethiah Hawes in Milford (Connecticutt) on October 31, 1660.

Obadiah2, son of Obadiah1 and Bethiah, born in Milford on the first November, 1661. He married Dinah ___ about 1680.

Obadiah3, son of Obadiah2 and Dinah, born in early 1680s. He married Ann Bigs about 1700 in Brookhaven, Long Island.

Obadiah4, son of Obadiah3 and Ann Bigs, was born in Brookhaven, LI in 1702. This is the Obadiah who, around 1723, married Isabelle Luce, had 10 children (including another Obadiah) and removed to Roxbury Township, Morris County, New Jersey in 1741.

Obadiah was a favorite name of the early Sewards. They seemed to follow the usual custom of naming a son after the father. There were at least seven Obadiahs in the Isaac line.

The majority of Seward families contained in this publication are descendants of Obadiah4 and Isabelle Luce Seward and their seventh child, Isaac. The families of some of the other children of Obadiah4 and Isabelle are listed as they are of historical interest, for example, William Henry Seward who was Abraham Lincoln's Secretary of State.

This book is divided into two sections. The first section, Family Group Records, provides group sheets for all known family groups that include at least one child. Also, included are brief biographical sketches of the family members. These biographies are freeform in nature and serve to establish more background about the individual than could be provided by statistics alone. The second section, Pedigree Charts, provides up to three generations of known information about ancestors.

Reader comments, corrections and/or queries are welcome.

HUSBAND - Obadiah Sr. SEWARD-314

Obadiah Seward came to America from Wales or more likely from England. His date of birth is not known but it is believed that he was born in England in the early 1640s. The date of his death is not known. An Obadiah Seward gave Quit Claim Deed on April 24, 1728 in Brookhaven but it is not known if this was the first Obadiah. He landed at New Haven (CT) before 1660. On October 31, 1660 he married Bethiah Hawes (Haws) in Milford, CT. Their first child, Obadiah (Obed) was born in Milford, CT on November 1, 1661. The first record of the family being on Long Island was in 1664. The number of children, other than Obadiah, born in 1661, is not known. Records indicate that the family remained on Long Island although a ggrandson migrated to New Jersey in 1741. Around 1680, a Obadiah Seward married Dinah ___. This is believed to have been Obadiah's son. There is no information about the number of children from this marriage. Obadiah (believed to be a grandson) married Ann Bigs (Biggs) daughter of Thomas Bigs (Biggs), Jr. around 1700. This Obadiah and Ann had five children: Obadiah (Jr.), Joseph, Abner, Samuel and Eliakim. Some researchers think that Dinah and Ann was the same person however this seems unlikely. Little is known about the five children except for Obadiah (Jr.) who moved to the Black River area of Morris County, New Jersey. The Records of the Town of Brookhaven, published by Derrydale Press, Books A, B and C contain many references to Obadiah. Some of the references, in the 1730s, may have been to his son or grandson. Some researchers believe that there may have been 4 Obadiahs. It appears that the Obadiah who migrated to New Jersey in 1741 was a great grandson of the "original" Obadiah. Accordingly, Isaac Seward was a gggrandson of the original Obadiah Seward.

WIFE - Bethiah HAWES-807

Bethiah (or Bethyah) Hawes was the daughter of Richard and Ann Hawes who came to New England on the ship TRUELOVE in September, 1635. Bethiah was born in Milford about 1840. She married Obed (Obadiah) Seward on October 31, 1660 in the Township of Milford (Connecticut). The marriage was by Robert Treat, Magestrate. The number of children are unknown, but, they had at least one son who was named Obadiah, also. This son was born in Milford on November 1, 1661. The number of additional children is not known. The family had moved to Brookhaven, Long Island, NY by 1864.

HUSBAND - Obadiah II SEWARD-809

Obadiah II Seward (named for identification purposes, only) was the son of Obadiah Seward and Dinah _____. He apparently was born in the early 1680s. About 1700, he married Ann Bigs in Brookhaven, Long Island, NY. They had several children but only the names of the sons are known: Obadiah, Jr., Joseph, Abner, Samuel and Elakim. See #314 Obadiah Seward Notes for additional information about the Obadiah Sewards of early Brookhaven, Long Island, NY. Obadiah II was, probably, the grandson of the "Original" Obadiah.

WIFE - Ann BIGS-315

Ann Bigs (sometimes spelled Biggs) was the daughter of Thomas Bigs, Jr. About 1700 she married an Obadiah Seward in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York. She and Obadiah had 5 sons and probably some daughters, however, their names are not known. The sons were Obadiah, Jr., Joseph, Abner, Samuel and Elakim. Little is known about the sons except for Obadiah, Jr. who moved to the Black River area of Morris County, NJ.

CHILD 1 - Obadiah Jr. SEWARD-312

Obadiah Seward, (Jr) was the son of Obadiah Seward (Sr.)and Ann Bigs. He was born about 1702 in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York. About 1723 he married Isabelle Luce in Brookhaven and had 10 children, all born in Brookhaven. He was assessed in Brookhaven in 1741. He apparently moved to Roxbury, Morris County, NJ in early 1741 as he was appointed collector of Roxbury Township, NJ on 3-15-1741. His children were: Eliakim (1724-1784), Susan (died young), Obadiah (died young), Mehitable (1728-1812), John (1730-1797), James (1732-), Isaac (1733-1768), Lydia (1735-1775), Samuel (1736-1819) and Daniel (1738-1826). Obadiah (Jr.) died prior to June 3, 1751 when letters of administration of his estate were granted to his widow, Isabelle, of Morris County, NJ. His great grandson was William Henry Seward, Secretary of State when Abraham Lincoln was president.

CHILD 2 - Joseph SEWARD-536

Joseph Seward, son of Obadiah Seward (II) and Ann Bigs, was born in Brookhaven, Long Island, NY about 1704. Few records are available except for an assessment roll for Brookhaven, L. I. for the year of 1749. Records of Town of Brookhaven, Book B, contains an entry dated December 13, 1757 recording Joseph's Ear Mark for his livestock. Apparently, Joseph remained in Brookhaven, Long Island.
REF: OBADIAH SEWARD AND DESCENDANTS

CHILD 3 - Abner SEWARD-537

Abner Seward, son of Obadiah Seward (II) and Ann Bigs, was believed to have been born in Brookhaven, Long Island about 1706. No record except assessment roll for Brookhaven, L.I., for the year 1749.
REF: OBADIAH SEWARD AND DESCENDANTS

CHILD 4 - Samuel SEWARD-538

Samuel Seward, son of Obadiah Seward (II) and Ann Bigs, was born in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York about 1708. No record except an entry in the Town of Brookhaven Records, dated December 19, 1748, regarding the arbitration;

Title
Wills and estate papers (Stokes County), 1663-1978

Authors
North Carolina. Division of Archives and History (Raleigh, North Carolina) (Main Author)

Notes
Microfilm of originals in the North Carolina State Archives in Raleigh, North Carolina.
This record contains original materials sent in from the county.
CRX wills are those records that have come to the Archives from other than the official sources. That is to say, CRX documents are county records that have left official government custody, whose provenance cannot be proved.
Secretary of State original wills: The Secretary of State was the official repository for wills and estates during the colonial times. In about 1760, it was ordered that wills would be filed with clerks of court, but some wills were filed with the Secretary of State until 1789. The wills listed under the above title is the collection of the exicting wills that were filed with the Secretary of State.
Estate papers: The Estates Records collection at the North Carolina State Archives consists of files of loose papers arranged alphabetically by county. The loose papers in each file include any documents used to settle the estate of a deceased person. The estate records can include: Administrators' bonds, Guardians' bonds, inventories, accounts of sales, annual accounts, allotments of years provisions, settlements, divisions, petitions of many sorts, and bills and receipts.
Some pages faded and hard to read.

Thanks for your e-mail.

First, there is a book titled "Obadiah Seward and Descendants" while the title page shows the complete title of "Obadiah Seward of Long Island, New York and His Descendants". it was published December 31, 1947 and copyrighted in 1948 by Frederick Whittlesey Seward, Jr. M. D. It was produced by the Press of the Independent Republican, Goshen, NY. For the most part it is accurate, however, several researchers disagree in a few areas.
1. Samuel Seward (1754-1828) married Abigail Pitney not Elizabeth Keen as stated in the book. The error was due to a mix-up by the DAR, which they have since corrected their records. Elizabeth Keen did marry a Samuel Seward. Some believe it was your Samuel, but it has not been documented.
2. Daniel Seward (1760-1846), was the son of Samuel Seward (1735-1816). He married Elizabeth Stewart of Westmoreland County, PA. He was not the son of Isaac Seward as stated in the book.

Regarding the children of Samuel Seward (1735-1816). The Solter website says "all believed to by by his first wife". LDS Records list a Sarah Seward daughter of Samuel & Unknown Seward born Abt 1774, another record shows she was born 21 Jul 1782. Is this the Sarah who married Joseph Billiter about 1790? LDS Records list a Christening in the First Presbyterian Church in Morris County, NJ on 30 Apr 1786 of a Ann Julina. Only Samuel Seward, father, is shown. Is this Ann, the daughter of Samuel & Unknown Seward? How do we know what is correct? Perhaps the 1790 Census could help.

Obadiah (II) and Ann (Anna) Bigs (Biggs) Seward did have a Samuel born 1708 but he married Mary Hodge on 15 Oct 1724 and died in 1750 in Long Island. Could the Samuel who married Elizabeth Keen have been a son of the above Samuel? I do not have any information about his family.

Regarding the Seward line from William Seward, I can send you a gedcom of what I have if you want it. My line is from Samuel (son of Isaac Seward and Phebe).

Do you have more information about the descendants of Samuel & Unknown Seward's children?

Hi Mom,

(I'm going to send this info to you seperately cuz I've found a books = worth on Seward's Folly, William H Seward, some sites for Bracken = County, plus a little on Cheney. In other words a bunch of stuff. Have = fun!)

Where did the William Seward come from? Everything I've found so far = starts with Obadiah. I had found this comment about a William at the = Genforum site;
Lieut. William Seward of Guilford, CT -- 1600's=20

Posted by: James Gibbs Date: April 17, 1998 at 11:09:14=20

I have accumulated a fair amount of info on the descendants of Lieut =
William Seward and his wife Grace Norton who were among the founding = settlers of Guilford, Connecticut. I am looking to add other lines to my file, and can offer what I have in return. I have nothing on William's = background other than he was born in Bristol, England. I do however have more on Grace Norton's ancestry back into Bedfordshire, England. My own = line goes from colonial era Guilford to Durham and Killingworth, CT, and then on to the Hudson River Valley in thee early 1800's.
=

As far as I know, William Seward's line has NOT been connected with the = early line of Obadiah Seward. Does anyone have a connection between = these lines? The famous NY Gov. William Henry Seward (Lincoln's = Secretary of State)is a descendant of Obadiah.

Also found a notation in '"A Genealogical Record Of The First Settlers = of New England" of on Edward Seward of Ipswich in 1637 whose name is = also spelt Sayward, and a Robert of Portsmouth in 1649. It was the = spelling notation that I thought might help at some point.

This info shows Samuel and Obadiah both in the same time frame and area;

The second one does mention the Billiters.=20
The Early Sewards

Here is George C. Seward's summary of his early ancestry in America, = which is also mine. He references Dr. Frederick Seward's research as = well as his own.=20

Obadiah I, born 1630?-35? in England, British West Indies or New = England. He was in Milford, Connecticut October 31, 1660. There's a = marriage record between him and Bethya Hawes on that date. He moved to = Brookhaven, Long Island, New York, about 1664. At some point he = remarried, this time to Dinah Biggs. There's a sale of property in which she is mentioned. He died sometime after that sale (March 11,1698/9). = (George proposes that a son of Obadiah I, again named Obadiah, may have = been the person who actually married Dinah Biggs).

Obadiah II, born November 1, 1661 at Milford, Connecticut, died =
Brookhaven, Long Island, New York 1748 or 1749. His wife's name was Anna

Obadiah III, born Brookhaven, Long Island, New York about 1702, moved to
Block River Morris Co NJ bef 1741 died May 14 1751 in Berkshire Valley, Morris County, New Jersey. His wife's name was Isabel = - most probably Isabel Luse, daughter of David Luse and Mary = (Brown)Luse, close neighbors.

Go to family group sheet for Obadiah III:

Here's his proposal for a possible fourth Obadiah:

Name Birth Marriage Birth of First Child=20

Obadiah I (1635) 1660-Bethya 1661-Obadiah=20

Obadiah II 1661 (1681)-Dinah (1682)-Obadiah=20

Obadiah III (1682) (1700)-Anna 1702-Obadiah=20

Obadiah IV 1702 1720-Isabel 1724-Eliakim=20

This is the list of the children of Obadiah III and Isabel (Luse) = Seward:

Susan

Obadiah, d. young; no children

Mehitable (Hettie), b. 1728, d. 15 October, 1812, married Nathan Cooper, = son of Nathan and Mary (Miller) Cooper 1748.

John, b. 22 May, 1730, m. Mary Swezey 22 March, 1751, d. 1797. For = Secretary of State W.H.Seward fans, this is his family line. Look at his = family information here.

James, b. @1732, d. 1808 in Ohio. This is George S. Seward's line. = There's some additional information about James and his family here

Isaac, b. @1733, d. @1769, m. Phebe (?) @1753

Samuel, b.@1736, d. 1816. This is my line. Look at Samuel's information = here

Daniel, b. 1738, d. 10 August, 1826 in Goshen, NY, m. Ann Bishop

Polly Seward, b. 1752, m. Richard Edsall

Obadiah Seward, b. 2 August, 1754, m. Hilah Edsall

Nancy Seward, b. 1756, d. 1762

Infant daughter b. 1758, d. very young

Heliah Seward, b. 17--, m. Josiah Hurd

Elizabeth Seward, b.15 April, 1760, m. Dr. Jonathan Swezey

Hester Seward, b. 1762, d. 1762 or 1763

John Seward, b. 10 June, 1765, m. Mary Butler

Samuel Swezy Seward, b. 5 December, 1768, m. Mary Jennings.

William Henry Seward was their fourth child, b. in Florida, Orange = County, New York 16 May, 1801. He married Florence Adeline Miller, = daugher or Elijah and Hannah (Foote) Miller 20 October, 1824.

Their children were:=20

Henry Augustus Seward, b. 1 October, 1826, d. 11 September, 1876

Frederick William Seward, b. 8 July, 1830, d. 8 July, 1915

Cornelia Seward, b. 25 August, 1836, d. 14 January, 1837

William Henry Seward, b. 18 June, 1839, d. 26 April, 1920

Frances Adeline Seward, b. 9 December, 1844, d. 29 October, 1866.

The above information is extracted from "Seward Cousins, p. 6, V. I, #1 = - My aunt attributes it to Frederick Whittlesey Seward.

"James, Sr. was born about 1732 in Brookhaven, Long Island, New York, or = possibly Black River (now Chester), Morris County, New Jersey, moved to = Hardyston, New Jersey in 1767 and on November 18, 1788 arrived at and = assisted in establishing Columbia, now a part of Cincinnati, Ohio. Moved = to Fairfield, Butler County, Ohio, and died there December 20, 1908. = Wife's name not known. Had five sons of whom two were killed by Indians = September 1789."

George Seward is descended from his son James, Jr..

"James, Jr. born about 1776 in Hardyston, Sussex County, New Jersey, = moved to Ohio, Cincinnati area, November 18, 1788, died in Glendale, = Hamilton County, Ohio, shortly prior to November 17, 1817. Wife was Mary = (Swain?). Four children."

Samuel Seward Sr. & Unknown

Second wife's name - Liddie Mitchel

Samuel and Liddie were married in Stokes County, North Carolina, between 1789-1796

Samuel's children - all believed to be by his first wife:

John - Living in Warren County, Ohio, 1817

Mehitable - Living in Franklin County, Indiana 1818

Wife of Abner Leonard

Mahala - Living in Franklin County, Indiana, 1818

Married to George Gregg

Lydia - Living in Franklin County, Indiana, 1818

Married to James Thompson

Daniel - Living in Pendleton County, Kentucky, in 1817=20

Married to Elizabeth (last name unknown)

Mary - Living in Miami County, Ohio in 1829.

Married to Sylvester Thompson

Ann - Married to Zebadiah Billiter. Zebediah died in North Carolina and = his wife and sons moved to Pendleton County, Kentucky @1815.

Sarah - Residence in 1824 - Fayette County, Pennsylvania=20

Married to Joseph Billitter

Samuel, Jr. - Deceased before his father, leaving heirs Obadiah and others

Samuel Seward, Sr. has the weakest proofs in the chain. All evidence = colletced to date indicates that he's the son of Obadiah Seward and was = born in New Jersey @ 1736. One of my projects for this next year is to = see if I can accumulate a little more evidence for this. We do not know = the name of his first wife, but she was probably the mother of all his = children. Zebedee Billiter, his son-in law, was bondsman at his marriage = to Liddy Mitchel.

Samuel Sr. purchased property in Bracken County, KY in March 1798 - 92 = acres on the banks of the Ohio River - from Edward Salts and Hugh = Marshall (Deed Book A, pp. 29-32). A good share of his family came to = live in the same general area. The names, spouses and geographical = locations listed above come from the documents surrounding the = settlement of Samuel Seward Sr.'s will (1815 and later)=20

The estate of Samuel Seward was appraised by Robert Wells, Mathew Artes, = and Abner Leonard, Administrator. The record of the sale comes from Book =
B of Wills, p. 13, Bracken County, KY (March term, 1816). Personal = property totalled $113.00.

Wetmore, Joseph Byram jr., Bernard McCormac; corporals—Stephen Sneden, William Dalrymple, Samuel P. Hull, Stephen C. Ayers (John Odell substitute); drummer, Stephen James; fifer, Silas Ogden; privates—Samuel Beers, Jerry Colwell, David Cutter, Charles M. Day, Benjamin Denton, Peter Doremus, Stephen P. Freeman, Lewis Freeman, Sylvester R. Guerin, Horatio G. Hopkins, Luther Y. Howell, Ezekiel Hill, John Hand, Joseph M. Johnson, Abraham Ludlow, David Lindsley, Ira Lindsley (David Beers substitute), Moses Lindsley, Roswell Lomis, Lewis March, John Meeker, John Nestor jr., David Nestor, Elijah Oliver, Byram Prudden, Maltby G. Pierson, Eleazer M. Pierson, Jabez Rodgers, Ezra Scott, Ebenezer Stibbins, Peregrine Sanford, Seth C. Schenck, Charles Vail, Isaac M. Wooley.

Roll of Captain Carter's riflemen, who were in the United States service from September 1st to December 2nd 1814: Captain, Luke Carter; lieutenants—David W. Halstead, William Brewster (discharged September 19th 1814), Charles Carter; sergeants—Benjamin F. Foster, Elijah Canfield, Harvey Hopping, David Tompkins; corporals—Calvin Sayres, Samuel Hedges, John B. Miller, Moses Baldwin; musicians—Daniel Brewster, Luther Smith; privates—Lewis Baker, Cyrus Hall, Squire Burnet, William Canfield (died October 3d 1814), Mahlon Carter, Ellis Cook, Samuel Cory, Moses Condit, John Dixon, John Fairchild, Clark Freeman, John French, Thomas Genung, Elam Genung, Whitfield Hopping, Robert W. Halstead, Aaron M. Jacobus, Jacob Ogden, Richard Rikeman, Joseph Smithson, John Simpson, Ephraim C. Simpson, William Tucker (deserted), Stephen C. Woodruff, John Glover.

The regiment of militia which went to the Hook at about the same time was commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel John Seward, and was in the United States service from about September 1st 1814 to December 9th 1814. The following is a roster of the field and staff:

Lieutenant-colonel, John Seward; majors—Jonathan Brown, John L. Anderson, Benjamin Rosenkrans; adjutant, Ebenezer F. Smith; paymaster, David Thompson jr.; surgeon, Hampton Dunham; surgeon's mate, Timothy S. Johnes; sergeant major, Richard Reed; quartermaster sergeants—Jonas L. Willis, Nathaniel O. Condit (appointed quartermaster September 13th 1814); drum major, William Fountain; fifer, John S. Smith; waiters—Israel Seward, waiter to the colonel; Benjamin Ayres, waiter to the surgeon; Matto Derbe, waiter to the surgeon's mate.

There were fourteen companies, which were in service as follows—the precise dates of their musters in and out not being the same: Captains William Vliet and Benjaman Coleman's company, September 9th to December 6th; Captain Joseph Budd's, September 9th to December 5th; the companies of Captains Vancleve Moore, Robert Perrine, Charles South, John S. Darcy, Thomas Teasdale and George Beardslee, from September 6th to December 5th; Captain Alexander Reading's, September 8th to December 5th; Captain Abraham Webb's, September 3d to December 4th; Captain Daniel Kilburn's, September 1st to December 5th; Captain William Drum's, September 3d to December 6th; Captain William Swaze's, September 8th to December 7th.

On Sunday the 11th of September the uniformed companies of General Colfax's brigade, numbering 1,200 men, paraded and marched to "high ground" to hear Rev. Dr. Stephen Grover, of Caldwell, preach to them. About the 20th the brigade removed from Paulus Hook to the heights of Navesink, where and at Sandy Hook it remained until the last of November, when the men were paid off and ordered home. They arrived in Morristown Saturday evening December 7th 1814, and Halliday's Rangers paraded on the 8th and were given a public dinner.

A singular incident of this war was the volunteering on the part of about four hundred citizens of Washington, Chester, Mendham and Morris to labor a day on the fortifications of New York. In the New York Gazette of September 10th 1814 is this acknowledgment of their service: "We have the satisfaction again to notice the distinguished and practical patriotism of our sister State New Jersey. Between four and five hundred men from Morris county, some from a distance of nearly fifty miles, headed by their revered pastors, were at work yesterday on the fortifications of Harlem. Such exalted and distinguished patriotism deserves to be and will be held in grateful remembrance by the citizens of New York, and recorded in the pages of history, to the immortal honor of the people of that State."

The war, as might have been expected, stimulated certain manufactures, our commerce with foreign nations being almost entirely cut off. The Mount Hope furnace was started up, and Dr. Charles M. Graham advertised December 30th 1812 that the Hibernia furnace would be thereafter conducted by him. Matthias Denman, Abraham Wooley and Samuel Adams had been previously his partners in its operation. He also advertises thirty-five casks of New Jersey made copperas of the first quality, at the Hibernia store, for cash or grain at New York prices. The copperas was manufactured at the copperas mine near Green Pond, where Job Allen during the Revolutionary war carried on the business. The end of the war put an end to this industry and it never was revived.

CHAPTER VII.

THE IRON INDUSTRY OF MORRIS COUNTY—EARLIEST ENTERPRISES—FORGES AND BLOOMARIES.

THE history of the iron industry of Morris county reaches back almost to its first settlement. We have no positive knowledge of any actual settlement in the county until about 1700. Yet in 1714 the tract embracing the Dickerson mine was taken up on account of its minerals, from the proprietors of West Jersey, by John Reading, who in 1716 sold it to Joseph Kirkbride; and it is a matter of tradition that previous to that time the ore was manufactured into iron by the owners of forges, who were allowed to help them-supplied with flour and horse feed within 40 or 50 miles, and thinks, considering the public benefit of his work, that the quartermaster-general might supply him.

The letters of the Hoffs end here, but it is well known that the furnace continued in operation throughout the war and manufactured war material for the army. The most notable event which happened in this period was the robbery of the Hoffs in the spring of 1781. A gang of robbers entered the house while the family were at supper and stole silver, jewelry, linen and clothing. They took horses also and got away safely with their plunder; but one at least, James Babcock, was afterward taken and hung. The county was infested with gangs of tories and lawless men, and others besides the Hoffs suffered from their visits. Robert Ogden, of Sparta, in Sussex county, was robbed in a similar way.

It is supposed the same gang who robbed the Hoffs attempted to rob Colonel John Seward, but failed. It is said that the colonel fortified himself in a block-house, and that on one cold night at about midnight a man rode up to his door and hailed, desiring to see the colonel, who instead of opening the door caught up his rifle and opened a hole through which he could look out. He discovered a man mounted on a fine horse, without a saddle and with rope stirrups. He at once knew his man, and, placing his rifle without noise in the hole between the logs, fired. Instantly all was still. The horse being frightened left the door, but was found the next morning eating at the colonel's haystack, with a dead man fastened in his rope stirrups under his feet. The horse proved to be a stolen one. How many other rascals accompanied the one killed was not known; but the colonel was avoided by the gang ever after.

The history of the works at Hibernia for the twenty years succeeding the Revolution is involved in obscurity. Lord Stirling's affairs after his death were found to be so much involved that his property was publicly sold by the sheriff. In 1774 he had applied to the board of proprietors for the purchase of the large tract surrounding his works at Hibernia, extending as far as Copperas Mountain and Greenville and known as the Hibernia tract. The board had consented to the sale and directed a survey to be made. April 15th 1785 Mr. Parker laid before the board a letter from Colonel Benjamin Thompson, which he received on the Monday previous, informing him that he had purchased the Hibernia iron works of Messrs. Murray, Sanson & Co.; that he had been informed that the purchase money of 3,000 acres agreed for with Lord Stirling had never been paid, and that he was willing to purchase the same agreeably to the original contract. September 13th 1787 a report was made to the board that the surveys for Thompson were not yet completed; but April 10th 1788 there was a report of a survey made by Lemuel Cobb of 4,365.43 acres, subject to deductions, to be conveyed to Benjamin Thompson and his associates at £20 per 100 acres.

April 14th 1791 an agreement was made by Mr. Rutherford, president of the board, and Mr. Parker to sell to John Murray and John Stotesbury lands surveyed by Lemuel Cobb, to accommodate Hibernia iron works with coal and wood, at £20 per 100 acres, with interest from May 1st 1788. The tract had been returned to John Stevens, late president of the board, in trust to convey it to Murray & Stotesbury, and a deed had to be made from his heirs-at-law to Mr. Rutherford, then the president of the board, to carry out the agreement. The return included 5,222.44 acres, but after deducting 866.86 acres of prior locations included therein there were left 4,355.58 acres.

Prudden Alling, sheriff of Morris county, on an execution on a judgment obtained at the April term of 1768, by Waddell Cunningham and others against Lord Stirling, sold to Lemuel Cobb, by deed dated February 16th 1791, the several tracts which made up the Hibernia tract for £30. It was probably to complete the title about to be made to Murray or Stotesbury.

William Jackson stated that Ross & Bird carried on the Hibernia furnace until Stotesbury came into possession of it; but who they were or how long they had possession it is impossible to ascertain. John Stotesbury, who appears to have come into possession in 1791, was of Irish descent, and is described as a high liver, of very genial habits and popular in the community. He was an officer in the continental army and had a brother in the British army, on Lord Howe's staff. He served at Trenton and Princeton, and was wounded at Brandywine. He owned a pew in the Rockaway church, where he attended with his family. He had two daughters, one of whom married Hon. Philemon Dickerson, of Paterson. Stotesbury introduced Irish employes at his works, supplanting the Germans, who went over to Mt. Hope, excepting those who found places in the mountains beyond. George Shawger, Charles Winters, William Barton, Pater Sanders and Jacob Bostedo were some of those who remained on their lands, and whose descendants continue to own and reside on them. Mr. Bostedo was a very good man, and was ordained by the Morris county presbytery to preach. Stotesbury failed in 1798 and died shortly afterward.

The title of the property was made to John Murray for the large tract surrounding the Hibernia property, by Walter Rutherford, December 8th 1792, and the several lots on which the furnace stood by William Shute and his wife, May 9th 1796. After Murray's death, August 15th 1809, his executors made an agreement to convey the whole property to Dr. Charles M. Graham, of New York. This gentleman was the owner of the "Copperas tract" near Green Pond, where Job Allen made copperas during the Revolutionary war, and he himself carried on the copperas manufacture very extensively during the war of 1812. He was of Scotch descent, a strong adherent of the Stuarts and a man of great enterprise. Graham built up the furnace, and then assigned his agreement for a conveyance to Samuel Thompson, Peter Thompson and William Spencer, who received the deed dated January 1st 1815 from Murray's executors. The men who thus took possession of the property were described by Hubbard S. Stickle as young men, who land (now covered with water) between that island and Hurdtown. In the latter district they had their cornfields. This village contained probably more than fifty lodges, and thirty years ago the location of every one of them was distinctly fixed by a circle of stones several feet in diameter, strongly marked by fire. In the searches made for relics these stones have been displaced, and would no longer fix the site of the lodges. I have in my possession a number of stone implements, such as axes, arrowheads, pestles, hoes, tomahawks, needles and other articles, of some of which it is impossible to tell to what use they were applied. Many of these articles are in a very perfect condition, and betray evidence of much skill in the workmanship which gave them their perfection of form and polish. Besides these, I have at various times picked up pieces of pottery (of undoubted Indian workmanship) whose outline is so true that they were in all probability formed on a wheel.

"There were a few other lodges on the beach in front of Mr. Hedenberg's cottage and on Tempe's Point. The Nariticongs dwelling in the vicinity of the lake numbered in the time of the nation's prosperity between two and three hundred persons.

"The following is a list of settlers living on the lake prior to and about the year 1800: Turner and Bellerford, on Nolan's Point, 100 years ago; Peter Marcelle, on Halsey Island; Mott Van Dyne, on the farm known as the Williams property; one Bishop, on or near Bishop's Rock; George Shongon, on Elba Point; Jones, on what is now known as Bertrand's Island; Israel Youngs, on the Jayne place; Obadiah Seward, the proprietor of the once famous Seward tavern; Abraham Seward, near the lake on a spot now known as the Morse place—the house is entirely removed; one Trainor, one hundred yards south; Raymond, east of Callahan's, near the line of the Ogden Railroad; William Carnes, on the place now known as the Luke property; Joshua Thompson, near the residence of Ephraim Long; Samuel Burrill, half a mile southeast of the Lake View House; one Jameson, near Woodport, 100 years ago; Laffles, on Laffles's Island—there was a bridge across the stream at this place; Joseph Hurd, of Hurdtown, the owner of a tract of land on which is the Hurd mine.

"The building of the Morris Canal rendered a lock at the lower end of the lake necessary. In removing the earth the workmen discovered the skeleton of an Indian, the arm bone of which from the wrist to the elbow was eighteen inches, and from the elbow to the shoulder the same. The remaining parts of the skeleton were of the same proportions. These bones would imply a height of nearly eight feet to this man of the forest.

"Between 40 and 50 years ago an Indian with his squaw came from Phillipsburg to visit the former home of his ancestors at the lake, and was so delighted with the situation that he determined to remain. He built a wigwam near the residence of Mr. Van Every, and spent the summer in fishing and making baskets. It is said that he was not treated very well by the old settlers, and finally went away with his houshold gods to find a more congenial dwelling place.

"There is a tradition that when the whites first settled on or near the lake shore there lived in the lake a singular animal, which was occasionally seen on land. But the settlers could never get near enough to it to form a very satisfactory idea of its appearance. It was said to have a head somewhat like a horse's. It was was probably a deer that swam the lake to escape from the wolves; although it might have been some large animal that had strayed from its native place and lived about the lake, or perhaps the last of its race. Horace Cook found at low water some very singular teeth, which are in his possession at the present time. They are three inches long, curved and fluted, and rather flat than otherwise. I have one, found in the same locality, which would have been when entire four inches long.

"Mr. Van Guilder informed me that when he and his sons were drawing out muck upon the upland from a small hollow or depression, not over 50 feet in diameter, they threw out, as they supposed at the time, a large crooked root. Their dog, which was with them, seized it and ran away with it in the bushes. One of the sons, wondering what peculiarity in the root attracted the dog's interest, went in pursuit, and he found it to be the rib bone of some huge animal. They worked with care and succeeded in exhuming five entire skeletons of the mammoth, except the toe bones. Three of the skeletons were those of full grown animals, and two those of calves, in a good state of preservation. They were exhibited at Morristown and Newark, and afterward sold to a museum.

"Brant, the Mohawk chief, occasionally paid this place a visit prior to the commencement of hostilities in the American Revolution. He succeeded in his design of seducing the Nariticongs to the British interest and led them in his battle with the inhabitants of Minisink, on the 20th of July 1779. His forces consisted of the Indians and royalists disguised as Indians. Bonnel Moody was with him on two or three occasions, and remained hidden under a rock near Bonaparte's landing, in the neighborhood of Bishop's Rock, until sunset, when Brant crossed from the Indian village near Halsey Island and rejoined him. They were furnished with canoes, and they paddled to Byram's Cove, at the northwest side of the lake, to the cliff of rocks that have the appearance of rude steps and have since been known as the Devil's Stairs. They traveled westward, and near Andover, in Sussex county, they separated, Brant going to the Delaware Water Gap, and Moody to his den near Newton, called the Big Muckshaw, a wild and dreary place, where he could see all that was going on for miles around and still be secure from all attacks. He and his band of desperadoes kept the country in a state of perpetual alarm by their bold and daring acts, until a few men determined to take Moody at all hazards. They hunted him and his band so keenly that he fled to Goshen, in the State of New York. They pursued him and recovered some silver plate that he had stolen from Mr. Ogden of Sparta. There is a tradition that he and his comrades were taken in attempting to cross the Hudson to reach the city of New York, and that they were brought to Morristown and tried as traitors and spies, condemned as such and hanged, to the joy of all the sons of liberty.

"Jayne's Cove, in the upper part of the lake, takes its name from the Jayne family, one of whom was the celebrated Dr. David Jayne, of Philadelphia, concoctor of the patent medicines that go by his name, and who lived here when a boy.

"Van Dyne's landing is in this neighborhood. It is an ore dock, whence thousands of tons of iron and zinc ore have been shipped to Newark and other places.

"One of the tributaries of the lake rises at the northeast of Hurdtown. Two miles beyond Hurdtown, in a very retired place, are the remains of a beaver dam, which can still be seen, although the dam is probably a hundred and-twenty-five years old. At the lower end of the lake, near Shippenport, there is a somewhat singular small island, called Floating Island. The water of the lake rises and falls considerably at different seasons of the year, but this island always remains just about a foot above the water. There are trees on it of considerable size. Among the plants which grow on it is the 'side saddle.' It is evergreen, and flowers in June. The and William King and their children are descendants of Jesse King.

Moses Doty, in the year 1800, moved to Dover and built a house in the park, near the residence of Henry McFarlan. When the park was enclosed about thirty years ago his house was torn down and part of it put up on Elliott street. His son, Aaron Doty, had sixteen children who lived to grow up to manhood, and some of their descendants are still found in the neighborhood of the old homestead.

Jeremiah Baker moved from Westfield, in this State, in 1810, and brought all he had in his knapsack, with money enough to buy a yoke of oxen. By industry and economy he become the largest landholder in the neighborhood. He married Margaret, daughter of Jesse King. He left three sons and as many daughters. He is a good illustration of what honest labor with prudence may accomplish.

William Mott, from whom was named Mott Hollow (which is another name for Mill Brook), was a Huguenot from France. The persecution of the Huguenots began about 1560, and drove from France many of her best citizens and artisans, who went to England, and by their skill in the arts raised England above France. The Mott family (spelled properly De Motte, or De la Motte), went from France to England, from England to Maryland, and toward the close of the eighteenth century moved from Maryland to Mill Brook. William Mott, the first to emigrate to this part of New Jersey, was a man of enterprise, who made his mark in his day. The Huguenots who came to this country brought with them a good reputation, which still continues. The descendants of William Mott in this township are justly proud of their ancestral line.

Richard Dell, a leading Quaker, was among the earlier settlers of the township, and owned land in the township of Rockaway, as appears by a deed to "Eaphrom Drake," recorded in 1764, of which the following is a part:

"This Indenture witnesseth that the said Richard Dell, for & in consideration of the sum of One Hundred & Twenty Pound Light Money at Eight Shillings Pr Ounce, to him in hand paid by the said Eaphrom Drake at & before the Sealing & delivery of these Presents, the receipt whereof he doth hereby acknowledge & thereof doth clearly a Quit, Release & Discharge the said Eaphrom Drake, his hiears, Exectrs and Administrators for ever, by these Presents hath granted, bargened, sold, assigned, Enfeoffed, Released, Convead & Confirmed * * * the said Twenty-Five Eacors of Land, which his bounded as followeth: begenning at a Double Burch Tree Corner to Irick Decou, thomas Nun, & George Ikes, & runs from thence by the Land of Thomas Nun North Two Degrees East Twenty Chaine to a Corner to Solomon Smith's; then a Long his line Weast Twelve Chaine & a half to his corner; thence South Two Degrees West Twenty Chains and Twenty Links to a post on George Ikes' Line; then a Long the same North Eighty Nine Degrees East Twelve Chaine and a half to the beginning."

In the southern and eastern portions of the township the following families early dwelt, most of whom have left descendants still on the homesteads: Sylvester Clark, Lewis Leforge, Enoch Roff, David Trowbridge, Samuel T. Abers, Abram Aber, Philip Till, Job Wolf, Peter Combs, H. J. Anson, Abram Seward, Carmen Bonnell, Aaron Lewis, and others who were equally good neighbors and honored citizens, whose names are not at our command.

Randolph in 1769.

Some idea of the relative value of Randolph township may be formed from the following quotas of the several counties assessed to pay a debt of £190,000 in 1769. In the war between England and France carried on among the colonies the colony of New Jersey, for the use of the crown of England, raised the sum of £347,500 "proclamation" money, in bills of credit. In 1769 a debt of £190,000 of the above sum remained to be sunk by taxes to be raised in the colony. The quotas of the several counties had been determined in 1751, when Jonathan Belcher was governor; but now, 1769, the government said: "Whereas the circumstances of this colony are much altered by the great improvements made therein, by its increase and population, and the erection of a new county, it has become necessary that a new settlement be made of the proportions each county shall raise in future taxes for supplying the treasury of this colony with the said sum of one hundred and ninety thousand pounds." This sum was not to be raised in one year, but was divided into fourteen parts, and the last was not due until 1783. Every inhabitant was to be assessed according to his wealth. "All forges that work pig iron, and all forges and bloomaries that make bar iron immediately out of the ore, shall be rated not under five shillings nor above forty shillings for each fire; always saving to the respective iron works in Evesham and Northampton, in the county of Burlington, and to the Hibernia iron works, in the county of Morris, such privileges, immunities and exemptions as are or shall be granted to them by a bill now under consideration of the Legislature of this colony, if the same shall pass into a law." As to all profitable tracts of land held by deed, patent or survey, whereon any improvement was made, the whole tract was to be valued in each respective county as follows: In the county of Bergen, not above £40 or under £8 per acre; Essex, not above £45 or under £9; Middlesex, not above £40 nor under £5; Monmouth, not above £45 nor under £5; Somerset, not above £50 nor under £9; Morris, not over £40 nor under £5; Sussex, not over £35 nor under £4; Hunterdon, not over £45 nor under £6; Burlington, not over £45 nor under £6; Gloucester, not over £40 nor under £3; Salem, not over £50 nor under £5; Cumberland, not over £35 nor under £5; Cape May, not over £30 nor under £8."

Some idea may be formed of the amount of improved lands in each county by the following assessments: In the years 1770, 1771, 1772 and 1773 the sum of £12,500 was to be raised, in the proportion following—in the county of Bergen, £830; Essex, £928; Middlesex, than, Sarah, Abigail, Catherine and Nathaniel—fourteen sons and daughters, and two others who died young.

Let us look at another of these ancient worthies. The parents of Daniel Cooper emigrated from Holland to New York in the year 1695. It is said he was born at sea, May 1st 1695. In 1726, when twenty-nine years old, he married Grace Runyon. He removed to Passaic Valley, Morris county, in 1732; bought lot No. 2 of the Berkley tract, containing 500 acres; and had children Catherine, Daniel, Agnes, Peter, John, Benjamin, Rosannah, George, Providence and Anne. He had six wives—Grace Runyan, Jane Westbrook, Grace Manning, widow Fanny Jones, Barbara Margaret Gibbs and Hannah Martin, widow of Colonel Ephraim Martin, and died May 2nd 1795, one day over one hundred years from the day of his birth! John G. Cooper, Esq., fourth child of George Cooper, son of Daniel Cooper (ancient worthy), lived in the valley where his father did. He married Eleanor Perrine, and their son George went to Michigan, and was treasurer of that State.

General Benjamin Ludlow lived on Long Hill, where his father did. He was major-general of militia, judge of the court of Morris county, and several times a member of the Legislature. This name is sometimes spelled Ludlum.

John James and George Badgley, with their three sisters, Phebe, Sarah and Betsey, came from Long Island to Elizabethtown. George settled there, and the others came and took a tract of 400 acres between the First and Second Mountains in the year 1736. Jonathan Badgley, a descendant, had thirteen children, Dayton had eight, Samuel had nine. Huma Badgley, fourth child of Samuel, married Ezekiel Clark and had nine children, and Jacob F. Badgley, ninth child of Samuel, had eight children.

Thomas Baker emigrated from England and settled on Long Island, thence removed to Connecticut Farms (now Union), and there died. His son Thomas jr. married Hannah Thompson, and removed to Passaic Valley in 1738.

A descendant of Daniel and Margaret Osborn had fourteen children, and his eldest child, Mary, married to Ezekiel De Camp, had thirteen children.

Samuel Beach was an early settler.

Benjamin Bedell had a child baptized in 1764, and "kept tavern" in the time of the Revolutionary war. His descendants require six pages to merely name them.

Nathan Bonnel came from Long Island to Elizabethtown; was one of the first company of the "Elizabethtown Associates"; removed thence to the Passaic River above Chatham; married Hannah Miller of Westfield, and left numerous descendants. Her second son, Captain Nathaniel, had thirteen children; her son John had eleven, and the tribes increased and multiplied and replenished New Jersey, and took possession thereof and subdued it.

Solomon Boyle emigrated from Ireland and married a French girl in this country. He purchased of the East Jersey proprietors 600 acres of land crossing Long Hill. He had ten children. One of his daughters has the peculiar name "Lynche." She married John Cooper, son of Daniel 1st (ancient worthy). His son John also had a daughter Lynche. Solomon Boyle must have settled here about 1730, as his second child was born in 1734. We also find Byrams, of the Mendham family.

James Cauldwell with his wife Mary emigrated from Ireland about the year 1732, and settled on Long Hill.

Daniel Clark gives cause for pages of Clarks, and William Cole was a surveyor and schoolmaster, and was known as Master Cole.

William Conklin married Ruth Hedges of Long Island, removed from there to Basking Ridge, and children.

Henry Connet, born in 1698, is the ancestor of the Connets at Brookside, in Mendham township.

There were Corwins and Carys, Crigs and Cranes, Davises and Days.

Philemon Dickerson lived at the east end of Stirling Valley, on the road to Morristown. He married Johannah Sweazy, above Morristown.

Then follow twelve pages of Dods and Dodds, one of the most gifted families of New Jersey; and Joseph Doty, who came from Long Island.

Rev. Jonathan Elmer was born in Norwalk, Conn., in 1727. He came to Turkey (New Providence) and was the stated minister of the "Presbyterian church and congregation" from October 1757 to 1793—thirty-six years. He died in 1807, aged 80 years; his wife died at the age of 94. His son Jonathan married Susan Bedell, and they had eleven children.

Rev. James Caldwell was shot by a drunken soldier, standing sentinel at Elizabethtown, in 1781. His wife Hannah had been shot in 1780 at Connecticut Farms (Union) by a British soldier. They left nine children, who were all taken up to Chatham to the house of Stephen Day, whose wife was a sister of Mrs. Caldwell. The nine children of the Caldwells were: Margaret, who married Isaac Canfield, of Morristown; Hannah, who married James R. Smith, merchant of New York; John Edwards, taken by the Marquis de la Fayette to France; James B., for many years a judge of the court of Gloucester county; Esther, who married Rev. Robert Finley, D. D., of Basking Ridge; Josiah F., many years in the post-office department at Washington; Elias, for some years clerk of the United States supreme court; Sarah, who married Rev. John S. Vredenburg, pastor of the Reformed Dutch church at Somerville; Maria, who married Robert S. Robertson, merchant of New York. History does not give knowledge of any other country where a family of nine helpless orphans, so tragically bereaved, could thus be carried in sympathetic arms and planted in happy, useful homes. If other republics have been ungrateful it is not true of ours.

Richard Runyon was born in 1719, of French ancestry. Daniel Runyon, son of Elias, owns his father's farm at Long Hill. He was appointed a justice of the peace in 1834, and acted in that office fifteen years.

Simeon Morehouse came up from Elizabethtown in the time of the Revolutionary war, and lived some time back

CHESTER TOWNSHIP.

By Rev. James F. Brewster.

CHESTER forms one of the southern tier of the townships of Morris county. It is bounded north by Roxbury and Randolph, east by Mendham, west by Washington and south by Somerset county. It was formed from Roxbury in 1799. The village of Chester, formerly called Black River, is twelve miles west of Morristown. It contains three churches—one Presbyterian, one Congregational and one Methodist; about one hundred and fifty houses and some fifteen or twenty shops and stores, and had a population in 1880 of 705. The area of the township was returned by the assessors in 1881 as 17,487 acres. The land is rolling, rising in some points nearly to a thousand feet, and the soil is under good cultivation. It is watered by Black River, a tributary of the north branch of the Raritan. It was almost entirely an agricultural community until within the last fourteen years, during which extensive and valuable deposits of magnetic iron ore have been discovered and developed, and it is now one of the most important mining districts of New Jersey. It is the terminus of two railroads—a branch of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, extending from Dover, twelve miles, and a branch of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, extending from High Bridge, seventeen miles. The Continental Railroad, from New York to Omaha, is surveyed to pass less than a mile south of the village of Chester.

The village was laid out into lots in the latter part of the last century, by General Horn, who purchased the land of Zephaniah Drake.

The population of the township in 1830 was 1,321. By the census of 1850 it numbered only 1,334; in 1860 it was 1,585; 1870, 1,743; 1880, 2,337. By the last assessment the real estate was valued at $954,595, and the personal property at $456,880—making a total of $1,411,475.

Settlement.

In 1713 and 1714, while Anne was yet queen of England, this tract was surveyed and run into plots, and was settled by emigrants from Easthampton and Southold, Long Island. Among the earliest names we find Seward, Cooper, Horton, Luse, Terry, Skellenger, Sweazy, Howell, Brown etc. The tract still belonging to the Cooper family was purchased in 1713 from Mr. Davenport, who had taken up the land from the province. At the same time came to Chester the ancestors of Hon. William H. Seward, Secretary of State under President Lincoln. The Fairclo family, who figured in the earlier days, came from Scotland, and in one respect were well fitted for pioneers, as one Deacon Fairclo is said to have been the father of twenty-one children.

General Nathan A. Cooper.

The Cooper family of which Nathan A. was a member descended from Sir Astley Cooper, the celebrated surgeon, of England. Some of the family in 1700 settled on Long Island, whence Nathan Cooper came to Roxiticus, which comprised what are now the towns of Mendham, Chester, Washington, Mount Olive and Roxbury. He purchased 1,600 acres of land, made a clearing, and erected a small framed house, in which the family resided some years. His son, Nathan Cooper, was born February 22nd 1725, and was married in 1748 to Mehitable Seward, great aunt to ex-Secretary of State William H. Seward. They had six children. Nathan built a house near where the present Cooper mansion stands. It was recently demolished, but the stone steps remain to mark the site. He died December 30th 1797. His wife died April 15th 1812.

Their son, Abraham Cooper, was born February 18th 1762. He was married in 1799 to Anna Wills. Their children were Beulah Ann and Nathan A. Abraham died September 13th 1818, and his wife April 24th 1856.

Nathan A. Cooper, the subject of this article, was born April 20th 1802. His wife, to whom he was married in 1843, was Mary Henrietta, youngest daughter of Dr. John W. Leddel of Ralstontown. Their children were Anna E., Abram W., Beulah S., Mary L., Tillie R., Laura H., and Nathan A.; all of whom, as well as their mother, are living. General Cooper died of cardiac rheumatism July 25th 1879.

At the age of sixteen he inherited the large Cooper estate, comprising nearly all of the tract originally purchased by his ancestor. This is now owned by the fifth generation from the original purchaser. It includes extensive farming lands, an iron mine, operated by Marsh, Craig & Evans, much undeveloped mineral property, and a grist-mill.

About nineteen years ago the house in which General Cooper was born was demolished, and the present elegant and substantial mansion erected. The brick, sand, lime and timber used in building this house were all produced or manufactured on the Cooper estate.

Mr. Cooper was always an active and prominent man in the public affairs of Morris county. He was thoroughly conversant with the political history of the country, and politics was with him a favorite theme of discussion, though from choice he never held any prominent political office. He was always a consistent and unwavering Democrat.

He was a man of extraordinary ability, a natural orator, of imposing appearance, and endowed with a voice and manner at once commanding and impressive. His conversational powers were great. His memory was wonderful. He forgot nothing, and with great accuracy he could recall the dates and circumstances of events that transpired more than half a century before.

In 1854 he was commissioned a brigadier general of cavalry, and at the time of his death was the oldest general officer in the State. He was a lover of horses and an expert horseman. He had great fondness for field sports, and was unexcelled as a marksman. He was a man of strict and unbending integrity, a good citizen, and a kind husband and father.

Travel.

Very early Black River began to occupy an important position in the line of travel between New York and Easton, Pa. When the first settlers came among these hills no turnpike was yet in existence, and the travel was by bridle paths which had been worn in the wilderness. As late as 1768 Rev. William Woodhull made his way into the parish, of which he became pastor, on horseback, with his wife and child riding on the same horse behind him. The first spring wagon was introduced by James Topping, who died here in 1874, in the 94th year of his age. With the beginning of the century an impulse was given to the work of facilitating travel. No less than 54 turnpikes were chartered by the State between 1800 and 1830, among them the Washington turnpike, from Morristown to Easton, in 1806, running through Chester from east to west. In Alden's Register for 1812 we find that Jared Haines, a prominent citizen of Chester, was then one of its eight directors. The proprietor of the first line of stages on this road was Zephaniah Drake, of Chester, who built the first brick building in the town in 1812 and kept it as a public house. This is still the Chester Hotel. Coaches gorgeous with scarlet and gilt, and drawn by four horses, made the journey from Easton to Paulus Hook and back again once a week. Subsequently the stages ran daily, and Chester was a favorite station for refreshment and change of horses.

The Congregational Church.

The first settlers of Chester were men of strong religious character. From the beginning there were two distinct methods of church order. The emigrants from Southold were Congregational. The emigrants from Easthampton were Presbyterian. Both classes being men of decided convictions, churches of each denomination were very soon organized, and they have continued side by side to the present day.

The annals of the Congregational church tell us that as early as 1747 a house of worship was erected, with pews and galleries capable of accommodating an audience of 400. In 1803 this building was demolished, but a part of its timbers still exist in the framework of a barn on the premises of William H. Seward. About the time of the building of the first church the excitement which caused the separation in the Congregational churches of Connecticut and Long Island reached this settlement, and a majority became "Separates" or "Strict Congregationalists," as they were then called. These Separates, it is said, retained the doctrines and form of government of the regular Congregational churches, protesting against what they regarded as the oppressive and wordly influence of the union between Church and State, especially in Connecticut. The first pastor was Rev. Samuel Sweazy, who ministered to the church about twenty years, until 1773, when he removed to Mississippi, near Natchez.

The years 1777 and 1778 brought stirring times to New Jersey. Chester or Black River was off the line of conflict, but both the Congregational and Presbyterian churches were used as hospitals for disabled soldiers. Regular worship was suspended, and the moral and religious habits of the people suffered greatly. About 1779 a union of the two churches was attempted under Rev. David Baldwin. A covenant was mutually subscribed (of which an original copy is still preserved in the archives of the Presbyterian church) entitled "A covenant entered into by the members of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in the town of Roxbury, now denominated only by the name of 'the Church of Christ,'" and services were held alternately in the two churches; but the attempted union failed.

This church was then reorganized, and in June 1785 Rev. James Youngs was ordained and installed. He died in November 1790, aged 32. The church records have this entry concerning him: "All accounts go to prove him a most amiable man and a sincere and devoted Christian." From 1790 till 1801 the church was without a regular pastor.

On June 16th 1801 Stephen Overton was ordained and installed, and in 1803 the original house of worship was replaced by another of more modern appearance. Mr. Overton's pastorate continued until March 1828, and he died in the following September. The church records speak of him as possessed of strong intellectual powers and endowed with a vigorous constitution. He traveled much, preaching sometimes more than once a day for weeks in succession.

The Lamson Family.

Three brothers of this family landed at Plymouth in 1636, soon after the settlement of the Plymouth Colony. One of them, John, came to New Haven, who is the progenitor of the Lamson family of this section. He came to New Jersey in 1710, as the records of the New Jersey Proprietors at Perth Amboy show that the homestead farm near Dover was deeded by them in 1710.

John Lamson, or Lampson was an early settler at New Haven and probably died there. He married Elizabeth Morris, who, with their son Eleazer, came to Newark. He is mentioned in the Newark Town Records as a fence viewer Jan. 1, 1693.

Eleazer married Abigail, daughter of Capt. Samuel Swaine and wife Joanna. The Swaines came from London to Conneticut in 1635, came to Newark with the Branford Colony in May 1666. Had children: Elizabeth, born 1649; Joanna, born 1651, married Jasper Crane, Jr., died Sept. 16, 1720. Christiana, born 1659; Sarah, born 1669, and Abigail, who married Eleazer Lamson.

Eleazer and Abigail had children: Daniel, Thomas, who settled at Orange, was revolutionary soldier, and Eleazer, born 1720, died Mar. 24, 1789. He was at Rockaway, as a member of the Presbyterian church in 1779 and as a bridge inspector with Capt. Stephen Jackson and Col. Jacob Drake in 1781. His wife Jane was born 1723, died Jan. 26, 1796, both buried at Rockaway. Newark records have Moses as a son of the first Eleazer, but as the records show that he was born 1750, and died Dec. 22, 1798, buried at Rockaway, it is conclusive that he was son of Eleazer and Jane. Their other children were Daniel, who resided near the Quaker church, also Rhoda, who was born 1751, died at an advanced age and buried at Rockaway. Thomas, who was born 1755, died Jan. 27, 1838, buried at Rockaway. Benjamin, born Mar. 1, 1761, died 1824, buried at Rockaway.

Benjamin married Thankful Hathaway May 9, 1786, she was daughter of Jonathan and Lydia, and born May 15, 1787, died 1827, both buried at Rockaway. Benjamin was Elder of the Rockaway Church in 1809, and inherited the property south of Dover and lived and died there.

Children: Daniel, born Apr. 3, 1788, married Phebe Jackson July 3, 1816. She was daughter of John, the son of Benjamin Jackson. This name is not on the Jackson records however. Ira, born Mar. 29, 1792; Jonathan Hathaway, born June 2, 1799, married Lucy, daughter of Capt. Job and Sarah (Cooper) Talmage, of Franklin, Mar. 23, 1824. They removed to the Lake country in Western New York and probably died there. Albert G., born Aug. 7, 1803; sold his share of the property to his brother Daniel and went to Western New York. Benjamin probably had son Eleazer and daughters, but have no records of them.

Children of Daniel and Phebe (Jackson) Lamson, who remained on the old homestead: Jane, married Charles Thompson; Rhoda, married Hedden, of Center Grove; Chloe, never married, lived at Philadelphia; Eleazer, a school teacher, born Aug. 28, 1810, died Sept. 28, 1860, married Elizabeth A., daughter of Capt. John Seward, of Hurdtown. She was born June 10, 1812, died Mar. 14, 1893, both buried at Berkshire Valley. Charles, married Nancy Chrystal, of Dover.

Children of Charles and Nancy: Alfred, married Sophia Ann Cooper, daughter of David, of Franklin. Marcus, went to war in 1861; George went West; John C., married Esther Ayres, of Franklin present, resident of the old homestead. Martha, married Jacob Kontz, of Ninkey.

As will be seen by the church records, the latter part of the last century and the first part of this no stationed minister was at the Rockaway church, and if we consult the marriage records at Morristown we would find that at this period a large part of the marriage ceremonies were performed by the Justice of the Peace, generally spoken of as 'squire.

Esq. Benjamin Lamson held that office at this period, and his finances must have been largely increased by the swains, young and old, in all this region around about. Tradition relates of one unprofitable investment. A twice widower, a resident of Pigeon Hill, had contracted a matrimonial alliance with a young widow, a resident of the mountain region above Hibernia, which under peculiar circumstances did not materialize. The best laid plans of mice and men, etc.

The arrangement was that the widower's neighbors who had team and conveyance, was to go to the widow's and bring all her household goods and chattels, including a barrel of soft soap, an indispensible article in those days to every thrifty housewife, and appear at 'Squire Lamson's where the widower would meet her and they two would be made one, and then proceed at once to the home of the widower, where a wedding supper would be in waiting, prepared by the neighboring wives, and all, young and old had been invited for a grand jollification.

A messenger had been dispatched to 'Squire Lamson's to apprise him of the fact. The good natured 'squire immediately set his house in order; threw on an extra supply of wood in the open fire place, to give them a warm and comfortable reception, as the temperature out was below the freezing point.

At nine o'clock, the appointed hour, the parties arrived, the widower, like many others, could not stand prosperity, and his friends had induced him to imbibe too freely of the ardent spirits of that day, and on his arrival it took two of his friends to conduct him to the house. The widow, took in the situation at a glance, and would accept no apologies, but informed the would-be groom, that he was not the man who came up in the Hibernia mountains in search of a wife and made a contract, and that she would not marry him under any circumstances.

The wedding supper, which had been prepared with great care and skill under the supervision of the neighboring housewives, must not be allowed to spoil, and it would certainly not save over until the next event, so all went to the house of the widower and great was the jollification thereof.

Another and similar circumstance happened soon after, so that the guests, many of them, could boast that they had partaken of four marriage suppers, at the residence of their friend only twice married.

There might be a moral attached to to this bit of ancient history, that would benefit the present day and generation, but I shall not interfere with the morals, the manners or customs of that day or this.

Thanks for your e-mail.

First, there is a book titled "Obadiah Seward and Descendants" while the title page shows the complete title of "Obadiah Seward of Long Island, New York and His Descendants". it was published December 31, 1947 and copyrighted in 1948 by Frederick Whittlesey Seward, Jr. M. D. It was produced by the Press of the Independent Republican, Goshen, NY. For the most part it is accurate, however, several researchers disagree in a few areas.
1. Samuel Seward (1754-1828) married Abigail Pitney not Elizabeth Keen as stated in the book. The error was due to a mix-up by the DAR, which they have since corrected their records. Elizabeth Keen did marry a Samuel Seward. Some believe it was your Samuel, but it has not been documented.
2. Daniel Seward (1760-1846), was the son of Samuel Seward (1735-1816). He married Elizabeth Stewart of Westmoreland County, PA. He was not the son of Isaac Seward as stated in the book.

Regarding the children of Samuel Seward (1735-1816). The Solter website says "all believed to by by his first wife". LDS Records list a Sarah Seward daughter of Samuel & Unknown Seward born Abt 1774, another record shows she was born 21 Jul 1782. Is this the Sarah who married Joseph Billiter about 1790? LDS Records list a Christening in the First Presbyterian Church in Morris County, NJ on 30 Apr 1786 of a Ann Julina. Only Samuel Seward, father, is shown. Is this Ann, the daughter of Samuel & Unknown Seward? How do we know what is correct? Perhaps the 1790 Census could help.

Obadiah (II) and Ann (Anna) Bigs (Biggs) Seward did have a Samuel born 1708 but he married Mary Hodge on 15 Oct 1724 and died in 1750 in Long Island. Could the Samuel who married Elizabeth Keen have been a son of the above Samuel? I do not have any information about his family.

Regarding the Seward line from William Seward, I can send you a gedcom of what I have if you want it. My line is from Samuel (son of Isaac Seward and Phebe).

Do you have more information about the descendants of Samuel & Unknown Seward's children?

Hi All--
I've been able to find some information regarding Obadiah and Dinah Seward. It looks like they are the parents of Obadiah Seward who married Isabel Luse. Obadiah and Isabel are the parents of Samuel Seward. I just haven't been able find out anything about the children of Samuel Seward--but it looks like his wife was Elsie Gentry (Jentry). Now keep in mind that I, personally, cannot document this information. It looks like the Seward family came from England and into America in the early to mid-1600's. I'm not sure if the first immigrant came into New York or New Jersey. It does look like this IS the correct family because there is a Susan and a Mehitable that would be sisters to Samuel.

I.Obadiah Seward, born 1676 prob. Brookhaven, Long Island, NY, married Dinah ?, born 1680, probably Brookhaven, Long Island, NY
1.Obadiah Seward, born 1702 prob. Brookhaven, Long Island, NY, died 1751 Morris Co., NJ, married Isabel Luse, born circa 1706, probably Brookhavn, Long Island, NY
A.Eliakim Seward, born 1724 Morris Co., NJ, died 8 Oct.1784
B.Susan Seward, born 1726, Black River, Morris Co., NJ, married ? Canada
C.Obadiah Seward, born circa 1728 Black River, Morris Co., NJ, probably died young
D.Mehitable (Nettie) Seward, born 1728 Morris Co., NJ, d 15 April 1812, married Nathan Cooper, born 22 February 1725, died 20 December 1797 NJ
E.John Seward (Capt.), born 22 May 1730 either Black River or Chester, Morris Co., NJ, married Mary Swayze, born 3 April 1733 Southhold, NY, died 29 February 1816 Florida, Orange Co., NY
F.James Seward, born 1732 Black River, Morris Co., NJ
G.Isaac Seward, born 1733 Black River, Morris Co., NJ, died about 1768, married Phebe ?
H.Lydia Seward, born 1735 Black River, Morris Co., NJ
I.Samuel Seward, born 1737 Black River, Morris Co., NJ--OUR LINE
J.Daniel Seward, born 1738 Black River, Morris Co., NJ

This information has that James and Samuel Seward were some of the first settlers of Columbia and Butler Co.'s, Ohio, moving there in 1789. Most of this information was posted by Amy Bouge. (I'll have to go back and get her email address.)
Does this match the information that Gladys received from her daughter and for what Phyllis sent to Karen? If so, then I can contact Amy and let her know she has some new cousins!
Has anyone been able to find a list of children for Samuel? If so, please, pass along--thanks!
So many questions and so few answers! Now we get to test our researching abillities--so nice to shake off the 'rust' after such a long 'dry' spell!
Let me know if this helps or if it's 'old hat' information that the rest

I forgot to congratulate Jim regarding the website! You have done OUTSTANDING work and it is GREATLY appreciated by all of us--please, NEVER, forget this. We will never be able to thank you enough for creating and maintaining this site and sharing it with everyone. Your dedication to finding our ancestorial lines is reflected on this site.

I haven't been able to go back and check all of my records--so I'm asking some question:
Was 'Old Joe' in Maryland or North Carolina first? Was it 'Old Joe's' descendants that moved to North Carolina--or was 'Old Joe' a descendant of the Billeter line that was in North Carolina and then he moved to MD?
I haven't been able to access all of the information that David Gerth has compiled so I'm hoping you all can help me get this line situated. (Thanks!)
If I can get my 'bearings' on the Billiter line then I might be able to help with some of the migration patterns. The Billiter family might be a little 'out of sync' with some of the patterns--but the Seward line seems to be much more compatible with the known patterns.
I know Jim is going to have an opinion and I'll be waiting to hear from him!

Donna,

I've seen several conflicting family groups on the Seward family.
Especially in the names of wives.

This is the list of children for Samuel by Phyllis Solter. I found it at Rootsweb but I can't remember exactly where!

Samuel Seward Sr. 1735-1815. 1st wife unknown. 2nd wife Liddie Mitchell, married 1789 Stokes Co. NC.

Children: John, Mehitable (Abner Leonard), Mahala, Lydia, Daniel (Elizabeth
___), Mary (Sylvester Thompson), Ann (Zebedee Billiter), Sarah (Joseph Billiter).

(Remember one of JoeBB's daughters married a Thompson also.)

This group of children is fairly consistent with other information. I imagine it's compiled from the estate records of Samuel Seward. I read that Mehitable and Abner divorced in Indiana and the divorce record stated they were married in Fayette Co. PA in 1784.

Margaret Whitehead, the lady who sent me the deed, thought that George Houston may have been a son-in-law. I'm not sure why she thought that except that it had something to do with the land deeds. I asked her to send me the other deeds on Samuel but I haven't heard anything.

It seems like she said there was also an estate settlement for Daniel Seward. That was probably Samuel's son.

I've found Seward information on Rootsweb, Ancestry and LDS site. Like I said earlier, some of it is conflicting and it's difficult to locate sources for much of what can be found on the web.

Karen

Ralph is planning to retrieve Samuel Seward's will in Bracken Co, KY soon.
Hopefully then we can get a positive tie for the Sewards in Bracken (adjacent to Grant Co, KY and to Brown Co, OH) to Stokes Co, NC.

In the next few weeks I plan to visit the Maryland Hall of Records and retrieve Old Joe's original arrival information cited by Skordas. I've corresponded with Dave Gerth recently and he's working on some data that may indicate that Billiters were in the colonies well before 1671.

Best, Cousin Jim

Gladys,

Dave Gerth told Jim Billiter that someone had sent him information about a land deed between Joseph Billiter and wife Sarah of Fayette Co. PA to George Houston of Bracken Co. KY. The deed said that Sarah was the heir and daughter of Samuel Seward, dec. He also said there was a land deed in Stokes Co. NC in which Joseph witnessed a deed for (I think) Samuel Seward.
I contacted a researcher in Bracken Co. KY because we weren't sure where the deed was located. Last week she sent me a copy and sure enough it identifies JOseph's wife as Sarah SEward. Hooray! Samuel apparently died in Bracken Co. KY around 1816 and the deed is dated 1824. I found information on Samuel's lineage on Ancestry.com. I don't know how accurate it is but it goes back to a William Seward in 1604 in England.

It's hard to believe Joseph's wife has been identified. That looked like a slim to none possibility. This North Carolina connection also appears to tie Joseph into the Maryland to NC Billiters. So-- exciting happenings!

If you need more info, let me know. If I know it, I'll let you know!

LINCOLN'S STATE DEPARTMENT*

This is a New York story. It has to do with William H. Seward of Orange County, secretary of state for all of Lincoln's terms and all of Johnson's; with Hamilton Fish of Westchester, who served during the war as unofficial ambassador to the then alienated city of New York, and who succeeded Seward for eight years; with William H. Evarts of New York, who was closely associated with both, and who succeeded them for four years; with John Bigelow of Ulster, ambassador to France; and finally with Thurlow Weed of Greene County, Seward's lifelong friend and often called his alter ego. All of these were citizens of New York State and all but Evarts lived on the Hudson River in the area where our Dutchess County rules her neighbors so benignly.

Just to be cosmopolitan, we will add two gentlemen from Massachusetts: John Quincy Adams, whom Seward admired and whose policies he pursued; and his son, Charles Francis Adams, protege and lifelong friend and associate of Seward.

Like his chief, Abraham Lincolm, whom he so loyally served, Seward was the victim of attacks, perhaps the most bitter in American politics. Unlike Lincoln, however, Seward never defended himself well and the judgment of contemporary history has been sadly servile in repeating the old, foul stories, while it has at the same time belittled his great services.

There is one great exception to the long sequence of historical dispraise. Henry Adams, the son of Charles Francis Adams and one of the most perspicuous of our historians of national politics, called Seward "the great man." Of his diplomatic victories, Adams remarked that those won in 1863 by Seward were as important in statecraft as the capture of Vicksburg was in the war, and that their effects lasted much longer.

Abraham Lincoln, too, stood by his secretary of state when a hostile Congress sought to obtain his dismissal. He confronted the disaffected legislators with the object of their bitter attacks; the opposition faded away and was no more heard of.

In the time at my disposal today, I propose to ignore this mudslinging and to confine myself to the five great crises which Seward confronted in his capacity as secretary of state, and which he and his successors won for the honor of their country. Will you then give attention to these five points:

First, the Confederacy, a state in rebellion, belligerent, but not recognized as a national government.

Second, freedom of the seas and the status of neutral nations; the raiders and the rams.

Third, Mexico and the Monroe Doctrine.

Fourth, Alaska, the great bastion of American continental defense.

Fifth, the defense of President Andrew Johnson against impeachment.

First, just a footnote of facts about this great, but little known, secretary of state. He was born in 1801 in the village of Florida in Orange County, and moved to Auburn, New York. He was twice elected, in 1830 and 1832, to the New York State Senate and refused a third term. He was twice elected governor of New York, in 1838 and 1840, and declined to run again. He was twice elected United States senator from New York, in 1848 and 1854. At the completion of the latter term, he was appointed secretary of state by Abraham Lincoln and continued in office after the president's assassination and during the full term of Lincoln's successor, President Johnson. Then, after forty years in politics, he retired and visited Mexico as the honored guest of the nation, made a notable tour of the world, and died in 1872.

In personality, Seward was a tall, thin, sprawling figure, always with a cigar in his mouth, the picture of a Middle West lawyer. He earned a most enviable reputation as an attorney in cases on patents and in criminal law, between 1844 and 1848. Henry Adams describes him as free and easy in talk, somewhat rough hewn, but good-natured. He was a great whist player and in his later years played every evening. For years, he was an almost daily visitor at the home of his friend, Charles Francis Adams.

It was characteristic of Seward that he never lost a friend. His two most devoted ones were his young son Frederick, a distinguished official of state in his own right and his biographer, and his adopted daughter Olive, who edited his literary remains. In matters political he was liberal and humane. He worked for the reform of prisons, for an understanding and compromise with the Roman Catholic position on public education, and for the removal of all obstacles to freedom in the arrival of refugee slaves upon free soil. His advocacy of reforms was not confined to the question of slavery, which sometimes led him into the danger of being regarded as a professional radical. I believe, however, that in this period when so many causes created splinter parties, he always sought to unite the do-gooders with his own Whig inclinations.

Before Abraham Lincoln took up the battle against slavery, Seward, in 1850, refused to accept the second Missouri Compromise and insisted that there was a higher law than the Constitution. In 1858, he used the phrase "irrepressible conflict" in speaking of the rebellion, and expressed the opinion that the nation must be all slave, or all free. As early as 1848, he had said, "Slavery must be abolished, and you and I must do it." In all this he was much more explicit than Lincoln. Nevertheless, when the time came that war was on the horizon, he worked almost desperately to ward it off while Lincoln took no open step to avert it.

In 1862, Seward negotiated an important treaty with Lord Lyons of Britain, agreeing upon the suppression of the slave trade and conceding the right of search upon the high seas of ships suspected of trading in human cargoes.

Like Lincoln, Seward suffered from the bitter hatred of his opponents in the war and shared in the attempt of John Wilkes Booth and his associated assassins to destroy the leaders of the union. Seward was injured by an assassin in his own home so badly that he always limped after it, and his jaw remained a permanently broken member, while his wife and daughter died from the effects of their treatment and shock.

His most unfriendly critic was Gideon Welles, who shared with him the distinction of being the only two cabinet officers to serve Lincoln throughout his term. As secretary of the navy, Welles may be credited with a considerable share in the remarkable growth and achievement of that arm of war. That he was not above criticism was indicated by his utter disregard of the proposal for the building of monitors and by his stupid interference with the official report of the Battle of Mobile Bay, which prevented the recognition of Captain Theodorus Bailey, who commanded the first division of the Union fleet that broke past Forts Jackson and St. Philip and made possible the capture of New Orleans. Admiral Farragut, who planned and commanded the attack, followed him with the main division and honored him by sending him as messenger to Washington with the official news. Unfortunately, Farragut's clerk inserted in the dispatch a line of battle which Farragut himself had revoked before the battle. Welles pounced upon this, introduced it as the official account, and put Captain Bailey under suspicion of having for his own interest presented a false report. Bailey was too proud to protest at the time, but a year later, too late, the correction was made. Thus the navy lost one of its most promising higher officers; it set him to catching blockade-runners. I mention this because Captain Bailey was of old Dutchess stock.

To return then to my points. With his friends Charles Francis Adams as minister to England, and John Bigelow as consul general to Paris, later minister to France, Seward's policy was magnificently maintained. Although the great European powers accepted the belligerency of the Confederate States, which was indeed obvious from the size of their armies, they never recognized the Confederacy, as they certainly would have done but for Seward's diplomacy. The incalculable advantages accruing to the Union are too numerous to be itemized here. The failure of the mission of Messrs. Yancey, Mason and Slidell to secure favorable attention from the powers was perhaps due as much to their mistakes as to Seward's diplomatic skill, but certainly Seward gave them no opportunity of profiting by his mistakes.

Although Seward did not succeed in preventing the outfitting of the Alabama and the Florida in English shipyards, and their subsequent raids on American commerce, so disastrous to our merchant marine, he nevertheless laid the basis of the breach of international law thus committed which eventuated under his successors and was so successfully pleaded by his friend Evarts, resulting in what has become known as the "Alabama Claims," although each has come to be known by other names. The sum of fifteen million dollars award was, of course, a mere token, but neverthless it brought up short the arbitrary claim of England to be the unqestioned mistress of the seas.

The second part of this problem was the successful prevention of the two vessels of war, which were ironclad rams from the shipyard of Messrs. Laird of Great Britain. They might have destroyed a great part of the United States' blockading fleet. It was this victory to which Henry Adams attributed such praise. No more exciting story in diplomatic history was ever written than Henry Adams' narrative of the wheels within wheels of English politics at this time. He was then private secretary to his father, the United States minister. All honor should be given to Charles Francis Adams for his own magnificent struggle against heavy odds, because he himself gives the greatest credit to Seward for planning the campaign and for supporting him by every means against the universal diplomatic assault before which so many American secretaries of state have cowered and fled.

The position of Mexico in the light of the Monroe Doctrine refers to Seward's successful ending of the Mexican war of defense against Maximilian, Napoleon III's protege. By every means short of war and by the incessant efforts of John Bigelow, Napoleon was finally convinced that the United States meant business. Seward very wisely and courageously prevented Grant from invading Mexico and merely threatened Napoleon with 30,000 stand of American arms delivered to the Mexicans if his withdrawal of French troops was not immediately forthcoming. Napoleon's bravado proved to be a mere bubble easily pricked, but at the time he was riding high in prestige. He had even proposed war in association with England to compel the United States to recognize the Confederacy.

The fourth great point in Seward's diplomacy was the climax of his policy of expansion by the purchase of Alaska from a friendly Russia, whose good will Seward had cultivated. At the time it was known as "Seward's Folly," but it may be doubted whether even Seward in his most optimistic moments ever expected Alaska to become a state. The purchase of Louisiana alone surpasses it in the history of American expansion, but Louisiana was thrown overboard by Napoleon to lighten his ship of state and the honor of its purchase must be divided between Chancellor Robert R. Livingston, who deserves the major amount of credit, and his rival, James Monroe.

Finally, the fifth of his great services was his defense of Andrew Johnson against the atrocious assault of his enemies in the United States Senate. Seward refused to abandon his chief when everyone else did, and his best friend, William Evarts, conducted the defense, being then attorney general and a fellow member of the cabinet. Hamilton Fish, who during the war had been a tower of strength in the troubled city of New York by heading the Citizens Union Committee, carried out his friend's policies in pursuance of the Alabama claims.

What other secretary of state can show an equal record of achievement? What other secretary of state worked under conditions of incessant hostility from his fellow members in the cabinet, as well as from his own political opponents? What other secretary of state was more loyal than was Seward to his great chief? The two were such close friends that Seward was charged with trying to dominate Lincoln's policy, and the jealous Gideon Welles even wrote a book to show that he did not succeed in this nefarious effort. Lincoln only said, "I leave all the business of state to Seward," and he stuck to it. As a member of the cabinet, Seward, of course, uttered his opinions. He has been credited with urging a larger war plan upon Lincoln, and even with suggesting the second of the great drafts. He was accused of preventing the return of McClellan to the command of the armies.

These are minor points and cannot delay us in this restricted summary, nor can the desperate efforts of Seward to awaken Mr. Lincoln from what he thought was a state of lethargy in the weeks just preceding our entrance into the war. Lincoln's conduct at this time is susceptible of several interpretations.

Thurlow Weed, who played Colonel House to Secretary Seward, and who was his lifelong friend and supporter, was never, whatever his faults, far wrong in his judgment of men. When the great crisis came and England was on the point of war with us in '63, Thurlow Weed at Seward's request went to England and organized the first great propaganda bureau that I know of established in a foreign country. To Weed, Seward shipped every prominent American that he could lay his hands on to go to England and tour it under Weed's guidance telling the nature of the Union cause. Henry Adams was immensely impressed with Weed's success in this first great propaganda machine, which succeeded finally in turning the all-important public opinion of the true-born Englishman back into its traditional currents of freedom, justice and morality.

Thus, in the darkest, or at least the shadiest period of American history, the bright star of Seward's skill and devotion to high ideals shone out over Europe. It might be hoped that some present-day Thurlow Weed might strengthen the hand of our neighbor, Mr. Edward Murrow, in his desperate endeavors to raise the rating of American policy among the world public.

No one was more confident than Seward of the great role America was to play among the powers of the world. He recommended the purchase of Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and other islands of the seas. He realized better than others of his time the meaning of the vast expansion in American population and strength. With the successor to John Quincy Adams in national policy, he stood for internal improvement.

It seems to me that in these centennial years the great secretary of state should be permitted to stand in history beside his great chief, honored in our minds as Lincoln honored him with his full confidence. The greatest of all Lincoln's state papers, the Emancipation Proclamation, was deferred by Lincoln upon Seward's urgent plea that proper timing was essential, and that only after a victory at arms would so radical a document be accepted.

Seward proposed the adoption of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments because he considered them forced at the point of the bayonet upon the Southern legislators. A few days ago, an American commentator, noting this fact, suggested that these amendments be re-written and re-submitted in our own time. It may be doubted whether so radical a step would achieve the results desired in the face of the opposition, but Seward, as a great lawyer, was perfectly aware of the value of law in consolidating popular opinion and making it valid.

I believe therefore that a more profound study of this man's work might be of present value in completing the "unfinished task remaining before us bequeathed to us by these honored dead."

A Newburgh man, while sailing along in his sloop, lost his watch overboard, and cut a notch on the side of the sloop, where it was dropped, intending to dive for it when his boat reached Albany.

Poughkeepsie Daily Eagle, May 3, 1877

DUTCHESS COUNTY CATTLE SHOW AND FAIR OF 1820

On the morning of Thursday, November 2, 1820, at an early hour the roads in the neighborhood of Washington Hollow were filled with carriages, wagons, horsemen and cattle, all converging on the grounds attached to the inn maintained by Luther Gay. Throughout the morning residents of the county continued to arrive and the assembled crowd was estimated to number between four and five thousand, a throng which must have well surpassed all expectations. (The newspaper reported that "many ladies of the county attended and added by their presence to the pleasures of the day.")

The occasion for the gathering was the Dutchess County Cattle Show and Fair, which was becoming an annual event, sponsored by the Dutchess Agricultural Society, and held in connection with its fall meeting.

"The Reverend of the Clergy, Judges of the Court and other Magistrates, as also the Public Officers, together with the public generally, were respectfully invited to honor the meeting with their company."

Announcement had been made that all livestock and other articles that were to be entered into competition must be registered and ready for inspection at the place of exhibition by ten o'clock in the morning. The committee of arrangements, composed of William Bard, Richard T. Van Wyck, Thomas L. Davies, Stephen I. Brinckerhoff and Abraham Bockee, had met the evening before. They had appointed several inspecting committees whose duty it would be to judge the entries in the various categories and to decide upon the winners.

The society gathered at twelve o'clock in Mr. Gay's long room and a procession was formed under the direction of the sheriff, Gilbert I. Ketcham, as marshal of the day, in the following order: the president of the society, Isaac Smith; the vice-presidents, Nathaniel Pendleton and Warren DeLancey; the secretary, William Broom; the treasurer, Henry A. Livingston; the attending clergymen; the judges of the court and the attorney general of the state. They were followed by the members of the executive board of the society: William Bard, Abraham Bockee, Stephen I. Brinckerhoff, John Brush, Thomas L. Davies, Fyler Dibblee, George B. Evertson, Richard James, Bernard Mathewson, give the admissions to the church, and the baptisms and marriages by the several pastors for the last two hundred years. These records seem to have been very fully kept. Biographical sketches of the early settlers of Stonington, and other valuable matters, are also given.

Much of the civil as well as the ecclesiastical history of Stonington is embodied in these pages. The author has been long and widely known for his extensive knowledge of the history and genealogy of his section of Connecticut, and particularly of his native town. It was through his research that the ancestry of President Grant was clearly traced to New-England (ante, xxi. 174). In the volume before us he has given us the result of the labor of hours not employed in his profession for many years if not for a lifetime.

The book is from the Riverside Press, Cambridge, and does credit to the printers, Messrs. H. O. Houghton & Co. J. W. D.

Notes and Queries; a Medium of Intercommunication for Literary Men, General Readers, etc. Fifth Series, Volume Second. July—December, 1874. London: Published at the office, 20 Wellington Street, Strand, W. C., by John Francis. [Sm. 4to.]

The second volume of the fifth series of "Notes and Queries" contains matter of the greatest interest to the scholar and the antiquary. The number and variety of subjects in this volume indicate that English scholars and antiquaries are as busy as ever in exploring obscure and doubtful points in literature and history. It is with pleasure that we observe the number of American contributors increasing. Boston and Philadelphia furnish contributions to this volume. There is no reason why the number of American contributors should not be still larger, since the matters discussed in Notes and Queries have just the same interest to us as to native born Englishmen. Wherever the English race is, there must also be a never dying interest in the history and antiquities of Old England.

The volumes of Notes and Queries contain so much historical and antiquarian matter, and so much criticism on literary subjects, that no author, in the higher sphere of authorship, can get along without consulting them. The whole series form a mine of varied and profound learning, and deserve a place in every well appointed library. C. W. Tuttle.

DEATHS.

Deane, Henry Ware, Boston, April 7, aged 27, a student in the Medical School of Harvard University. He was born in Boston, December, 1874, and was the youngest and last surviving son of the late William Reed Deane, Esq. An obituary of his mother, Mrs. Abby (Doggett) Deane, is printed in the Register, xv. 280.

Mr. Deane graduated at Harvard University in 1869, and before commencing the study of medicine, taught a few years in a classical school. He was a man of rare excellence of character, and a life which promised great usefulness is suddenly cut short.

Drew, Margery Pepperrell, in Newfield, Me., May 6, 1875. She was born in Kittery, March 17, 1799, the daughter of Andrew Pepperrell Wentworth, and great-great-granddaughter of Lt.-Gov. John Wentworth, of New-Hampshire. She was the widow of Andrew Drew, of Newfield. See Register, iv. 338*b*.

Gookin, Warren D., at his residence in Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 23, 1874. He was the son of Richard and Rebecca Gookin, and was born in Haverhill, Feb. 16, 1810, being the sixth gen. in descent, from Major Gen. Daniel Gookin, who died in Cambridge, Mass., 1686–7.

Seward, the Hon. William Henry, in Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 10, 1872. He was born in Florida, county of Orange, N. Y., May 16, 1801. His first emigrant ancestor settled in Connecticut, in the reign of Queen Anne. Mr. Seward was the son of Dr. Samuel S. and Mary (Jennings) Seward. In 1819 he taught school for a few months in Georgia, and in 1820 graduated with honor at Union College; studied law with John Duer and Ogden Hoffman, eminent jurists; admitted to the bar in 1822, and settled in Auburn in 1823; president of a state convention of young men in 1828, who supported John Q. Adams for re-election to the presidency of the United States; member of state-senate in 1830-4; in 1833, made the tour of Europe; a candidate of the anti-masonic party for governor of New-York, in 1834, but elected to that office in 1838 and 1840; from 1842 to 1849, practised his profession; 1849-61, United States senator; secretary of state in the administrations of Presidents Lincoln and Johnson. Mr. Seward may properly be said to have been one of the foremost originators of the whig party, and afterward of the republican party. He became very early known as an uncompromising opponent of American slavery, and by his speeches before the people and in congress, and by his personal influence he labored earnestly not only to prevent the territorial extension of that institution, but to curtail its influence in the administration of public affairs. His opinions and theories, openly and boldly declared, served not only to create and consolidate parties in sympathy or opposition to such views and theories, but to stimulate and intensify political feeling in both sections of the country. He opposed all compromises on the subject of slavery; nevertheless he supported Mr. Clay, Gen. Harrison and Gen. Taylor for the presidency. In 1860, he was a candidate in the national convention of the republican party, but was defeated by Mr. Lincoln, contrary to the expectations and probably contrary to the preferences of a large majority of the party of which he was the chief concocter and ablest member.

As secretary of state during the civil war and during Mr. Johnson's administration he showed masterly ability, and contributed more than any one else in civil life to the final success of the union cause.

Yet it must be confessed that he often exercised, and permitted his subordinates to persist in exercising, authority not conferred by law, either civil or military, which in many instances resulted in gross injustice and lasting injury to innocent persons.

While in the legislature of New-York and in the federal senate Mr. Seward took an active interest in all important questions. He advocated general education, internal improvements, and reform in law and chancery procedure, and, as to political or party measures, whether he was acting with or in opposition to the dominant party, he declared his opinions and sentiments with perfect fearlessness. His moderation of manner and language and his courtesy in debate were, however, as remarkable as the force and wide-spread influence of his utterances. It is believed that he was never guilty of undue personalities, offensive language or unparliamentary conduct during his public life. His influence in the cabinets of Presidents Lincoln and Johnson was very great, as it was upon the country at large.

Mr. Seward had naturally a philosophical mind, and a fondness for abstract thought. This tendency was apparent in both his public and forensic addresses and speeches, as well as in his formal writings, but he lacked the breadth and strength of intellectual power of Marshall, Webster, Calhoun, or Silas Wright. He was not a scholar, but he had scholarly tastes and aptitudes, and if he had not been engrossed in politics during the greater part of his life would undoubtedly have left behind him some worthy and lasting product of his inquisitive mind. In 1849, Mr. Seward wrote the life of John Quincy Adams; and selections from his own addresses, speeches, correspondence, &c., were published in 1853-62, in four volumes.

Mr. Seward was a member of a large number of literary societies, and received, in 1851, the degree of doctor of laws from Yale College.

SPOONER, Thomas, Enfield, Conn., May 31, 1874, aged 73 years, 7 months and 1 day. He was descended from William[1] and Hannah (Pratt) Spooner of Dartmouth, Samuel[2] and Rebecca (Weston) Spooner, Amaziah[3] and Lydia (Fay) Spooner, Thomas[4] (his father) and Martha Smith Spooner, of Hardwick, Mass. His three children and six of his seven grandchildren survive him.

GOOD MEMORIES OF SCHOOL DAYS

COMMEMORATIVE BRICKS at WHS MEMORIAL & at Log House were objects of much interestthis Fall, as flowers bloomed profusely, and new bricks were engraved (see pg 344). Orders are now being accepted for Spring engraving. Let names of your family become a part of history of Grant County. Names for WHS walkway are restricted to graduates, faculty, board members of WHS. Names for Log House Pathways may be for anyone who has contributed in any way to Grant County history. We do have many names, ancestors from the era of ARNOLD, business persons, organizations, and one African-American, a supportive worker in downtown. Send your $37.10 and desired 3 lines of 14 spaces each, to wise and experienced Mrs. Daniese CAHILL, 214 Humes Ridge Rd, Williamstown KY 41097, (606) 823-2051 by March 15.

100% PARTICIPATION ON WHS BRICKS has been achieved by WHS CLASS of 1942, as led by Mary KENNEDY Foley, fulfilling her Christmas 1996 promise to a now-deceased class member that his class would be 100% by Christmas 1997. To celebrate this, she constructed a special Christmas letter, headed by a picture of the Memorial, and wrote to each member or their representative, "Just think of all the people who are going to enjoy walking on us, as they could never do before". What WHS class can be next to achieve 100%participation?

ANOTHER GREAT PROJECT- COMMEMORATIVE BRICK WALKWAYS & MEMORIAL- at the new GRANT COUNTY High School, to be completed in 1998 on Warsaw Road in Dry Ridge, will soon be in full swing. Names on these bricks will be restricted to graduates, faculty, and board of education members from any of the high schools in the Grant County School District. Separate walkways may be dedicated to each high school . . Corinth, Crittenden, Dry Ridge, Mason, and Grant County . . to remember the important parts these schools played in the history of our community. All Historical Society members will be receiving a copy of the brick form. The Grant County Board of Education is cooperating fully. For information please contact the young and enthusiastic Mrs. Billie CAHILL, 2150 Dry Ridge-Mt.Zion Road, Dry Ridge KY 41035, or (606) 824-5389. What shape should the Memorial & picture take?

MARKING OTHER HISTORIC SITES in Grant County with bronze markers is a Project that has now been selected by the Society, to be under the direction of Harold R CONNLEY, with help from those volunteers who offer to help him. He asks for input from anyone as to prospective historic sites, preferably in writing, with dates and reason for being historic. It may have architecture outstanding of its type or typical of its time, or a historic family/event/business may have been or is there. This will be an on-going project, beginning with those sites most carefully documented, but not necessarily in any order of importance or age, except that it should be over 75 years old to be historic, and should be of positive rather than negative importance. The owner of any site will have to agree to the marking, perhaps make a donation or partial payment of marker cost, and agree to having the site listed for historical tourism viewing. Perhaps there will be a form to fill in. For a list of 52 possible sites, partially documented by NKADD's 1985 "Survey of US 25 Corridor Structures", see Newsletter #8 pg 38. Please contact Mr. CONNLEY at 1990 Baton Rouge Rd, Williamstown KY 41097 (606) 824-5016 with your ideas and offers of help with checking documentations.

Franks 1976

Other settlements were made on the Western side of the County. Jacob and Nathan Franks made homes in the present Mount Zion district. They were fur traders who had come into Kentucky from the district of Michigan. Jacob Franks is said to have acquired four thousand acres of land in 1790 from John Craig of Lexington, who held a patent for this land from the Virginia legislature. Jacob Franks lived just east of Mount Zion. The land remained in the family for many years. His son and grandsons lived on the home site in a large two-story brick house, which is remembered by many who are still living. One of his sons was John Franks. James C. Franks, born 1800, and his wife were both natives of Grant County. They were married in 1818. His wife was Frances Cogyle, daughter of Daniel Cogyle. Soon after they moved to Owen County but later moved back and had a farm at Folsom. His descendents eventually settled around Stewartsville. Isabel Lanter

Points 1976

Some years later Luke Points settled near Mount Zion with his wife Mary Hutcherson Points and family. Luke Points had come into Kentucky as a boy with his father from Virginia. The elder Points had been one of the earliest settlers in Anderson County. Mary Points was a native of Maryland. They attended the Lebannon Presbyterian church and are buried in the church yard cemetery. Luke Points was born in Virginia in 1770 and died in Grant County in 1840 when struck by lightning. His wife Mary Hutcherson Points was born in Maryland in 1774 and lived until 1866. One of their sons was Squire William Points. Isabel Lanter

Grant County News,

Footsteps Of The Past,

Gough 1976

James Gough and his brother established themselves in Grant in the year 1798. The land grant from Virginia extended in a great triangle over to Fork Lick on the east and out Keefer Road as far as the location of Shiloh Church and North to the old Threlkeld residence, where they made a clearing and built their cabins. James Gaugh is buried between the highway and the railroad just north of the house.

They kept a tavern here. It was known as "Goughes" for many years. When the railroad came through in 1876 the station was called "Gaughes" or "Turner" station for the man who was the station agent at that time. Sometime later the name was changed to "Mason" as it is called to day. Isabel Lanter

I. Lanter Kendall 1976

Just north of the John Meyers' house there is today an old rock foundation and a well midway between the house and the Gardnersville Road. This was where the Tolgate house stood in the early days when Sterne Kendall was the overseer. There was a story that people used to tell of a ghostly white shadow that would meet the traveler who was out after dark and float along by the horses head if a man was on horse back or dance along by the side of the foot traveler until he reached the cross road then disappear in the night. The ghost was called "old Doty", a highwayman who had been killed near the Tolgate house. People were careful to get home before dark and avoid a walk with the ghostly shadow of "old Doty".

I. Lanter Seward 1976

Another settler at Dry Ridge was Daniel Seward and his wife Elizabeth Stewart Seward. Daniel Seward was born in Morris County, New Jersey, in 1760. He was drafted into the Militia in Fayette County, Pennsyvania, in 1779, to guard the frontier. He died near Dry Ridge in 1846.

Subject: Seward genealogy windfal (Courtesy Jim Kuttler)!

Remember Sarah Seward, Joe the Boat Builder's spouse? Newly found from the Bracken Co, KY, 'magic deed'? (Courtesy Karen Romick and Dave Gerth)

Jim Kuttler, a Seward descendant, just aent me a wonderful genealogy GEDCOM file which includes Sarah m JoeBB... and light years more information beyond that.

I found his post (on Ancestry) by accident the other day, and asked that he drop A GEDCOM for about five gens of Obadiah Seward's (Jr) descendants, plus ancestors of Obadiah. Sarah Seward m JoeBB is Obadiah's granddaughter.

From just a quick peek a few minutes ago:

There are five or so generations preceding Obadiah in the Seward line.
There are extensive notes.
There are Seward collateral lines going to HAWS in the late 1400's.
William Henry Seward, Lincoln's and Andy Johnson's Secretary of State, Governor of New York, and purchaser of Seward's Folly (Alaska) from Russia, was second cousin to John Billiter (m Lucy Ann CROW) and to Noah C Billiter (m Eleanor DOBBS).
My children, Rene Marie and Lucy Ann Billiter, and Ralph's children, Carrie Lynn and Tracy Lynn Billiter, are then 2nd cousins, 5 times removed to the Seward of Seward's Folly. Neat!
There are extensive notes about Samuel Seward of Bracken Co, KY.

I've attached Jim Kuttler's GEDCOM file for those of you who may be interested.

It happens that Jim works at the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Lab, just about two miles east of my home. So, I'm going to offer him a nice lunch, on me, sometime in the coming weeks, but after tax season. ;-)

Best, Jim Billiter
